

Ed Policy Committee Explained by Schanz

By SARALEE ORTON

This is the third article in a series explaining the constitution and functions of the University Senate and the major Senate committees.

The Senate Committee on Educational Policy is charged by the Senate with making all recommendations concerning broad, University-wide policy. The committee's duties cover such areas as compulsory ROTC, attendance and course numbering, John J. Schanz, chairman, said yesterday.

Constitution--

(Continued from page one)
 "We must modify the constitution so it becomes logical," he said.

Lattman said that members of the committee agreed with the feeling that the constitution had become cumbersome and was worthy of reconsideration by the students.

David McKinley, associate dean of the College of Business Administration, said last night that he feels the constitution is too complex and reflects too much influence of pressure groups.

"There has been too much emphasis on detail in the constitution, he said, "and now students must get down to bedrock."

The main objective of students at the University is scholarship and all possible steps should be taken to insure that SGA doesn't become a place for "wrangling." This is time consuming and accomplishes nothing, McKinley said.

"The committee made a strong point of allowing the student to consider their constitution. If students are not satisfied, it is the moral obligation of the committee to let them work until they are satisfied," Lattman said.

Foianini said the officers of SGA and certain faculty members who have shown interest in the project will rework the constitution, "trying to eliminate the influence of outside groups."

Foianini will work to determine student opinion on the controversial topics and will use the student consensus as the basis for his recommendations to the joint committee.

Williams Cancels--

(Continued from page one)
 of administrative opinion," Miss Williams said.

"It is obvious that certain members of the committee had preconceived ideas that couldn't be changed by any amount of argument," Dennis Eisman, Campus party chairman and a member of the Senate sub-committee on organizational control, said. "The students' views don't seem important to them."

Currently, the committee has been concerned with a statement of policy concerning the definition, credit limits and admissions standards of the associate degree programs. Schanz said. A year's work on this is now completed and the committee will present its policy for approval at the Senate's Nov. 7 meeting.

Schanz said that the committee's future plans include work on the Senate Regulation E-3, which states that a student must earn at least 80 of the last 75 credits at the University Park campus in order to receive his degree. Schanz said that this rule is being investigated because of its effect on Commonwealth Campus students and those attending medical school.

It is possible that the committee will also become involved in an evaluation of the four-term system, since this is the first year it has been in effect, he said. A need may arise to change certain aspects to smooth out its operation, he said.

A special sub-committee of the educational policy committee is also working on a new statement of the purposes and objectives of the University, Schanz said. This is being done in preparation for a visit by the Middle States Association accrediting team in 1965.

The committee consists of one member from each of the colleges and the Graduate School, with Howard A. Cutler, assistant to the president for academic affairs, acting as an ex-officio member.

The faculty members are Robert K. Murray, head of the Department of History; Franklin H. Cook, professor of business law; Merrell R. Fenske, director of the petroleum refining laboratory; Winona Morgan, head of the Department of Child Development and Family Relations.

Howard B. Sprague, head of the Department of Agronomy; Glenn N. Thiel, professor of physical education; Abram W. Vandermeer, associate dean of education; Merritt A. Williamson, dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture; and Harry D. Zook, professor of chemistry.

La Vie Belle Deadline

The deadline for submitting self-nominations for La Vie Belle has been extended from Nov. 3 to Nov. 9, at the HUB desk.

Pianist To Present Concert for Series

Rosalyn Tureck, a pianist noted for her interpretations of Bach's music, will present a concert at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Schwab.

Student tickets for the concert, sponsored by the University Artists' series, will be distributed from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

today and from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. tomorrow and Friday. General admission tickets will go on sale tomorrow morning for $1.25 each.

In addition to two preludes and fugues by Bach, Miss Tureck will play selections by Schubert, Ravel, Liszt and Rameau.

Miss Tureck is a graduate of the Julliard School of Music in New York, and was a member of the Julliard and Columbia University faculties.

In 1935 she won the Schubert Memorial Contest and the National Federation of Music Clubs competition. The following year, Miss Tureck made her New York debut as a soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra in Carnegie Hall with Eugene Ormandy conducting.

After a series of six all-Bach recitals in 1937, Miss Tureck received the first Town Hall Endowment Award. From 1937 to 1955, she toured the United States and Canada.

While on a European tour in 1947, Miss Tureck was acclaimed by the London Times as "the greatest scholar and interpreter of Bach in the world today."

In addition to her concert tours, Miss Tureck has written a three-volume work, "An Introduction to the Performance of Bach." She has also written another work on Bach interpretation which will be published in 1962.

Hays Discusses--

(Continued from page one)
 agricultural and of mines and mining, the superintendent of public instruction and the President of the University.

John Thiebauth, Jr., '62
 Provident Mutual
 Campus Agent

John Thiebauth joined our unit at Penn State in January of this year. As a campus agent, his training will give him invaluable experience for the future.

As well as being the president of the Insurance Club at Penn State, John presently holds the position of chairman of the Student Traffic Court.

Provident Mutual is glad to have men like John Thiebauth among its campus agents at more than 60 colleges and universities across the country. For information about how you can get an early start in a career offering both fine rewards and independence in your work, contact our local office now!

GEORGE A. BOROSQUE, Jr.
 Supervisor

103 East Beaver Avenue
 Telephone: ADams 8-0544

PROVIDENT MUTUAL
 Life Insurance Company
 of Philadelphia

Ice Skating Forms Due

The Penn State Figure Skating Club is accepting applications for membership today through Friday. Students interested may submit applications at the Ice Skating Rink or contact Charles R. Hoff, at AD 7-3335.

Dues are $3 per year and the club offers instruction in the fundamentals of figure skating.

CREDIT STAFF MEETING

Wednesday,
 November 1

New Members
 6:45

Old Members
 7:00

131 Sackett

FREE
MEAL TICKETS DAILY
 Except Friday & Saturday
LISTEN TO WMAJ
 10:10
 nightly
 For Details
 Your Student Directory is the key to the
 New College Diner Lucky Number.
New College Diner
 Downtown Between the Movies

Let Collegian Classifieds
 WORK FOR YOU

ELECTION COMMITTEE MEMBERS MEETING

Thursday

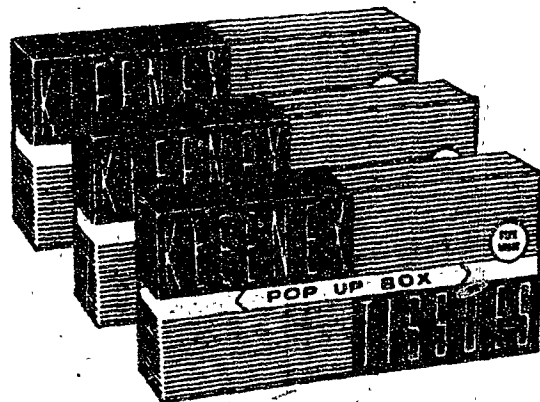

7:30 p.m.

203 HUB

Attendance Compulsory

McLANAHAN'S CUSTOMER PREMIUM This Week

3/400 SHEET BOXES

for only 25c

with a purchase of $3.00 or more

McLANAHAN'S

2 Convenient Stores

134 S. Allen St.

414 E. College Ave.