

West Weighs Red Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — Western diplomats assessed the new Soviet proposals to work for a satisfactory four-power Berlin solution as "probably a serious approach."

But they had serious reservations and were agreed deep probing is necessary about just what Soviet intentions are.

Among other things, these sources expressed fear that suggestions—leaked in the early hours yesterday morning—might be meant to divert attention from the current explosive situation in Berlin or to stir up public pressure to push the Western powers to the negotiating table.

Briefly, authoritative sources said the Soviet Union has left Britain, France, West Germany and the United States know that it is prepared to make a new agreement on the status of West Berlin.

When the Western Allies are satisfied that their rights of access and the liberties of West Berlin are guaranteed, they would make some sort of declaration respecting the "sovereignty" of East Germany. The Russians consider it essential that West Germany be bound by such a declaration.

No such proposals have been made directly to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, to Britain's Sir Frank Roberts or Maurice Dejean of France. Neither is West German Ambassador Hans Kroll involved.

But they were informed about the proposals and met in Kroll's office for discussion. The West German ambassador will fly home shortly to give Chancellor Konrad Adenauer a fill-in before the latter meets President Kennedy in Washington.

On the surface, the new proposals would release the Allies from earlier demands that they deal with East Germany, and East Germany alone, on access rights to Berlin after a peace treaty had given that country sovereign rights.

Yesterday afternoon, however, the diplomats were asking: What if negotiations found the Soviet Union merely holding to its position that a Berlin settlement should turn over access control to the East Germans? In that case, they said, nothing would have been changed substantially.

Western sources said the ideas were somewhat along the lines tossed out earlier in conversations between Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak and Premier Khrushchev here as well as in the talks U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk had in Washington and New York with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Despite Washington's hints to the contrary, Thompson is not currently engaged in sounding-out operations on the Berlin problem.

Gromyko conferred Thursday with East German Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz.

It appeared he told him East Germany was going to have to wait some considerable time for the peace treaty promised by the end of the year.

Khrushchev himself saw Kroll, but what was said is still shrouded in mystery. Khrushchev has now flown off on a barnstorming tour of central Asia and the virgin lands.

The significance of the proposals is in providing new evidence that Premier Khrushchev is willing to negotiate on Berlin instead of letting things get out of hand in demonstrations of force at the wall dividing the city, as happened last month.

Officials stressed that there were earlier indications, now that the Soviet party congress has endorsed his peaceful co-existence doctrine, that Khrushchev became more understanding toward the western position than he was before.

What Washington is now waiting for is some kind of official word on Moscow's four points. It might come through normal diplomatic channels, or it might come from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer who is expected here Nov. 20.

Adenauer's Moscow envoy, Hans Kroll, has been the only Western diplomat to confer with Khrushchev lately.

Kroll will report to Adenauer before his Washington trip.

Surviving Pilot Tells of Crash

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The impact of Wednesday night's Imperial Airlines Constellation crash which killed 77 persons "didn't seem like hardly anything," Ronald H. Conway, surviving pilot, said yesterday.

Conway said his craft was limping in for an emergency landing at Richmond's Byrd Field with two of its four engines out, another losing power fast, and a balky nosewheel.

Conway and his copilot, James Greenlee, fought to keep the airliner in flight to make the field runway, but it pancaked into a woodland two miles short of the airfield.

Only Conway and the flight engineer, William Poythress, 31, of Miami, survived.

Nehru Proposes Delay Reds to Keep U.S. Prisoners

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India proposed yesterday that the United Nations declare a moratorium on the cold war and set aside a year for cooperation in all fields — "political, cultural or whatever."

Nehru made the suggestion in a wide-ranging speech to the U.N. General Assembly. He came to New York after talks with President Kennedy in Washington on critical international issues.

He called upon world statesmen to devote their full strength to trying to avoid the terror of nuclear disaster instead of thinking about "burrowing under the earth and living like rats in a hole."

On the specific issue of banning nuclear weapons tests, he said a treaty providing effective controls is necessary—an issue upon which he and Kennedy had previously announced agreement.

He noted that the assembly had approved a voluntary moratorium, but added "No one imagines that voluntary moratorium is going to solve this question."

He said his reaction to nuclear tests was strong—"I think that they are basically evil."

General reaction to the 37-minute speech was favorable, but some delegates said they had hoped for more concrete proposals.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the chief U.S. delegate who listened closely as Nehru spoke, commented that the idea for a cooperative year was a good one, but not new. He said the United States has been cooperating with other nations for years.

Nehru asserted that little was being said in the world about cooperation "but much is said about conflict."

Nehru declared the future of the United Nations is closely associated with the outcome of its operation in the Congo. "The Congo has become a symbol, a touchstone of success," he said.

He expressed confidence that the crisis over Berlin and Germany can be settled "without bringing discredit or dishonor to any nation."

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP) — Laotian Communist chief Prince Souphanouvong said yesterday the six or seven Americans captured earlier this year in Laos will not be released until a coalition government has been formed.

The prisoners include Maj. Lawrence R. Bailey, assistant military attache of the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane. NBC cameraman Grant Wolfkill, and several members of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group and helicopter pilots.

Souphanouvong said if war breaks out they will remain prisoners until it is over.

Monkey Dies in Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Goliath, a tiny squirrel monkey, died in the explosion of an Atlas missile yesterday.

There was a possibility the failure could delay this nation's plan to send a chimpanzee into orbit next week and an astronaut later this year. But officials said that no plans have been changed, pending careful study of data.

The missile shot off course and erupted 30 seconds after it was launched.
