

Soph Board Requests Elections

The Sophomore Class Advisory Board will petition the Senate Committee on Student Affairs to permit them to hold elections for a class president this term, Dean Wharton, sophomore class president, said yesterday.

Wharton said he would submit a report to the Senate committee on how the election would be run before the committee's meeting on Thursday.

Both Wharton and James Sloane, freshman class president, said they had been granted permission to hold such an election last year by Monroe Newman, former chairman of the student affairs committee.

A special meeting of the Freshman Class Advisory Board has been called for Wednesday to consider holding a similar election, Sloane said.

Wharton explained that under the present system neither the freshman, sophomore or junior classes officially have a ruling body.

The sophomore board, which met officially for the last time Sunday, reported that $1,456.37 has been collected for the 1964 class gift this year, bringing the total to $5,400.

Marcia Michalski, class gift chairman, said the $152 in pledges is still out and will be collected personally by board members. They will also collect freshman class pledges as an advisory board has not yet been selected for that class, she said.

The sophomore board also reported a loss of $1,000 on the junior prom and suggested that in the future expenses for decorations and music be kept to a minimum. They also suggested that the dance be held somewhere other than Rec Hall.
