BERLIN (AP) — The United States and its Western Allies blocked a Soviet bid for a partial take-over of the air corridors that link isolated West Berlin to the outside world, it was disclosed yesterday.

Inside the divided city itself Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, the Soviet commander, failed to break a ban on his entering the U.S. sector. He turned back without a word when an American military policeman at the Communist wall asked him: "Are you Col. Solovyev?"

THE TWO INCIDENTS threatened to heat up the atmosphere in Berlin, which has been relatively relaxed since the new year. They occurred just as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko met once more in Moscow in an attempt to make some progress on the problem.

Planes flying to and from West Berlin cross 110 miles of Communist East German territory through one of three corridors. Use of the corridors is regulated by the Berlin Air Safety Center, one of the last places in Berlin where Soviet officers still work with U.S., British and French representatives. The center has been operating in West Berlin ever since the end of World War II.

ON WEDNESDAY, a Soviet officer at the center startled U.S., British and French officers with the request to reserve the Frankfurt-Berlin corridor up to an altitude of 7,000 feet for three hours and 20 minutes on the following morning. The space was needed, he said, for Soviet military transports.

No. said the Western Allies. The rules call for all flights in the corridors to be announced separately—no booking of "blocks of altitude."

Police Violence Causes Parisian Strike

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's government, caught between terror bombs of the right-wing Secret Army Organization and Communist-led rioters, contended yesterday with an hour-long strike that stalled much of Paris.

The strike was the result of a chain of violence that led from the government's efforts to make peace in Algeria.

The walkout was in protest against alleged police savagery in controlling the riot Thursday.

State GOP Meeting Cancelled

HARRISBURG (AP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom yesterday cancelled a GOP State Committee meeting in the wake of a growing party factional dispute.

The meeting had been set for Feb. 17. The pre-primary state committee meeting traditionally endorses a slate of candidates the GOP organization backs.

THE PARTY SPLIT widened Thursday when U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott reported that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had urged him to seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott indicated last night that he expects to make an announcement early next week on his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and most likely he will run.

Scott's account of his telephone conversation with Eisenhower vacationing in Fort Indio, Calif.

10 northwestern counties. However, a snow storm prevented Woodside from leaving Harrisburg for the meeting. Scott was able to fly out of Washington, despite the storm.

"As long as you have a situation such as this, there is nothing to be gained by such a meeting," said Bloom in announcing the cancellation.

SCOTT AND WOODSIDE had been scheduled to face each other Friday night in Oil City at a meeting of GOP leaders from some
