

Preregistration Plan Explained by Koser

By DAVE RUNKEL

Preregistration for seniors may become a reality on campus this year, Robert M. Koser, assistant registrar said yesterday.

A miniature Rec Hall has been set up in the basement of Carnegie for this purpose. About eight women are pulling out class cards to match a student's class choices on his master card, Koser said.

This is done exactly as students would do it in Rec Hall. A woman gets a master card and goes around to the different department boxes arranged in a square around the room and pulls out the class cards which the student has indicated on his master card, he said.

Cards were pulled for the present 11th term students first, he said, so this is a type of senior preregistration. The women are proceeding downward according to term standing. Now they are working on students who will be in their eighth term next winter.

Koser said that the plans for winter term registration have not been completed. "We are waiting for the statistics we receive from this preregistration before all the plans are made," he said.

The ideal, he said, would be for each student who does not have any changes to make from the card he presented at fall registration to go through a shortened version of registration.

Koser also said that he is working on eliminating, for the winter registration, some of the cards providing additional information that students must complete. He said that he hopes that such groups as the chaplain's office and the department of public information can use, for the winter term, the

Chapel Will Hold 'At Home' Today

An "At Home" will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today and every Friday in the Memorial Lounge of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

The purpose of these "At Homes" is for students to get to know each other better, to become acquainted with the chaplain and his staff and to occasionally meet informally one of their professors, Mrs. Laura Davis, hostess for the program, said.

Area Council Considers Publishing Newsletter

A report on the feasibility of publishing a Pollock Area student newsletter is currently being prepared by the Pollock Area Council.

At a meeting Tuesday night, the council decided to take a survey to determine the amount of student interest in the project. The result of the survey will determine whether council takes any further action. Bruce DeWolfson, president, said no estimate has been made of the cost of the newsletter pending the result of the survey.

Grad Study, Aid Information Supplied by Willard Office

Junior and seniors interested in graduate study and financial assistance should be starting to apply now, E. B. Van Ormer, assistant dean of the graduate school, said recently.

Catalogs and financial assistance information circulars for graduate schools throughout the country can be obtained from the files at the Graduate School Office Suite, 101 Willard.

There is a separate file of circulars concerning special areas, such as biological sciences, business administration and social sciences, and another containing information about scholarships and fellowships available from industrial organizations, foundations and federal agencies.

Several reference books concerning graduate study and financial assistance are also available. Van Ormer said, among these are "A Guide to Graduate Study" and "Fellowships in the Arts and Sciences."

Many foundations have fellowship deadlines coming up very soon, Van Ormer said. These are the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for first year graduate study, with a deadline of Oct. 31, and the National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellowship, for study in the sciences, including economics and sociology, with a Nov. 1 deadline.
