

Weather Forecast:
Partly Cloudy
Cool

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

WRECK
TECH

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1961

THE DAILY COLLEGIAN, UNIVERSITY PARK, PENNSYLVANIA

PAGE THREE

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS AT NIGHT: This time exposure of Allen Street looking toward the University offers a little different view of the Christmas lights of State College. At the far end of the street is the Santa Claus house. Lights from the library can be seen through the arc formed by the trees along the Mall.

—Collegian Photo by Paul Lowe

Senate Groups Withhold Approval of Constitution

By ANN PALMER

The University Senate Committee on Student Affairs and the Sub-committee on Organization Control yesterday held back final approval of the SGA constitution approved by the interim government Tuesday night.

The committee returned the constitution to the interim government with a recommendation concerning the judicial powers of the SGA Supreme Court, Laurence H. Lattman, chairman of the student affairs committee, said Thursday.

"The constitution seemed to be generally acceptable but wasn't approved because of a clause in the constitution which would give the USG Supreme Court the power to deal with the actions of other student organizations," Dennis Foianini, SGA president, said.

Foianini said the clause was incorporated into the constitution to make USG the central governing body for all undergraduate students.

"The committee in no way feels that the reversal of this judicial decision weakens its support of the student court system, which is still considered a valuable part of student affairs," Lattman said. "The situation is similar to an appellate court's reversal of the decision of a lower court in the United States."

The Senate committees authorized holding elections at the scheduled time in the winter term whether a constitution is approved by then or not, Lattman said.

The term of the interim government was also extended until such time as a constitution is approved, he said. The members of the interim government will serve until writing of the constitution is completed and newly elected members will not be seated until USG is chartered.

Foianini said he will resume work on the constitution early in the winter term.

"I am determined to make this student government a government with teeth in it. I will do everything in my power to see that it is done," he said.

Registration Outlined For Winter Term

By JOANNE MARK

Robert Koser, associate registrar, yesterday outlined the procedure to be followed in winter term registration.

Students should report to their advisers at least 24 hours in advance of the time they are scheduled to report to Recreation Hall, Koser said. At this time they will receive an IBM copy of actual course assignments for the winter term.

Registration will be held in Recreation Hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 3 and 4.

All students are to register in accordance with the alphabetical schedule appearing on page 83 of the Time Table of Classes, he said.

Late registration will be held from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Friday, Jan. 5, in 4 Willard, Koser said. As in the past, he said, a student who registers late will be charged $10 for the privilege. Any course assignments which may have been made for him will be cancelled, he added.

"Schedules have been completed for about 14,000 students," Koser said.

Failure of a course or courses in fall term; change of a program (curriculum, major or option); no opportunity to file a revised winter schedule after fall term change of schedule period, and incomplete class assignment for winter are the only instances which will permit class assignment changes, he said.

Koser reminded students to make sure they have the following articles with them when they report to Rec Hall for registration:

istration:

"A student identification card or authorization to enroll; receipt for payment of tuition and charges for the winter term; IBM copy of winter term schedule, official registration form (No. 2 card) for spring term signed by adviser, and a student copy of fall term grade report.

"In preparation of a revised winter term schedule, it will be to the definite advantage of the student if as many as possible of the assignments that have been made are retained," Koser said.

'Shramdan' Will Send Students on India Study

Operation Shramdan, a work-study project sponsored by the University Christian Association, will send five to 10 students to India next fall. Applications for the project are now available at the UCA office.

Participants will be expected to do preparatory study and to raise $900 toward their expenses. They will participate in a work camp with Indian students and work with members of the India Village Service in community development studies.

Funeral for Kakimoto

A funeral service for Harutoshi Kakimoto, research associate in mechanical engineering who was killed in an automobile accident Saturday night, will be held at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel. Dr. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain, will officiate at the service.

Clifford A. Nelson, assistant coordinator of religious affairs, said that friends are asked to omit flowers. He added that memorial contributions may be sent to the Japan Society in care of Maurice Gjesdahl, 207 Mechanical Engineering.

Band May Go to Bowl

By CAROL KUNKLEMAN

Students attending the Gator Bowl or viewing it at home via television may still get a chance to see Penn State's Blue Band perform.

