Parties Unite--

 run candidates, they could, by endorsing another party, give that party an unfair advantage.

Witmer moved to amend the bill to include this stipulation on the parties before they received the grant.

After much pro and con discussion, Congress passed Witmer's amendment to the bill and subsequently the bill itself.

THE VOTE to pass the bill was 12-12. USG Vice President Jay Huffman casting the tie-breaking vote.

Allison Woodall (South Halls) questioned the meaning of the bill. She asked if this new appropriation could be added to the amount each candidate would spend on his campaign or if the appropriation included the previous limit on candidates.

Katherine Johnson (South Halls) moved to rescind the Liner bill. After this move was passed, John Witmer (fraternity area) proposed the substitute bill which was approved.

Dennis to Talk on Corps

Lawrence E. Dennis, associate director of the Peace Corps and former vice president for academic affairs at the University, will deliver the keynote address for the Annual Home Economics Spring Weekend at 7:30 tomorrow in the Schwab.

Dennis will speak on "The Peace Corps — the New Frontier for Family and Community Education." He plans to explain opportunities for young people who would like to work with families in other countries.

DENNIS IS in charge of the administration and coordination of all phases of the Peace Corps selection and training program and the services provided for volunteers in their overseas assignments.

He is also the author of several articles and book reviews on education and public affairs.

Two University coeds, Joann Carl, senior in home economics from Williamsport, and Judith Wilson, senior in home economics from Westfield, N.J., will receive awards at the alumni luncheon Saturday.

THE AWARDS of $50 each, given for professional interest in home economics and outstanding citizenship, were originated by Edith Pitt Chase, director of Home Economics from 1919 until 1938.

Other events planned to carry out the theme "Families Around the World—Technical and Human Development" include lectures on housing, foods and clothing of other countries; displays and exhibits of foreign articles; tours of home economics buildings; panel discussions and movies.

The final event of the weekend will be a symposium on "Foreign Service Programs," which will be led by Vladimir de Lissovey, associate professor of child development and family relations, and P. Glenn Harr, assistant state 4-H leader.

REPRESENTATIVES of the International Farm Exchange Program, International Voluntary Service and American Field Service will also be present at the discussions planned for high school and college students.

All programs planned for the weekend will be open to students, parents and professional counselors from Pennsylvania and neighboring states.

Student Involved in Auto Collision

An automobile driven by Alvin Sellers, 326 S. Burrowes St., collided with a car operated by Stephen Ammerman, senior in arts and letters from Washington, D.C., at the corner of E. College Ave. and S. Allen St. Tuesday night, State College police said yesterday.

Police said the accident occurred as Sellers, driving east on E. College Ave. in the middle lane, attempted to make a right turn onto S. Allen St. Ammerman, also driving east on E. College Ave., was trying to make a right turn onto S. Allen St. from the curb lane when struck by Sellers.

Police reported no injuries to either driver and the estimated damage to the vehicles was $200.
