

Lions Host Syracuse

Soccermen Will Battle Maryland

By CRAIG YERKES

Penn State's booters face their third stiff test in three games when they try to knock powerful Maryland from the unbeaten ranks this morning on the Lion turf at 11.

The soccer field is located at the end of Pollock Road near the Ice Pavillion.

Lion coach Kenny Hosterman has switched his front line for the important contest.

The change was necessitated by a knee injury to regular right wing, Eddie Hinojosa. Since Hosterman is strong at center-forward, with both Kenny Link and Ted Jones on hand, he has switched Jones to wing for today's encounter.

John Miller

Hovie Farrer has been moved to inside left, Link will handle center-forward, Tom Flanagan will play inside right, and Glenn Ream will hold down right wing.

Hosterman has depth and versatility in his line as he still has regular Val Djurdjevic in reserve. Hosterman can insert Djurdjevic and switch the others around since all but Ream have played more than one position this year.

The real question for Hosterman this morning is whether State can slow down the high-geared Terp offense. Maryland has scored 17 goals in just three games.

The Terps, last year's NCAA runners-up, are shooting for win number four. Already they have downed Virginia, 3-0, clobbered North Carolina State, 10-0, and nipped Army, 4-3.

In the N.C. State game, Juan Carlos Martin set a new school record with 11 goals.

(Continued on page eleven)

Elmira Express Rolls State, Syracuse Coaches Juggle Starting Lineups

By DEAN BILLICK

"Stopping Ernie Davis is like trying to stop a runaway express." That's quite a statement to make, but coming from Syracuse coach Ben Schwartzwalder, it carries quite a bit of authority.

For three years now, opposing players have been trying to stop the "Elmira Express," and the results have been anything but satisfactory. This afternoon Penn State faces the task of either stopping Davis or going down to its third defeat and the job might be difficult.

So far in his career at Syracuse, few teams have been able to successfully complete the task. Last week against Nebraska the powerful 6-2, 210-pounder toppled Syracuse's career touchdown record by scoring two touchdowns. That raised his career total to 27 and it bettered the old mark of 25 TD's set by Jimmy Brown, the Cleveland Browns' star.

Davis also is closing in on two other Syracuse records held by Brown: career scoring and career yardage. Davis needs only 18 points to outdo the 187 scored by Brown and needs only 195 yards to better Brown's rushing total of 2,091.

"Ernie has to be the best running back in college football today," Schwartzwalder said. "He has the rare combination of size and speed that makes for a great back."

When asked to compare Davis and Brown, the Orange coach neatly sidestepped the question. "Brown and Davis are different types," he said. "Jimmy may have been a little bigger and had a little more power, but maybe Ernie can do some things that Jimmy couldn't."

The question is one that soft spoken Davis does not worry about. "Guys like Jim Brown come once in a million years. I'm trying to do the best I can. I just want to play like Ernie Davis."

Here's the way Schwartzwalder talks about his All-American. "In our opener with Oregon State, he came up with two sprained ankles and a shoulder so badly bruised that he couldn't lift his arm above his head."

(Continued on page ten)

By JIM KARL

No, Rip Engle and Ben Schwartzwalder aren't getting a cut of today's program receipts—it's just that Syracuse has eight gridgers sidelined with injuries and Engle has decided to revamp Penn State's lineup for today's Beaver Stadium battle with the top team in the East.

With all the new faces expected to see action today, the fans will literally need a scorecard to tell the players, and visiting scouts will probably think they made a wrong turn at Lewistown.

And to make a strong point even stronger, Engle is probably scratching his head this morning trying to come up with a starting eleven.

The Ripper said yesterday that he plans to bring 14 players before ABC's TV cameras when he introduces his "starting" lineup during the customary pre-game festivities.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected to watch the battle for eastern supremacy under cold, cloudy skies, while uncounted TV viewers throughout the East will watch the regionally telecast contest from their favorite armchairs.

Starting time is 2 p.m.

No doubt about it, Engle has his problems today, but Schwartzwalder would probably trade places with him in a minute.

The Syracuse coach has six players sidelined with broken hands, starting quarterback Dave Sarette has a bruised shoulder, and guard Dave Meggyesy just got out of the Syracuse infirmary where he was bedded down with an infected arm.

"I honestly can't say right now," Schwartzwalder said yesterday when asked if Sarette would play.

Sarette himself was a little more emphatic. "As of now I don't expect to play," he said yesterday as he relaxed in his hotel room at the Penn-Belle in Bellefonte.

"I haven't been under center all week and when I tried to limber up today I couldn't do much."

Sarette injured his shoulder against Nebraska last week when was tackled near the sidelines and fell over a bench.

Meggyesy is expected to start at guard despite his stay in the infirmary.

(Continued on page ten)

LEADING SCORER: Halfback Don Jonas, Penn State's leading scorer with 26 points in four games, limbers up his kicking toe as quarterback Don Caum holds the ball. Jonas has converted three out of four field goal attempts and hasn't missed an extra point in five tries. He has two touchdowns to his credit, a six-yard scoring burst against Navy and a 16-yard TD reception against Army.

State-Syracuse Lineups

STARTING LINEUP

No.	Wt.	PENN STATE	Pos.	SYRACUSE	Wt.	No.
88	200	Schwab	LE	Sweeney	225	89
79	228	Monaghan	LT	Feidler	215	77
62	200	Blasenstein	LG	Meggyesy	210	63
51	205	Huffman	C	Stem	210	56
67	230	Rosdahl	RG	Mazurek	220	62
76	220	Farkas	RT	Brown	230	76
86	215	Mitinger	RE	Mackey	210	88
25	195	Hall	QB	Sofsian	205	24
46	195	Kochman	LH	Davis	210	44
14	195	Jonas	RH	Brokaw	195	16
34	205	Hayes	FB	Meyers	210	82

TIME: 2 p.m.

PLACE: Beaver Stadium

WEATHER: Cloudy and cold with a chance of light showers.

STARTING LINE AVERAGES: Penn State (214); Syracuse (217).

STARTING BACKFIELD AVERAGES: Penn State (198); Syracuse (205).

NEXT WEEK'S OPPONENTS: California at Penn State; Holy Cross at Syracuse.

SERIES: Penn State leads, 17-16-5.

CAPTAINS: Penn State (Smith); Syracuse (Stem and Brokaw).

OFFENSE: Penn State (Multiple T); Syracuse (Unbalanced T).

EXPECTED CROWD: 45,000.

ALTERNATE UNITS

PENN STATE: Baker, Anderson, Smith, Sieminski, Galardi, Hart, Saul, Caum, Powell, Gursky and Torris.

SYRACUSE: Ericson, Mingo, Spillet, Sokol, Slaby, Franco-vitch, Huettner, Raner, Fallon, Humphreys and Charette.

CRACKS STARTING LINEUP: For the first time this season, Roger Kochman (R) is starting a game. He moved up to the first unit after picking up 54 yards against Army. Others in the starting backfield are (L-R) quarterback Galen Hall, right halfback Don Jonas and full-back Dave Hayes.