

7 Disciplined for Disorderly Conduct

Seven men students involved in disorderly conduct cases were given probationary penalties through the men's disciplinary system last week, Daniel R. Leasure, assistant dean of men said Friday.

A senior in business administration was placed on disciplinary probation until the end of the present term. The student was arrested on charges of insolence to a State College patrolman following the football game with Army, Leasure reported. The patrolman was directing traffic at the corner of College Ave. and Garner St. when the student who was walking by called him a "fuzz."

The student, who police said was very much under the influence of alcohol, pointed a finger at the patrolman and said "Okay fuzzy, anything you say," when the officer approached him, Leasure explained.

The senior was charged by police with disorderly conduct and released in the custody of his fraternity president, Leasure said. He paid a $25 fine and $9 in costs.

The probation was recommended by the Off-Campus Tribunal and accepted by the dean of men's office, Leasure explained. A student on disciplinary probation cannot hold any office or be a committee member of any student activity.

The second case involved a sophomore, also in the College of Business Administration. This student who was also intoxicated, pounded the rear fender of a car which was passing him as he was walking along Calder Alley. The driver of the car almost hit a building as he looked back to see what happened, Leasure said.

The student paid a fine of $10 and costs of $11.50 after a hearing before Col. Guy M. Mills, justice of the peace.

The Off-Campus Tribunal recommended that the student be placed on probation with the office of the dean of men until the end of the next term. The dean of men's office accepted the recommendation, Leasure said.

This probation consists of a period during which the dean of men's office closely observes the student to prevent further misbehavior.

Three freshmen charged with disorderly conduct by Bellefonte Police were placed on tribunal probation until the end of the present term, Leasure said.

The frosh, all minors, had been drinking. They each paid a $10 fine and costs, he reported.

This disciplinary action was recommended by the West Halls Tribunal. The tribunal keeps close contact with any student placed on tribunal probation to see that he is not involved in any further misbehavior.

Leasure said that two other freshmen were picked up by State College police on a disorderly conduct charge but were turned over to the dean of men's office for action. These frosh were creating a disturbance downtown and were under the influence of alcohol.

The two students were placed on probation with the dean of men's office until the end of the next term, Leasure said.

1,400 'Gamble' At 'Vegas' Nite

About 1,400 people attended the TIM Council's Las Vegas Night Saturday in the Hetzel Union ballroom, Robert Fry, TIM council president, said. He added that the council had to turn people away because there was not enough room in the ballroom.

Las Vegas Night is held annually by TIM to give students and townspeople a chance to become "gamblers." The council gave everyone attending a bundle of bogus money totaling $2,500. Gamblers could spend their money on games such as blackjack, poker, craps and over-and-under.

Fry said that a banquet for the gambling table operators and the assistants will be held on Nov. 8 at La Galleria restaurant. He added that the operators and assistants should sign a list at the HUB desk to indicate whether or not they are coming to the banquet.

Atherton Hall is named after George Washington Atherton who served as president of the University from 1882 to 1906 when it was still a college.

FCC Protest--

A similar protest to an FCC decision is being filed by Syracuse University, Carpenter said. A license to operate a commercial station was granted in the city of Syracuse but the FCC refused to grant educational TV permission for the area.

The University chose the Channel 3 outlet because engineering studies by consultants have shown that this is the only station in the area that would not cause an overlapping in reception, Carpenter said.

Corps Talks Scheduled For Today

A Peace Corps field representative, Mrs. Marise Ross, will remain on campus today for additional talks and interviews with students about Peace Corps service and training.

Mrs. Ross will be available this morning and afternoon in 117 Sparks to interview students. Informal discussion led by Mrs. Ross will be held there with students during the noon hour today.

An informal talk and a question and answer period will be held after the dinner hour today in the lounge of Atherton Hall, Mrs. Ross said.

The Home Economics Student Council will hear Mrs. Ross discuss the Peace Corps service at 8 p.m. today in the Living Center of the Home Economics Building. Other interested students are invited to attend.

Mrs. Ross is one of 50 Peace Corps field representatives chosen by the Peace Corps headquarters in Washington to visit colleges and universities throughout the United States.

The representatives will visit many of the 2,000 campuses this fall. Mrs. Ross will visit 32 of these campuses before she completes her tour Nov. 20.

The fourth nation-wide Peace Corps examination will be given locally Nov. 28 and 29 in the State College Post Office.

LESSON 2 - What about standards?

Advanced students of girl watching never waste eyeball effort watching girls who are not beautiful. Standards must be kept high.

But how do we judge whether a girl is worth watching? Although many strict academicians will shudder at our aesthetics, we must insist that a girl is beautiful if she is beautiful to you. (That's the beauty of girl watching. Every girl is beautiful to someone!) For example, many observers have pointed out that the Bare-Backed Beachbomb (see above) has a weak chin.

Yet none of these keen-eyed experts would deny that she is indeed an attractive specimen. And, speaking of standards, don't forget to keep your smoking standards high. Smoke Pall Mall!
