Traveling Polls Planned To Spark Town Voting In April USG Elections

Polling stations located in traveling automobiles will be used experimentally during the USG presidential elections, scheduled for April 25, 26 and 27, Elections Commission Chairman Allen Feingold announced yesterday.

He said three cars will be equipped to handle the voting on each night of the elections. The cars will operate on S. Garner and S. Pugh streets and Locust Lane from 7 until 9 p.m. They will stop for a minimum of 15 minutes at the major cross streets.

This should serve to stimulate voting among fraternity and town independent men, Feingold said.

"IF THE TURNOUT on Wednesday night is good, the experiment will continue Thursday and Friday," he said. "On the basis of the results of this trial, I will or will not recommend this system to the Congress for future elections."

Other polling stations will be operated in all dining halls, on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building, at the Mall on Pollock Rd. and in front of the HUB on Pollock Rd. These stations will be open from 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. each day.

Feingold said the dispersion of the polling places will necessitate an Elections Commission of about 150 persons.

A MANDATORY meeting for all commission members will be held at 8:45 Sunday in 214 Boucke. Applications for persons wishing to become commission members are available at the HUB desk, he said.

Interviews will be held next Tuesday and Thursday, Feingold continued, for persons who submit an application.

Members of the commission will attend the party meeting set for Sunday night to register party members.

Campus party will meet in 119 Osmond Lab, Liberal party in 121 Sparks, and University party in 10 Sparks. All three meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

IN ADDITION to registration, University party will elect a chairman to fill the post which Elliot Newman resigned yesterday. Campus party plans to explain its aims to prospective members at its meeting.

All parties will hold primary nominations for USG posts at stake in the election April 8. Final nominations will be held, and campaigning begin, April 15,

Argentine Military Replaces Frondizi

Argentine President Arturo Frondizi was seized and removed from his position yesterday as the culmination, just one step short of complete military rule, of a series of events which began March 18 when several supporters of deposed dictator Juan D. Peron won surprise election victories. Military leaders first insisted that Frondizi resign. When he refused, troops seized the Argentine equivalent of the White House as well as other Buenos Aires buildings and radio and TV stations.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — With the military's blessing, Jose Maria Guido took office as Argentina's president yesterday, replacing his banished friend Arturo Frondizi.

Guido, who has been president of the senate, was first in line for the job under the constitution but was reluctant to take over. The military leaders who ousted Frondizi finally persuaded Guido to take the presidency.

FRONDIZI, who embraced his tearful wife and peacefully surrendered to arrest, was flown to imprisonment on a navy island in the River Plate not far from Buenos Aires as the military leaders finally carried out their long-threatened coup.

Guido was sworn in before the Supreme Court.

The 5-foot-4, 51-year-old lawyer, an associate of Frondizi and a member of his Intransigent Radical party, finally agreed to front for the military bosses nine hours after the president had been whisked away.

GUIDO often has acted as temporary president while Frondizi was away on foreign trips.

The military rulers thus open the way to solve their No. 1 problem left by the ouster of Frondizi—the formation of a constitutional government that would avoid outright military rule.

But their second big problem—how to deal with the 2.6-million voters who still cling to ex-dictator Juan D. Peron who dogged the days of Frondizi throughout his four years of rule—remained.

BEHIND THE PERONIST perils: the grave economic sickness inherited from a decade of Peronist dictatorship which Frondizi's austerity policies fell short of curing.

The reaction to the coup by the believers in Peronism—backed by some 100,000 underground Communists and Castroites—could be violent. So could be the effect on Argentina's angry students who fear another military dictatorship which may try to control their thinking.

In a long communique explaining their action, the military leaders declared they were shelving Frondizi because he lacked the moral and political fiber to unite the nation again and lead it against the great social disturbances threatened by resurgent Peronists.

FRONDIZI was arrested by a naval officer at his suburban residence in the early morning as a crowd outside sang the national anthem. He was rushed to an airport in a five-car caravan and put on an air force plane for the 30-mile hop to Martin Garcia Island. There he was imprisoned in one of the comfortable houses of a naval officer.

U.S. Embassy spokesmen said Frondizi's fall automatically suspended diplomatic relations because "there is no constituted government with whom we can have official relations."

Chamber of Commerce Lists Local Housing Accommodations

A revised list of available housing in the State College area is being compiled by the local Chamber of Commerce.

