

Concert to Feature Composer

Mana-Zucca, composer-pianist, along with Gimi Beni, bass baritone, and Olivia Bonelli, lyric soprano, will highlight a concert sponsored by the University Club, at 8:15 tomorrow night in the State College High School Auditorium.

The concert will be a program of arias and songs that have been composed by Mana-Zucca, one of the few noted women composers. Some of these are "Speak to Me," "Joy Waltz," "I Love Life," and "I Shall Not Want for Music."

Mana-Zucca played the piano before she was four years old and at the age of eight performed a Beethoven concerto with the N.Y. Philharmonic Orchestra at Carnegie Hall. She studied piano and composition in Europe, and has been a concert singer, musical comedy star and actress.

Mana-Zucca now composes for the piano, cello, violin and other instruments.

She has had over 1100 compositions published. A recent record, "James Farrar Sings Mana-Zucca Songs," includes many of her compositions. She has also been made an honorary member of the National League of American Pen Women and Sigma Alpha Iota.

Gimi Beni has studied at the Philadelphia Academy of Vocal Arts and spent two years in Rome on a Fulbright Award. He was a featured soloist in Radio City Music Hall and has toured with the NBC Opera Company.

Beni has appeared on several television shows, and has recently returned from performances in Israel. He is now in his second season in the touring company of the Metropolitan Opera Guild's "Cosi Fan Tutte."

Olivia Bonelli is also connected with the Metropolitan Opera Guild. She has sung in concerts, operas, on radio and television and has made best-selling recordings. Miss Bonelli has performed as a soloist with the Symphony of the Air at Carnegie Music Hall and Radio City Music Hall.

The University Club is giving free tickets and transportation to those students who can not afford the tickets, which are on sale for $1.55 at the Hetzel Union desk. Cars will be leaving from in front of the HUB at 8 p.m. Saturday.
