Alpern Ahead; Wagner Elected

By The Associated Press

Anne X. Alpern, Democrat, overtook and passed Allegheny County Judge Henry X. O'Brien, Republican, last night in see-sawing early returns in a race for State Supreme Court. Miss Alpern's edge stemmed from a flood of returns from heavily democratic Philadelphia.

In returns from 507 precincts of 9,123, Miss Alpern had 107,621; O'Brien had 106,335.

The returns included 282 precincts in Philadelphia.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City was elected to a third four-year term yesterday by a smashing margin over Republican and Independent opposition.

Political observers counted on a turnout of between 60 and 70 per cent of Pennsylvania's 602,838 registered voters.

Moderate interest was shown in five constitutional amendments, particularly one which would permit future governors to serve two consecutive terms. They are now limited to a single four-year term.

The others would allow Pennsylvania to refund overpayments of taxes or fees without special legislation, as now required; cancel real estate taxes owed by needy war veterans who are double or quadruple amputees, paraplegic or blind; permit county treasurers to succeed themselves; and permit the secretary of internal affairs to take office in January, along with other elected state officers. The way it is now the holder of this office must wait until May.

Republican Charles B. Williamson, an educator with little political experience, was elected mayor of Erie last night, defeating Democratic Mayor Arthur J. Gardner.

In most places both parties campaigned for a big turnout. And in places each expressed certainty of victory.

The Democrats cited a 155,000 margin in registration as assurance of triumph.

The most recent figures showed the Democrats with 2,841,144 registered voters, and the Republicans with 2,685,505.

But the Republicans insisted statistics alone wouldn't tell the story.

Rep. William J. Green, Democratic chairman of Philadelphia, predicted a majority here of between 100,000 and 150,000 for Justice Alpern.

George I. Bloom, GOP state chairman, derided so high a figure. He conceded Miss Alpern no more than a 10,000-vote majority in Allegheny County, which is Democratic, and also the justice's home.

Adenauer Retains Post As West German Chief

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer, at 85, was re-elected chancellor of West Germany yesterday by a margin so small that it bodes political trouble ahead.

Adenauer won his fourth term in office when 258 of the 499 Bundestag members voted for him in a secret ballot. That meant he had only eight votes to spare, since a simple majority of 250 was required to elect. Of the other Bundestag members, 206 cast their ballots against him, 28 abstained and 9 were absent.

Adenauer thus failed to get 51 votes of the 309 involved in the coalition of his own Christian Democrat party and the minority Free Democrats.

Adenauer's only comment was: "I am satisfied."

It was his closest victory since he first became chancellor by a single vote when West Germany was created a nation in 1949. He is the only chancellor the nation has known.

His small majority reflected bad blood between the Christian Democrats and the conservative Free Democrats and some apparent resentment against him personally in both parties.

The vote is being interpreted here as a sign real trouble may lie ahead for the old chancellor since he could be brought down by a vote of no-confidence if only a few more members of the coalition went against him.

Free Democrat Chairman Erich Mende has shown no great enthusiasm for Adenauer, under whom he has sworn not to serve personally. But Mende raised hopes the Free Democrats will stay loyal to the coalition agreement.

"The minority must respect the will of the majority," Mende said. "That is the law of democracy. The minority must do this whether it is agreeable or not."

Adenauer had to seek outside support to stay in office after his Christian Democrats in the Sept. 17 general election lost their absolute majority.

225 Remain in Temporary Housing; Relocation Planned for Winter Term

Approximately 225 men are still in temporary housing in the Nittany residence area and Graduate Hall, Stanley H. Campbell, director of housing and food service, said yesterday.

"There are enough spaces for the girls at present," he said. However, they are not all settled because of difficulty in selecting roommates, he added.

Of the 225 students still in temporary housing, 25 are living in Graduate Hall and the remainder are in Nittany. "They should all be relocated by next term," Campbell said.

Approximately 425 students were in temporary housing at the beginning of the term. Extra students are admitted to the University each year, Campbell said, because the exact number of students returning to campus is never known.

Room and board rates are figured on the basis of 100 per cent residence hall occupancy, he said.

"If extra students were not accepted, it is possible that only 95 per cent of the rooms would be filled," he said. Students should then pay higher fees for room and board."

Senate Kills All Hopes For Thanksgiving Recess

By SARALEE ORTON

The University Senate quickly killed the last hope for an extended Thanksgiving recess this year by adjourning immediately after the students' request was presented at the meeting yesterday.

