

Disciplinary Procedure Explained

By DAVE RUMKEL

(This is the second in a series of articles discussing the men's disciplinary system at the University. Today the procedure at a tribunal meeting will be outlined.)

The usual steps in a disciplinary cases begin with a report of a student violating a University regulations. The report is submitted to either a counselor coordinator or to Assistant Dean of Men Daniel R. Leasure.

This report is submitted by the person who apprehended the student, Leasure said. It may be either a residence hall counselor, a Campus Patrolman or State College or state policeman.

When a case involves a student living in the residence halls it is referred to the counselor coordinator in that area, Leasure said. "If the student is living downtown, I handle his case," he explained.

After receiving the report, the counselor coordinator or Leasure, talks with the student to learn his views concerning the incident.

After this talk the dean of men's staff member handling the case decides whether he will take care of it himself, send it to the appropriate tribunal for its recommendation or refer it directly to the dean of men's office, Leasure said.

If the coordinator handles it himself the case is ended, unless the student appeals. This process will be explained in a later article in this series.

If he refers it to the dean of men's office, the student and possibly the person apprehending the student will have a hearing before a member of the dean of men's staff.

But, if it is referred to the tribunal, a separate hearing of the case is held by this board, he added.

The tribunals review the case material presented by the counselor coordinator before the student is presented to the board. This report describes the disciplinary situation, the previous attitudes and behavior of the violator, the student's report of discrepancies noted in the counselor's report and the counselor's recommendation for handling the case.

At the hearing, the tribunal may call witnesses validating either the story of the counselor or the student, Leasure said.

After the tribunal hears all the evidence and asks all the questions it wishes, it deliberates and makes a recommendation which is referred to the coordinator. The final disposition of the case is then decided by the coordinator after consulting with the dean of men. The student is then notified.

ERNEST GUNTER SCHMIDT, German puppeteer, stands surrounded on all sides by his famous "family in wood." He will present his cabaret, sponsored by the Simmons Series Tuesday night.

German to Give Puppet Show

Ernest Gunter Schmidt, a noted German entertainer, will present a puppet cabaret at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Hetzel Union assembly room. He will be sponsored by the German Department and the Theatre Arts Department as part of the annual Simmons Series.

Dr. Philip A. Shelley, head of the German Department, said that Schmidt will present a series of scenes which will be largely satiric. He said some of the scenes will be in English and some will be in German.

Dr. Walter H. Walters, head of the Theatre Arts Department, added that the program would be a commentary on social conventions. "Schmidt happens to find humor in them," Walters said.

The Simmons Series is a group of programs, usually featuring lecturers and singers, which has been sponsored by the German Department for 16 years in honor of the late Lucretia V. Simmons, former head of the German Department and a former dean of women.

Shelley said that Schmidt would present parodies on Elvis Presley, Picasso, the traffic problem in big cities and modern dance. He added that Schmidt has been touring with his show at other colleges and universities in the United States.

Admission to the puppet cabaret is free to the public. A reception will be held in the HUB lounge after the program.

State Convention Elects 4 Students

Four University students were elected recently to state offices at the state convention of the Young Republicans' College Councils held in Harrisburg.

Frank Wright, senior in accounting from Mifflintown, was elected state-wide chairman; Barbara Baer, sophomore in political science from Mt. Vernon, N.Y., was named state secretary; Karen Meyer, junior in education from Hatboro, was selected editor of the Young Republicans' College Council newsletter; and Larry Rousch, senior in marketing from Hummels Wharf, was named district director of the college councils.

Pennsylvania is divided into 12 Republican college councils. A 4-state Mid-Atlantic College Council convention will be held in December in Pennsylvania.

WHY...

- WHY are some people urging the federal government to spend billions more on electric power plants when the federal budget is already hard pressed to meet the nation's defense needs?
- WHY are some people trying to get the government to spend money needlessly on federal electric transmission lines instead of using existing and planned facilities of the investor-owned electric light and power companies?
- WHY do certain pressure groups keep pushing for more federal government electricity when the electric light and power companies can supply all the power the nation will ever need?
- WHY should the federal government spend money needlessly when it can get money instead—through the additional taxes the investor-owned electric companies will produce if they supply all of the power for the future?
- WHY should the federal government ever waste its effort on jobs American industry can do better, especially when there are so many other problems in the country and the world that only the government can deal with?

The answers to all of these questions are important to you—because they can help curb further waste of your tax money.