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the president, said yesterday the issue of whether or not the band will attend the bowl game is "not closed."

"We are still considering the possibility of the band attending the game," he said. James Dunlop, director of the band, said earlier this week that he had been informed the band members could not attend the game because of a lack of funds.

He estimated that the cost

Red China Hit in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson denounced Communist China yesterday as a reckless, brutal power threatening perhaps the very survival of mankind. He declared that to seat Peiping in the United Nations could shake world confidence in the organization.

The chief U.S. delegate spoke in the U.N. General Assembly after Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, called for immediate seating of Communist China and expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists.

He upheld Peiping's right to crush the Nationalist regime on Taiwan by military might.

The two big powers clashed on the opening day of a historic debate on the Chinese representation issue.

Stevenson accused the Chinese Communists of operating training camps for young guerrillas from Asia, Africa and Latin America so they can spark revolutions in their homelands by sabotage and violence.

"In its present mood," said Stevenson of the Peiping regime, "it is a massive and brutal threat to man's struggle to better his lot in his own way—and even, perhaps to man's very survival. Its gigantic power, its reckless ambition, and its unconcern for human values, make it the major world problem."

Warning that the "whole future of the United Nations is at stake," he gave four principal reasons for barring the door to the Peiping regime:

• The step, once taken, is irreversible, and once admitted Peiping would stay "for better or worse."

• There is suspicion that once admitted the Chinese Communists would be encouraged to exert "by threats and maneuvers, a most disruptive and demoralizing influence on the organization at this critical moment in history."

• Its admission, under condition "in which it continues to violate and defy the principles of the charter, could seriously shake public confidence in the United Nations—I can assure you it would do so among the people of the United States—and this alone would significantly weaken the organization."

• In light of Peiping's demands, the expulsion of the Nationalists and admission of the Communists could have only one meaning: that the United Nations acquiesced to Peiping's design to conquer Taiwan and thereby "overthrow and abolish the independent government of the Republic of China."

Research Prof Dies At Stanford Center

Sidney Siegel, research professor of psychology, died suddenly Wednesday at Stanford University of what is believed to have been a heart attack.

Siegel was stricken in the office of his wife, Alberta Siegel, associate professor of child development. Siegel and his wife were on leave from the University to serve during the current academic year at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences in Palo Alto, Calif.

He had served there in 1957 on a fellowship and had been the first Center Fellow to be asked to return for a second fellowship. During the current year, Siegel had been preparing publication reports concerning the research which he and his co-workers have conducted during the past three years under grant support from the National Science Foundation and the Ford Foundation.

Siegel was born Jan. 4, 1916 in New York. He did his undergraduate work in general studies at San Jose State College and received his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees, both in psychology, from Stanford.

Two years ago Siegel and Lawrence E. Fouraker, former professor of economics, were named for the Monograph Prize Award in the Social Sciences of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences for a monograph, "Bargaining and Group Decision Making," which later was published as a book.

He is survived by his wife and his son Jay, a student at Antioch College.

Pleasant Weather Due

Partly cloudy skies and pleasantly cool temperatures are indicated for today and tomorrow. Afternoon temperatures should reach 50 degrees both days.

Tonight should be chilly, and a low reading of 30 is expected.

of the trip would be approximately $9,000. The Gator Bowl will be played Dec. 30 in Jacksonville, Fla.

"We are presently considering two aspects of the issue," Kenworthy reported. "One is the program and the other is the actual cost of the trip."

The bowl's sponsors had previously planned the half-time program, excluding the Blue Band, Kenworthy said, and the University is trying to find out whether the program could be replanned to include the band's performance, or whether another special time before or after the game could be allotted to the band.

As to costs, Kenworthy said the quoted figures were only estimates and Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics and physical education, is presently trying to determine actual costs of a trip.

"We will probably not know by Saturday whether or not the band will go," he said, "but I would say that we should know definitely by next week."

If the University grants permission for the band to take the trip, he said, band members will be notified immediately. He said he has "no idea" what the prospects were for granting permission or what the administration's feeling on the matter is at the present time.

The cheerleaders were previously told that they could not attend the game because of the expense of the trip, but this decision was reversed Thursday. Six cheerleaders will now be allowed to attend the game.