

Nittany Harriers, Booters Play Host Roles Saturday

By DAVE LEONARD

The Penn State cross country and soccer teams will be playing the host roles Saturday, but each will have a different objective.

The booters will meet Temple in an attempt to bring their 2-3 record up to the .500 level while the harriers take on Manhattan, always an eastern powerhouse, in their last week of the season with visions of a 4-1 seasonal log.

There is a possibility that Coach Ken Hosterman's top two scorers will be lost for the Temple battle.

Howie Farrer has definitely been ruled out of the game because of a chipped bone in his leg, and he may be lost for the rest of the season.

Tom Flanagan, with a pulled ligament in his knee, was a doubtful starter early this week but he has made good progress and there is a chance that he might play.

On the brighter side, half-back Jay Stormer, absent for two weeks due to an injury in the Maryland game, will probably return to action.

Without Flanagan and Farrer the Lions will be hard pressed to continue their win-lose-one pattern they have followed this season, and this is the week for a win.

In five games State has failed to put together two consecutive wins, but they also have yet to lose two in a row.

The Lions lost their first game to West Chester 5-1, won at Colgate 4-3, lost at home to Maryland 5-3, beat Bucknell away 3-2, and dropped a 3-1 decision to Navy at home last week.

While the booters are struggling along, coach Chick Werner's harriers finish off a season which has seen them lose a single meet by one point, 27-28 to Michigan State.

The Lions hold wins over Pitt, Cornell and Navy.

Werner was confident but cautious in predicting the outcome of the meet.

"We should be considered the favorites against Manhattan," Werner said. "Manhattan usually starts off slow, but they come on with a bang at the end of the season just like Michigan State."

Howie Deardorf, who last week led the Lions to a victory over Navy by breaking the course record at Annapolis, gives Werner an added threat against the Jaspers.

"Deardorf is going to be out for blood now that he has tasted victory," Werner said.

Gerry Norman, State's top man when he is right, is still feeling the effects of a three-week-old leg injury, but may be sound by Saturday.

Steve Moorhead and Mike Miller will be backing up Deardorf and Norman in the run for the tape.

After Saturday's meet the harriers will have a two week layoff before defending their IC4A title in New York.

Nit. 38, 23 Roll Along Undefeated

By MAL KLUGMAN

Two powerful football units, Nittany 38 and Nittany 23, continued their unbeaten, unscored-upon campaigns with victories over Nittany 39 (27-0) and Nittany 21 (20-0) respectively on the Beaver Stadium IM fields last night.

Quarterback Chris Robinson figured in all of Nittany 38's scoring. He led his squad to an early score with a 50-yard pass to Bob Kukla and then scored himself on a 10-yard end run.

Nittany 38 added two scores in the closing minutes of the game on a three-yard toss from Robinson to John Paglia and another end run by the quarterback. Russ Johnson kicked three extra points.

Fred Owen and Mait Lasecki figured prominently in Nittany 23's victory. Lasecki intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for a touchdown and Owen hit Lasecki with a 40-yard TD aerial.

Other Beaver Stadium scores were Nittany 28, 14, Nittany 26, 0; Nittany 29, 10, Forestry Society 0; Untouchables 3, Waring AC 0 and Nittany 36, 12 Nittany 43, 0.

Collegian Cowards Confident Of Win Over Terp Journalists

By JOHN BLACK

Collegian Coward head coach, quarterback, manager, assistant manager, water boy, publicity agent, chaperone and bus driver.

A crowd somewhere in the neighborhood of 35,000 is expected to sit in on Saturday's big football clash at College Park, Md., between the unbeaten Penn State and University of Maryland newspaper staffs.

The battle, billed as the top attraction in the Eastern Collegiate Conference of Newspaper Writers, will pit the throwing arm of John "The Paw" Black, a poor passer, slow runner, and atrocious faker, against the all-around play of Bruce Weber, Maryland's five-time all-eastern quarterback.

Both teams thus far this season sport brilliant 0-0 records. The Cowards have never lost a league game, having defeated Pitt 26-0 in 1959 and 34-8 last year. The 1960 encounter ended in a 26-26 tie.

The only losses ever inflicted on the Collegian staff came at the hands of the Collegian Cuties, a roughhouse band of female writers, and current National Women's Champions.

Led by the passing combination of Meg Teichholtz to Lynne Cereface, the Cuties handed the staff a 24-6 lacing yesterday on the front lawn of Old Main.

The staff's only score came when Joel "I - always - get - the weather - forecast - right" Myers broke through to hit Teichholtz in the backfield, causing her to fumble. Three plays later Black (why does he get to do everything?) clawed his way over for the score.

Fans desiring one of the few remaining tickets should inquire Saturday at the Maryland Intramural Fields, located on the north end of the Maryland campus.

Myers, Coward trainer, bookie and erstwhile weather prognosticator, predicts warm, sunny weather for the titanic battle, so fans are advised to carry umbrellas.
