

Yankees Smother Reds With 15 Hits

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — The powerful New York Yankees won their 19th World Series in a five-game romp over out-classed Cincinnati, crushing the Reds in a humiliating 13-5 barrage yesterday in the loosely played finale.

With Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra both out of action due to injuries, the American League champs still mounted a 15-hit attack against a parade of eight Cincinnati pitchers, the most ever used by one team in a series game.

Johnny Blanchard, Mantle's replacement, slammed a two-run homer as the Yankees routed loser Joey Jay in a five run first inning. Hector Lopez, subbing for Berra, smashed a three-run homer off Bill Henry during another five-run explosion in the fourth.

All during the warm, summery afternoon the muscular Yanks battered the Reds' pitchers, and also took advantage of three errors by Cincinnati's sloppy defense in running up the score.

The crowd of 32,589 had only two chances to cut loose in full steam, but even that enthusiasm was dampened by the Yanks' first inning splurge.

In the third, Frank Robinson hammered a long home run deep into the corner of the bleachers in right center, about 400 feet away, with two men on. Momentarily the Reds were back in the ball game, trailing only 6-3, but the drive fizzled when John Edwards fouled out with men on second and third and two out.

Again in the fifth there was a stirring and a stomping at Crosley Field when Wally Post slashed a

West Chester Whips Nittany Booters, 4-1

By CRAIG YERKES

West Chester's powerful Ram booters withstood Penn State's furious second half rally and hung on to win, 4-1, before 1,000 fans on the Lions' soccer field Saturday.

Down 3-0 at the half, the Lions bounced back strongly and except for a gift goal late in the final period State dominated the second half action.

However, it was West Chester's experience and depth that proved the difference in the long run. The third place 1960 NCAA team started nine lettermen and an all-veteran forward line, while State used eight new faces during the game.

In the first half it was all West Chester as the Rams tallied twice in the first period and added another in the second. Joe Brownholtz drew first blood for the Rams by crashing a shot past State goalie Dave Grubbs from 25 yards out.

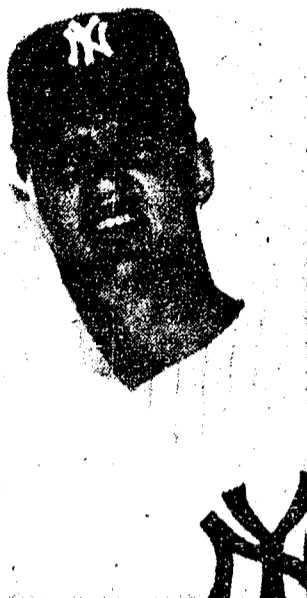

With less than two minutes left in the first period, the Rams got their second goal on a mixup between Grubbs and sophomore fullback Mickey Mastil. Ram center-forward Don Williams tapped a slow dribbler toward Mastil, and the young fullback deflected it past Grubbs and into the Lion nets.

"Dave should have called for the ball," said Lion coach Ken Hosterman. "It was his ball the moment he left the goal unguarded," Hosterman said.

Ram captain Joe Fulk added to the Lions' woes by cashing in with West Chester's third goal at 13:40 of the second period.

The halftime statistics were overwhelmingly in favor of the visitors, as they outshot the Lions, 22-2. It looked as if it would be a long day for Hosterman and a mild workout for the Rams.

"The show we put on during the first half was embarrassing," said Hosterman. The Lion coach was so furious that he gave one of his rare tongue-lashings during the halftime break. Apparently this was just what the Lions needed because it was all State in the second half.

RALPH TERRY

two-run homer off Bud Daley. By that time the score was 11-5 and it really didn't matter.

The Yankee triumph made Ralph Houk only the third man to lead a team to both a pennant and a World Series victory in his first year as manager. Only Bucky Harris, the "boy manager" of Washington in 1924 and Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946 had accomplished the feat.

It was the 36th American League series success to 22 by the National and broke a two-straight streak by the National which had won five of the last seven. The Yanks now stand 19-7 in series competition.

Ralph Terry, unable to stand the prosperity of a 6-0 early lead, was knocked out in the third inning. Left-handed Daley went the rest of the way and got credit for his first series victory.

Along the way to this lopsided rout, Bobby Richardson tied a five-game series record with nine hits, although Babe Ruth once had 10 in four games.

Before two minutes had passed sophomore inside-left Tom Flanagan followed a missed shot from five yards out and State was in the scoring column.

It was easy to see that the Lions were fired up when they intercepted West Chester's kickoff and immediately drove to the Ram nets.

While State dominated the rest of the second half they could not score again, although coming close on four occasions.

"I know it sounds like sour grapes, but with a few breaks the score would have been in our favor," Hosterman said. "In fact in that third period, I thought we were going to beat them."

The Lions coach said the whole team deserved credit for bouncing back in the second half, and singled out sophomore center halfback Dieter Heinze for his fine all-around play.

"Heinze did a lot of running in that miserable first half," he commented. Along with Heinze, the rest of the Lion defense did a fine job of keeping the ball in West Chester territory in the second half. Jay Stormer and captain John Miller repeatedly broke up West Chester attempts to get untracked.

Romulus Hayakawa

We discovered him this summer on the Isle of Elba and not only was he a former Penn Stater ('57) but president of his house, Delta Too Delta. Now as a beachcomer partaking of strong drink and even stronger women, he had aged prematurely. Prodded with a few lira, his tale of woe was revealed to us.

One night four years ago, after hours of deliberation he packed his bag and disappeared, his house not having heard from him since. Assuming (as life was cruelly taught us) a woman to be the cause, we asked her name. With tears welling in his eyes, he came forth with this shattering revelation.

No, a coed had not caused his demise. It seemed that as house president in 1957 he commissioned a traveling photographer to do his fraternity composite. Shortly thereafter upon finding that he could have had it made at Coleman's at the same price and with a 6 week delivery time rather than 6 months . . . he could no longer face his brothers. Self indicated by the guilt of ignorance, he disappeared and this is where we found him . . . by sheer coincidence.

Two to one that by the days end the wrath of the gods will pour down upon us from yonder Valhalla where resides the Diety of Decorum. This pertaining to the rare photograph just added to our display case. Anyway, her name is Judy Norton and she is equally beautiful from the front. Is there a fraternity willing to be the first on campus to have their composite in natural color?
