FIVE CENTS

SIGNS OF THANKSGIVING: At least one building on campus displays Thanksgiving decorations as a reminder of the holiday tomorrow. While most persons are turning their thoughts to Christmas, the primary and intermediate classes in the special education building at the north end of Hort Woods decorated the doorway to the building with turkeys and pilgrims. The trees reflecting in the glass give the display a realistic effect.

Business VP Resigns Post

Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, announced yesterday that he has resigned his position, effective Jan. 31, 1962.

Diem said he is not yet prepared to disclose his future plans.

President Eric A. Walker said he had accepted the resignation with reluctance and regret, observing that Diem has "reorganized the business sector of the University in his three years at the helm and today it represents one of the most efficient and most economical operations in the country."

Diem, an alumnus of the University, returned in 1958 as overseer of its business operations—physical plant planning and construction, food and housing services, personnel services and employee relations, maintenance and utilities, purchases, general services, security and management engineering.

A native of Barnesboro, Diem is a graduate of Clymer High School and the General Electric company's training school at Schenectady, N.Y. where he received three years of business training. He entered the University as a student in 1931.

Soviets Agree to Resume Nuclear Test Ban Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union agreed yesterday to resume negotiations with the United States and Britain for a treaty to ban nuclear weapon tests, but qualified the agreement with an implied call for another unannounced test moratorium like the one it broke in September.

A Soviet note delivered to the American and British embassies accepted the U.S.-British call to take up the test ban talks Nov. 28 in Geneva.

But the note warned that if some other power tests nuclear weapons while the new talks are going on, the Soviet Union will be forced "to draw the corresponding conclusions concerning nuclear tests."

In Washington, the United States ordered its nuclear test ban negotiators to return to Geneva in preparation for new talks. But it ruled out resumption of an uncontrolled moratorium.

Britain welcomed the Soviet decision cautiously and declined to be drawn into any promise to participate in a moratorium while test ban talks are in progress.

A Foreign Office spokesman referred questioners to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's recent statement, "We have been fooled once, and I am not sure we ought to allow ourselves to be fooled again."

In Paris, a Foreign Ministry

official denied that the implied Soviet call for a moratorium was directed at France, the only known other atomic power.

At the same time the United States made clear that even if the talks were resumed, it would not begin another unannounced moratorium on tests.

No Collegian Tomorrow

The Daily Collegian will not be published tomorrow and Friday. Publication will resume Saturday morning as usual.

Walker Thanks Foianini, But Says 'No' to Dinner

By CAROL KUNKLEMAN

President Eric A. Walker sent a letter to Dennis Foianini, SGA president, yesterday, thanking him for the invitation to eat Thanksgiving dinner in the Pollock dining area. The president, however, could not accept the invitation, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the president, said. Walker declined Foianini's invitation, delivered in the name of the Student Government Association, because he has already invited a group of foreign students to his home for dinner, Kenworthy said.

He added that he did not know the exact number of students who had been invited. Walker received the SGA invitation Tuesday evening, he said.

Foianini said last night that he had not received the official letter of regret in the mail, but that Kenworthy had informed him of the president's commitment in a personal interview yesterday.

Foianini would make no comment on the refusal other than "The point of my invitation expresses my feelings pretty well."

In extending the invitation, Foianini wrote:

"We would like to have you (Walker) among us as a testimony of the University's conviction that a compact term schedule is of greater importance than the traditional values of Thanksgiving."

Another invitation, also sponsored by SGA, will be extended today to Harold J. Read, chairman of the University Senate Committee on Calendar and Class Schedules, Foianini said.

Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women, has accepted an invitation to eat dinner in Waring dining hall Thanksgiving. Students have been invited to join her at the meal.

Good Travel Conditions Expected Today, Tonight

By JOEL MYERS

Partly cloudy skies and chilly temperatures are expected today as thousands of University students leave campus to spend Thanksgiving with their families.

Excellent travel conditions are indicated for all sections of the state, except for the higher elevations of western and central Pennsylvania where some ice remains from Monday's snowfall.

Students not planning to leave campus until tomorrow, and students who expect to attend the Pitt-Penn State football game this Saturday may encounter hazardous driving conditions.

Rain is expected to overspread the commonwealth from the west early tomorrow, and precipitation should be falling throughout the state by tomorrow afternoon.

Snow may be mixed with the rain in the northern counties.

Rain and windy weather will create hazardous driving conditions tomorrow night, and snow flurries, windy and colder weather should cause these unfavorable conditions to continue Friday.

A long range look at Saturday's weather in Pittsburgh shows mostly cloudy skies, cold temperatures and possible snow flurries.

The snow that accumulated to a depth of two to four inches in the southeastern sections of the state early Monday has completely melted.

The local forecast calls for increasing cloudiness and little temperature change today. A high reading of 45 degrees is predicted for the afternoon.

Tonight should be cloudy and cold and the low will be near 35.

Cloudy skies, occasional rain and cool weather is predicted for tomorrow and tomorrow night. A high of 48 is expected tomorrow.

'Beat Pitt' Rally

A jam session at 9:00 followed by a pep rally at 9:30 will be held in the Hetzel Union ballroom tonight.

Both events are being jointly sponsored by the Block "S" and Varsity "S" clubs. The Ivy Rocks will play at the jam session which will continue after the rally.

An award to the outstanding senior football player will be presented, Dale Harris Block "S" publicity chairman announced.

SANTA MOVED INTO TOWN yesterday and was quickly installed in his local home at the foot of the Mall. He will spend Thanksgiving in his "little red hut" working on small presents for students, professors and administrators.