Harvey Klein, student member of the Senate Committee on Calendar and Class Schedule, and Dennis Foianini, president of the Student Government Association presented the request.

When Foianini sat down, Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate School, moved for adjournment. His motion was immediately seconded and approved by the Senate. There was no motion or discussion of the holiday.

"The tradition of Thanksgiving cannot be eliminated by an agreement that we postpone the holiday and give thanks at the convenience of the Pennsylvania State University," Klein said, in recommending that the Senate take some action on the request.

Klein asked for a longer holiday "for the good of the families in the Commonwealth."

Foianini pointed out that the Thanksgiving holiday had aroused

"the strongest expression of student opinion in a long time." Students have signed petitions, written letters and spoken from time to time in favor of an extended vacation, he said. "It is a question of how much of a price we can pay for having an efficient term."

Earlier in the meeting, Harold J. Read, chairman of the calendar committee, had informed the Senate that his committee had rejected the students' proposal on the grounds that students had not brought up any items which had not been considered when the calendar policy was formulated.

He also said that the policy had not yet been in effect a year and should be tried for a longer period of time before any changes are made.

Student members of Senate committees are able only to request action, and depend on faculty or administration members of Senate for a motion.

In other business, the Senate approved without discussion a statement of policy on the University's Associate Degree Program, submitted by Robert K. Murray, vice chairman of the Senate Committee on Educational Policy.

This statement defines two types of degrees which the Uni-

Snow Flurries, Cold Expected

By JOEL MYERS

The coldest air of the season is expected to sweep into Pennsylvania today bringing snow flurries to all portions of the state.

Afternoon temperatures will remain in the upper 30's, and a hard freeze is indicated for tonight and tomorrow night.

Gigantic hurricane Jenny, which has stalled weather systems in North America during recent days by moving westward through the Atlantic, turned abruptly northeastward yesterday.

This change in course has already caused weather systems in North America to accelerate eastward, and a huge mass of arctic air should sweep into the Northeastern states today.

Snow flurries and gusty winds should accompany the influx of colder air, and several inches of snow may accumulate in the higher mountains northwest of here. Little or no snow accumulation is expected in the local area.

The change to colder weather began last Saturday, but the cooling process has been relatively slow because of hurricane Jenny's blocking effects. Since Jenny has begun to accelerate, colder weather is expected to spread over this area.

Tropical storm Inga is moving erratically through the southwestern Gulf of Mexico and shows no indication of threatening the United States during the next few days.

Strong gale force winds have lashed much of the western Gulf of Mexico since the weekend, and small crafts along the Gulf Coast have been urged to remain in port.

The local forecast indicates today will be mostly cloudy, windy and colder with occasional snow flurries. Temperatures will show little change during the day, and a high of only 40 degrees is expected.

A few snow flurries, mostly cloudy skies, breezy and colder weather is predicted for tonight. The low temperature will be near 27 degrees.

Tomorrow should be partly cloudy and cold with a chance of a few snow flurries. A high of 38 degrees is expected.

Friday should be partly cloudy and slightly milder followed by snow flurries and turning colder Friday night and Saturday.

All Sororities to Rush Sophomores; Six Groups Will Refuse Juniors

By WINNIE BOYLE

Six sororities announced last night at a Panhel meeting that they will not be rushing juniors. All sororities plan to rush sophomores.

The sororities that will not be rushing juniors are: Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Delta.

Rushing chairman, Janet Carlisle clarified some of the rushing rules for the Panhel delegates.

There is to be no exchange of Christmas presents between sorority women and rushees.

Sorority women are to hold no parties during Christmas vacation for the rushees.

There shall be no decorations in the suites during open houses. One floral arrangement will be allowed, but special bulletin boards will not be permitted.

There shall be no open jam sessions to which rushees are invited.

Only one type of instrument may be used to accompany rush songs, but more than one of that type may be used.

Saralee Orton, chairman of the public relations committee, announced that the council is allotted over $400 to use for a philanthropic project.

Suggested projects were the donation of funds to help in establishing a community counseling service for Centre County and the donation of funds to the Child Welfare Board of Centre County to provide foster children in the area with "extras" so that they may participate in all their school activities.

After several of the delegates protested the prank stealing of composites and trophies from sorority suites, the council voted unanimously to ask the Interfraternity Council to discourage the fraternity members from this practice.
