

Longhorn Upset Forecast Harriers Will Face Rough IC4A Foes

NEW YORK (AP)—Texas and Alabama, the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 football teams, this week are sitting on the same keg of dynamite which blew Michigan State and Mississippi off the pinnacle Nov. 4. The upset odds are longer, but their fate could be the same.

Attempting to improve on last week's .746 average, 41-14, we brazenly submit:

Texas Christian 18, Texas 10: The Horned Frogs have stored up a year's venom for this chance to dump an old antagonist.

Georgia Tech 10, Alabama 7: Alabama beat Tennessee 34-3, Tennessee whipped Tech 10-6, so this result is a natural.

Army 21, Oklahoma 7: The Black Knights find inspiration in Yankee Stadium.

Notre Dame 23, Syracuse 20: The Irish found new talent and new momentum in the Pitt game.

Purdue 14, Minnesota 8: The Gophers have made us look foolish three straight weeks, but they must be getting weary.

UCLA 20, Washington 7: If the Uclans are looking over the Huskies' heads to USC, there'll be hades to bear.

Duke 25, North Carolina 14: Walt Rappold's versatility and great halfback speed give the Devils the edge.

Mississippi 20, Tennessee 7: The Rebels are still trying to live down their loss to LSU.

Rice 17, Texas A&M 13: The Owls' record looks like a beserk cardiograph. The needle is "up" this week.

The others, all Saturday: Maryland 13, Wake Forest 6; Louisiana State 30, Mississippi State 7; Baylor 25, Air Force 7; Arkansas 19, SMU 0; Arizona 26, Texas Western 6; Utah State 27, Utah 14; Kansas 10, California 7.

Michigan State, Army, Cornell, and Manhattan are the teams given the best chance to dethrone Penn State at the IC4A cross country championships in New York City Monday.

The Lion harriers met three of the four above-mentioned teams in dual meets this year, coming out victorious in two of those meetings.

Coach Chick Werner's squad defeated Cornell 22-33, but the Big Red have come a long way since that October meeting.

Last week the Ithaca harriers copped the Heptagonal Championships in New York, scoring 53 points to second place Army's 59.

Army had a golden opportunity to win the meet when it placed four runners in the top 15, but the Cadets' fifth man finished 33rd.

Although the Lions defeated Manhattan, 23-32 in the last dual meet of the season, Werner was quick to point out the Jaspers' strong point. "Manhattan has five runners who consistently finish within thirty or forty seconds of each other," Werner said. "This is an essential for championship races."

Michigan State, the top challenger for the title, is the only team to record a win over State in the past two years. The Spartans squeaked out a 27-28 victory at East Lansing this year.

The Lions feel they can even the score against MSU Monday.

"I know that we have a better team than they do and we're looking forward to running against them in the IC4As," Gerry Norman said. Norman was feeling the effects of a leg injury in the Michigan State meet, but he is fully recovered now.

"We'll be out to get Michigan State," said Howie Deardorff. Deardorff has come on fast in the latter half of the season to a point where Werner gives the little Lion a chance for the individual title.

Lion Booters Lose Heinze for Season

Penn State's hopes for a winning soccer season suffered a jolt Tuesday when starting halfback Dieter Heinze dislocated his shoulder in practice.

Heinze will miss tomorrow's important game against Army and also the final game of the season against Pitt Tuesday. The steady Lion sophomore suffered the injury when he tripped over teammate Jim Gottschling's leg.

The injury came at a bad time for the Lions, who must win tomorrow if they expect to break the .500 mark. State has a 3-4 mark so far this year. A win against Army may be hard to come by.

The Cadets are only 4-4, but they have to be in contention for the hard-luck team of the year. Army's four losses have all been by one goal. One of these was in overtime and another in double-overtime. All four have been against eastern powerhouses.

The Cadets have beaten the Coast Guard Academy, 3-0, New York State Maritime College, 7-0, Yale, 2-0, and Rider, 3-1, while dropping decisions to Maryland, 4-3 in double overtime, Brockport, 2-1, MIT, 3-2 and West Chester, 1-0 in overtime.

In their loss to Maryland, a team which easily defeated State 5-3, a deflected shot that glanced off an Army defender and into the nets with 42 seconds remaining was the margin of defeat. One week later against Brockport Army again lost when a deflected shot rolled into the nets.

The Cadets' strong point this season has been their defense, which has limited the opposition to an average of less than 1.5 goals a game. Anchoring the Army armor is captain and goalie Art Brown.

Brown is regarded as one of the best goalies in the East. Last year he allowed only nine scores. Center halfback Doug Morgan is the mainstay of the Cadet halfback corps and has been a standout all year.

Offensively, junior Dynon Candon has supplied most of the punch, but the Cadets miss Bev Powell, last year's scoring ace. Powell clicked for 15 goals in 1960 and single-handedly whipped State by scoring all three Cadet markers in a 3-1 victory.

Colin Kelly and Dan Banovic are Army's two other top scorers. Like State, Army must win if it hopes to have a winning season.

Maris Nips Mantle For MVP Award

BOSTON (AP) — Outfielder Roger Maris, who made history last season by slugging 61 home runs to break Babe Ruth's record, was named the American League's most valuable player for 1961 yesterday, edging New York Yankee teammate Mickey Mantle for the second straight year.

Maris polled 202 points to Mantle's 198 in voting by 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Last year, Maris nosed out the switch-hitting Mantle by three points in the second closest race in the award's 30-year history.

Third place this year went to Jim Gentile, Baltimore's big first baseman, who received 157 points. Norm Cash, Detroit Tiger first baseman, was fourth with 151 points. Yankee hurler Whitey Ford, who won the Cy Young pitching award last week, was fifth with 109 points and ace New York reliever Luis Arroyo was sixth with 95 points.
