

Injuries Hit Booters For Temple Contest

By CRAIG YERKES

Penn State's soccer team faces a real problem tomorrow when it hosts Temple's once-beaten Owls. The Lions will be without the entire middle of their front line for the Owl game.

Howie Farrer and Tom Flanagan, State's two top scorers, were injured in the Lions' 3-1 loss to Navy last weekend. Then yesterday, center-forward Kenny Link fell hard on his ankle, which resulted in a severe sprain.

Link attempted to practice yesterday, but the ankle was not strong enough, and his chances of playing tomorrow are slim.

A fourth Lion regular, fullback Mickey Mastil, will not play against the Owls because of a charley horse. Mastil was the starting right fullback earlier in the season.

Without Link, Farrer, and Flanagan the brunt of State's scoring attack will fall on the shoulders of wings Glen Ream and Ted Jones.

Hosterman also will get scoring help from Val Djurdjevic, who played inside right earlier in the year before Flanagan took over that position. Ed Hinojosa will be switched back to inside right again in an attempt to plug the gap in State's middle line.

The real problem is who will play center-forward, a position comparable to quarterback on a football team.

Hosterman had used Flanagan there, and Jones also played some at the difficult position before being switched to wing. Hosterman could use senior Dick Kuplen who lettered last year, but didn't see much action.

Saturday could prove disastrous for State, for Temple has lost only to West Chester, 1-0. West Chester is still unbeaten through seven games. Besides a loss to the Rams, Temple has won four and tied one. The tie was with arch-rival St. Joseph College of Philadelphia.

Last year the Lions upset the Owls, 2-1, in an overtime affair at Philadelphia. Most likely the Owls are still smarting from that blow, which was a blemish on a good 7-3 record.

Sophomores have been the difference for Temple. Tom Smith, Joe Flicker, and Roy Viehweger head the Owl scoring attack, while the Temple defense is also manned mostly by new faces.

Pollock Wins IM Tennis

Andy Pollock won the IM independent tennis championship yesterday by downing Dick Replogel, 8-6 and 6-4 on the Nittany Courts.

In fraternity championship play, Bill Polacek of Sigma Nu and Bill Stout of Alpha Chi Rho battled to a tie in a semi-finals match. The tie will be played-off today.

Phillies Hire Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Al Widmar, former major league pitcher, will replace Bob Lemon as pitching coach for the Philadelphia Phillies, the club announced yesterday.

Pitt Redshirt Imitates Davis During Practice

PITTSBURGH (AP) — How would you like to be Syracuse halfback Ernie Davis for a week?

That's the job assigned this week to Marvin Lippincott, a reserve halfback on the Pitt football squad. Lippincott and other reserves run through Syracuse plays so the Pitt starters can become accustomed to them for Saturday's game.

Davis of course, is one of the best runners in the nation and leads the Orange offense.

"I'm not exactly sure how I feel being Davis," Lippincott said yesterday. "I can't compare myself to him anyway. He's an All-American; I'm a redshirt."

A redshirt is a player who practices with the team but does not play in intercollegiate games. Lippincott has had this label the past two seasons.

"Everytime I run the ball," Lippincott continued, "the guys say, 'Let's get number 44.' They want to win. And Davis is the guy they want to get. They want to be where he is. If they get him, they stop Syracuse, more or less."
