Study Abroad May Select 40

Tentative selections for the 1963 Study Abroad program should be announced in about a week, Richard C. Maloney, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and acting director of the program, said yesterday.

The more than 220 applications are now passing between the members of the selection committee, Maloney said. From the committee's comments a list of tentative acceptances will be compiled.

Maloney estimated that approximately 40 students will be accepted for the study centers in France, Germany and Spain. He added, however, that the final number of acceptances will be many and Maloney also mentioned that he has received "highly encouraging reports" from Dr. Dagobert de Levie and Dr. Margaret Matson, directors of the program in Germany and France, respectively.

Civil Defense Series

Alexander Criticizes 'Unrealistic' Policy

By DOROTHY DRASHER

(This is the second in a series of articles concerning Civil Defense in which opinions of faculty members will be presented. In today's article the viewpoints of a political scientist are given.)

The free world's political, economic and social way of life could not survive a nuclear holocaust, Dr. Milnor Alexander, instructor in political science, said recently.

IF A NUCLEAR WAR is launched, industrial facilities, communications systems, food, water and shelter would be devastated or contaminated, she said. The horror of living conditions in the aftermath of a nuclear war is "inconceivable," Dr. Alexander said.

Despite the realities of such a nuclear war, the Kennedy Administration feels it must prove to the American public that it is trying to protect its citizens in case of attack, she said.

However, Kennedy's proposed Civil Defense program is unrealistic, Dr. Alexander said, because adequate protection could not be provided even for the majority of the people in this country except at costs much higher than the estimated $1 billion.

Kennedy's three-phase Civil Defense program includes a national survey of all buildings to find out how much protection each building would offer from fallout radiation. Blast and heat effects are not considered in the survey.

IN THE SECOND phase of the program, buildings found suitable as shelters would be stocked with food, water and other necessary provisions.

In the third phase of Kennedy's program buildings not found suitable will be modified to meet Civil Defense requirements.

Both Communists and Western leaders seem to want to avoid war or are stalling it as long as possible, she said, but nevertheless the possibilities of accidental nuclear war being touched off increase with expanded military preparedness.

Dr. Alexander concluded that Civil Defense preparations:

- Help make the idea of nuclear war tolerable to the American people.
- Make a nuclear war more likely.
- Threaten the American people with inward moral collapse in the name of strengthening themselves against outward danger.

Student Defeats Chess Master

Larry Evans, International Grand Master and U.S. Chess Champion, was defeated by Eugene Grumer, senior in chemical engineering from State College, in a simultaneous chess match held Sunday afternoon in Waring lounge.

Evans, playing 37 matches at once, in the tournament sponsored by the Chess Club and the West Halls Council, won 32 matches, tied four, and lost to Grumer. Grumer was also the only challenger to defeat William Lombardy, International Grand Master, in a similar exhibition held here last year.

EMPLOYING what he termed "general principles" against what he considered to be "very rough" competition, Evans conquered his last opponent after five hours of concentrated physical and mental effort.

Two professors participating in the match, Orrin Frink, professor of mathematics, and Edmund H. Umberger, assistant professor of mathematics, were among those who tied with Evans.

A crowd estimated at between 200-300 witnessed the event.

CAN THE SHAH OF IRAN KEEP HIS

THRONE

The Shah felt he needed an heir to make his throne secure. So he divorced his wife, remarried, and finally fathered a son. Yet today his throne is as shaky as ever. This week, a Post editor reports on an exclusive interview with the Persian monarch. You'll learn why the aristocrats are out for the Shah's scalp. And why many of his subjects actually think he should be more of a tyrant.
