

Sos, Wells Elected to Head IFC in 1962-63--

(Continued from page one) or summer of 1962 would be permitted to be pledged (if eligible) during the fall term 1962.

A motion that open houses scheduled on one All-University weekend be removed was unanimously approved. The original proposal read that open houses would be scheduled on one All-University weekend and one off-weekend.

The rushing program was amended to state that there would be no personal contact of freshmen by fraternities, no advertising to open houses and no spending of money on freshmen by the fraternities. The amendment passed unanimously. The original proposal read, "No personal contact of freshmen. All contacts will be made through I.F.C."

Wilmer E. Wise, assistant dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, said that the IFC made a profit of about $1500 on the IFC-Panhel Jazz Festival held Friday.

Wharton Nominated by University Party--

At the University party meeting following nominations, Michael Dzvonik, party chairman, announced that when party members pick up their party cards Sunday to vote in the final nominations, they will be asked to make a minimum donation of 10 cents to the party campaign fund. This donation is not mandatory, he added.

The purpose of this plan is to lighten the financial burden put on the party's candidates he said. He also reminded party members that it would be necessary to present matric cards to get their party cards.