An increased number of recent requests from prospective residents led to the establishment of the housing list, Llewellyn Harries, acting executive vice president of the chamber, said Wednesday.

The list will be maintained for rooming houses which have single, double and multiple units available.

Students wishing to use the service may visit the Chamber of Commerce office at 128 1/2 S.

Allen St., Harries said.

There has been a steady flow of requests from students in the past week, Harries said.

Property owners who would like their names placed on the list should call the chamber office, AD 7-7644, and give the type of facility, rental price, location and the date the housing will be available, Harries said.

The chamber, which did not maintain a housing list last year, established the list because of requests from landlords and their expressed interest in such a list shown in a housing survey last year, he said.

About 580 homeowners were questioned in the survey and 66 per cent said they were in favor of the chamber keeping such a list, he said.

The Undergraduate Student Government maintains a similar housing list near the cardroom on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building. Property owners who would like their housing facilities listed on this may call the USG office from 7 to 9 p.m. weekdays.

DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB QUEEN—Connie Robison, an 18-year-old sophomore in home economics from Coal Center, was named queen of the dairy science club last night. She will now represent the University in the annual state "Miss Milkmaid" contest in June. Her first job, however, will be to reign over the Dairy Exposition on campus May 12. A sister of the 1959 state queen, five-foot, five-and-one-half-inch Connie said she would like nothing better than to follow in her sister's footsteps. The only qualification of the contest was that the contestants must live on farms on which milk is produced commercially. Presenting her the trophy after her selection is George E. Shook, junior in dairy science from Clarion, president of the club.

Seniors Vote to Donate Class Gift To Revolving Student Loan Fund

The senior class of 1962 voted, by a ratio of about three to one, to donate its class gift money to a revolving student loan fund, David Grubbs, senior class president, said yesterday.

"THE SUM OF ABOUT $4,350 will be given to the student aid office," Grubbs said. "The money will probably be broken down into 10 or 15 loans and will be given under the name of the 'Revolving Loan Fund of the Class of 1962.'"

A faculty committee will decide the recipients of the loan, he said. Consideration will be given to those students already on scholarship but still in need of additional funds, and those students nearest graduation, he added. A minimum All-University average of 2.00 is also required.

The class of '62 is the first to collect all the money entirely from the class members. The class of 1960 received $2 and the class of 1961 $1 from the University for each $1 collected from class members.

A TOTAL OF 938 seniors voted at registration. The revolving loan fund received 636 votes, the rare book collection for the Pattee Library 221, the inter-religious book fund for the Eisenhower Chapel library 59 and miscellaneous 22.

Other proposals that had been considered by the senior class advisory board, but did not appear on the ballot at registration were building a student hostel in Greece or Chile, a medical ward in India and financing experimental research which would enable WDFM to broadcast over AM as well as FM.

Seniors to Conduct Summer Research

Fourteen outstanding seniors will have an opportunity to do scientific research work this summer for 10 weeks with faculty members in the areas of physics, ceramic technology and metallurgy under a program sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Seven summer and five academic year participants will do research in the Department of Physics, under the direction of Walter Goldberg, assistant professor of physics, who is in charge of the program.

One student will participate in the research program in the Department of Ceramic Technology under the supervision of Dr. William O. Williamson, associate professor of ceramic technology.

Dr. Harold J. Read, professor of physical metallurgy, will be in charge of six students who will work in the metallurgy department.

Fall Term Registration Forms Must Be Submitted by June 20

Students planning to enroll at the University for the fall term 1962 are required to file an official registration form Number 2 Card before the end of the spring term, Robert G. Bernreuter, registrar, announced.

This will enable the continuance of some of the advantages of early registration he said, because the registrar will be able to provide department heads with advance information concerning class sizes for the fall term 1962.

Students planning to register for the fall term 1962 are instructed to meet with their advisers, according to the schedules announced by their colleges, to complete a Official Registration Form (Number 2 card). Students should use the fall term 1962 "Timetable of Classes" which is now available at the Hetzel Union desk.

Cards for fall term 1962 may be filed at the Registration Section, 4 Willard during the period from April 10, 1962 to June 20, 1962. This will permit students who are registering for the summer term to file their fall term Number 2 Cards during the summer registration period.

If a student has not submitted his fall term Number 2 Card before the deadline (June 20, 1962), his class assignments will be based on the remaining available space at Fall Term registration.
