LA Committee To Study Plan For Model UN

The Liberal Arts Student Council appointed a committee chairman Thursday night to investigate the possibilities of forming a student model United Nations General Assembly.

Morris Baker, president, appointed Carol Hoffman, freshman from Valley Stream, N.Y., as chairman.

The idea for a model U.N. was suggested by Miss Hoffman after she had spoken to a group of seven University students who had recently participated in the Mid-Atlantic Model U.N. General Assembly in New York.

In the proposed model U.N. students would set and vote as a delegation from the particular country they were representing. Participation would be guided by voting procedures established by that country.

Although the Assembly would be sponsored by the liberal arts council, participation would also be open to students in other colleges, Miss Hoffman said.

law, under which the accused were persecuted not because they were guilty, but because they refused to plead guilty to something of which they claimed to be innocent?

Does not our Constitution guarantee freedom of speech, due process of law, and a trial by jury (not a kangaroo court); does it not prohibit bills of attainder and the infliction of cruel and unusual punishment; and does it not protect individuals from self-incrimination?

We must not blindly follow those who cry hysterically that the alleged “communist conspiracy” justifies the suspension of constitutional guarantees for all dissenters. The McCarran Act, and all other repressive legislation, must be fought and defeated, in defense of our basic freedoms.
