

A University bulldozer gets a head start on cleaning campus snow. More snow is expected tonight.

7 Inches in 7 Days

More Snow Due

By JOEL MYERS

After taking the form of sleet and freezing rain for several hours, the precipitation that began Tuesday evening changed back to snow yesterday morning and continued through the afternoon.

The total accumulation of snow, sleet and freezing rain from the 18-hour storm exceeded three inches. This together with the three-inch snowfall Friday and the inch of snow that fell Saturday night brings the total snowfall for the past week to more than seven inches.

More snow is expected tonight.

An energetic storm system that was just getting organized in the western Great Plains yesterday is forecast to be centered in Missouri this afternoon.

Cloudiness from that storm is expected to reach this area this afternoon, and snow should overspread the state this evening.

(Continued on page five)

Glenn Prepares For Flight—Again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—We try again today, weather permitting.

That was the official word last night from space agency officials who wrestled all day with weather forecasts and finally decided to try to rocket John H. Glenn Jr. around the earth some time after 7:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time today.

The weather prospects were still not hopeful, but they were likely to get worse after noon today. So for the ninth time, in almost two months the Marine astronaut was given another date with the cosmos.

THE SITUATION was this, in the words of Walter C. Williams, Mercury Project director: "The weather is not really good enough to proceed with great confidence, but not bad enough to be the basis for the postponement decision at this time."

Another weather briefing was scheduled for midnight, just before the final countdown was to resume.

The on-again, off-again situation apparently had failed to unsettle Glenn. He was described by space officials as still calm and taking the fluctuating situation well.

HIS ONLY RECENT mishap was a tooth chipped slightly Tuesday from unknown causes. An Air Force dentist polished off the rough edge and the astronaut's molars were pronounced fit for orbit.

It was clear both at Capaveral and Washington that the government was determined to get Glenn off just as soon as conditions would safely permit.

At his news conference yesterday President Kennedy said a delay until spring would "slow our whole space program down at a time when we are making a concentrated effort."

BUT THE PRESIDENT made it clear that he was not interfering in any way; that the decision to launch or not launch would be left entirely with space officials at Canaveral.

Panhel Will Conduct Officer Elex Today

By WINNIE BOYLE

Greek women will go to the polls today to elect the four top officers of the Panhellenic Council—vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer.

In electing next year's vice president, the voters will actually be electing the Panhellenic president for the following year.

THE PANHELLENIC presidency rotates yearly among the sororities in accordance with the date each was founded on campus. Pam Chadwick of Phi Mu, current vice president of the council, will automatically be installed as president in March. Newly elected officers will be installed at the same time.

The sorority next in line for the presidency is Delta Gamma. The three Delta Gammas running for the office are Patricia Pfordt, Jean Kennedy and Patti Sutter.

The candidate with the highest number of votes will be first vice president. The candidate placing second will be the second vice president.

RUNNING FOR recording secretary are Janice Brown, Gamma Phi Beta; Eloise Aurand, Alpha Gamma Delta; and Joan Cowan, Theta Phi Alpha.

Candidates for corresponding secretary are: Marilyn Aberbach, Phi Sigma Sigma; Judy Carter, Alpha Epsilon Phi; and Bonnie Mitchell, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Running for treasurer are Donna Sutin, Alpha Phi; Sandra Pohlman, Zeta Tau Alpha; and Carol Eckhardt, Alpha Omicron Pi.

Members of Alpha Colony, Iota Alpha Pi, Alpha Kappa Alpha, and former members of Beta Sigma Omicron are not eligible to vote, Miss Chadwick, elections chairman, said. She said the first three groups are not yet official members of Panhel, and the last group is no longer a member of the council.

Polls will be placed in all dining halls except in North and West Halls, she said. Polls will be open during the lunch and dinner periods, and women must present their activity cards to vote, she added.

Orientation Heads

Lillian Leis, junior in home economics from Clairton, has been selected to work as co-chairman of the women's orientation program, Mrs. Nancy Vanderpool, assistant to the dean of women said recently.

Sue Henderson, junior in home economics from Springfield, Va., will continue as the other co-chairman. She has served in this capacity since last spring.

Applications for orientation leaders are available at the Hetzel Union desk and are due in 120 Grange by March 1.

Congress Plans to Elect Rules Committee Head

The Undergraduate Student Government Congress is scheduled to elect the chairman of its Rules Committee at 7:30 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union Building.

Allison Woodall, South Halls representative, and George Gordon, North Halls representative, were nominated for the post last week. Jay Huffman, USG vice president and presiding officer of the Congress, said additional nominations may be made tonight.

ELECTION of the Rules Committee chairman was postponed until tonight's meeting after several Congressmen asked for more time to consider the list of available candidates.

The Rules Committee chairman has the power to appoint four Congressmen to the committee, with the approval of the Congress.

The Committee prepares the agenda for all USG meetings. This gives the committee the power to review all legislation before it is placed on the agenda.

The other way for proposed legislation to reach the floor is for the Congress to approve its introduction. A motion to bring up a bill not on the agenda would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote of the Congressmen present.

THE COMMITTEE was also given the authority, Tuesday night, to decide whether a Congressman's absence would be considered legal or illegal. The Congress can remove from office a representative who has failed to attend two regular meetings.

In other business, the Congress is scheduled to vote on the amendment to change the name of student government from USG back to SGA. The amendment proposed two weeks ago by Randy Carter, junior class president, has caused much debate in the new Congress.

At the first two of the three required readings of the amendment, many of the Congressmen spoke on the proposed name change.

Robert Fisher, East Halls representative, is leading the faction favoring the amendment, while Dennis Folanini, USG president, is the amendment's most outspoken opponent.

The Congress may also consider two proposals—one for publicity on the University's appropriations bill and another calling for an investigation of disciplinary systems on campus. These proposals were

(Continued on page three)

13 Coeds to Compete in Elections For 7 WRA Executive Positions

Thirteen candidates for seven positions on the Women's Recreation Association executive board are running in today's final elections.

Nancy Barnhart, junior in elementary and kindergarten education, is running unopposed for the office of president.

Melanie Smith, sophomore in arts and letters from Oakmont, will oppose Carol Wetzel, junior in elementary and kindergarten education from Wilkes-Barre for vice president.

Sue Bruce and Carol Deaterly are candidates for secretary. Jean Mellin and Susie Stough are vying for treasurer.

Joan Adams and Bonnie Helmig are running for sophomore representative.

Candidates for the two freshman representative posts are Cynthia Cohen, Linda Ewing, Sue Finch and Joyce Woolover. Only freshman women may vote for this office.

Polls will be open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4:30 to 7 p.m. In order to vote, a woman student must present both her matriculation card and activities card. In addition, she will be required to sign a register.

PREXY EATS IN DINING HALL—President Eric A. Walker enjoyed a chicken dinner with students in the East Halls Dining Hall last night at the invitation of the Association of Women

Students Council. Talking with him during the meal are Margie Halprin, sophomore in liberal arts from Bailey Stream, N.Y., and Dottie Rheiner, junior in education from Philadelphia.