

Stickmen Ask

Goal, Goal—Where's the Goal?

By DEAN BILICK

Lacrosse coach Dick Pencek has a problem and it isn't his team either.

Pencek's Lions will be seeking their fourth straight win Saturday, but there is one slight hitch. Someone stole (or should we say removed) the Lions' two goals that were to have been used in the game against Lafayette.

"I've looked all over for them, but apparently, someone has picked them up," a befuddled Pencek said in his office yesterday. "I just hope they're returned so we can use them," he said.

THE TWO CAGES were apparently removed from the ice rink practice fields sometime Monday. The Lions are hoping to use them when they tangle with a weak Lafayette team at noon Saturday on Beaver Field. Aside from the riddle of the disappearing goals, Pencek is a pretty happy coach. His Lions are off to the best start since a Penn State team won its first four in 1956—and this in his first year as head coach.

One week ago the Lions came from behind to stop Loyola, 8-7. The following day they ripped Washington & Lee, 10-3, and Tuesday State again came from behind to stun previously unbeaten Penn, 8-7.

It was the Penn win, however, that has Pencek walking around with a smile that hasn't been noticeable on State lacrosse coaches of the past five to 10 years.

"PENN HAS an outstanding club, but our boys just wouldn't quit," Pencek said, speaking of the win. "Our kids really put forth one heck of an effort."

"They just wanted to win more than we did," one disappointed Quaker mumbled in the quiet of the locker room after the game. "Yea they did," another added, "but they also had more than hustle. It was the best Penn State lacrosse team that I've ever seen."

Penn coach Avey Blake was quick to agree. "This team is different from any other State team I've seen. They're not the same team."

Pencek praised the work of first team midfielders Tom Hayes, Lou Meier and Bill Charron. He also cited goalie Vinnie Tedesco and defenseman Andy Lockhart for outstanding play.

PIAA Volleyball, Rifle Saturday

P.I.A.A. championships in volleyball and rifle will be held Saturday in Rec Hall.

Seven teams will compete for the volleyball crown, including defending champion Homestead of District 7. The other entries are Souderton (District 1), William Penn of York (3), Peabody (8), Puxsutawney (9), Meadville (10), and Tunkhannock (12).

Munhall High will seek its fourth straight rifle championship. Munhall's team, representing the state's south-west region, shot a perfect score of 1,000 last year.

The other rifle entries are Slippery Rock, north-west region, and Mannheim Township, south-east region.

Matuszak Signs

BALTIMORE (AP)—Marv Matuszak has been signed by the Baltimore Colts for his ninth season as a linebacker in the National Football League.

The 30-year-old Matuszak, an all-league selection in 1957, came to the Colts four years ago after performing for the Pittsburgh Steelers, San Francisco 49ers and Green Bay Packers.
