London's Loose Lion Causes Chaos

A campus patrolman approached Edward London, senior in business administration from Wynand-cote, in Pattee library Sunday night with a very unusual message for him: His lion was loose! Laurie, London's pet lion, had been let out of London's residence at 324 Bradley Ave. by a neighbor boy. The youngster entered the house when no one was home and the lion escaped. Laurie was spotted by neighbors who hurriedly called the police.

London was summoned to remove the lion as worried police neighbors looked on. Last night, however, the "ferocious" lion cub proved to be accident prone: While romping with London in the back yard Laurie fell down a ravine and broke its left front leg. A veterinarian said that it will take the lion four to six weeks to recover. In the interim Laurie will be totally immobile and fined to London's room.

Simmons Fire Causes $300 In Damages

The Alpha Fire Company was summoned to the campus at 8 p.m. Saturday night to extinguish a blaze in 153 Simmons, fire officials said last night.

There were no injuries in the fire that apparently was started by a burning candle on the window ledge of the room. University officials estimate the damages to the room at about $300.

It is believed that the window of the room was open and the draft from it caused the candle to set the drapes aflame, fire officials said.

THE TWO OCCUPANTS of the room were Patricia L. Mackinney, junior in art education from Narberth, and Joan Carol Erdman, sophomore in arts and letters from Allentown. They were moved to another room in Simmons after the blaze was extinguished.

Alpha Fire Chief Bower Moore said the residents of Simmons evacuated the building quickly when the fire alarm sounded. The entire building was emptied by the time the firemen arrived on the scene, he added.

Officials said that the entire room will have to be repainted. The windows, woodwork around the windows, curtains and mattress will all have to be replaced.

Artists' Series Concert To Feature Isaac Stern

Isaac Stern, world famous violinist, will appear at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Schwab in the final Artists' Series concert of the year.

Tickets will be distributed to students beginning at 1:30 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk. Non-student tickets will go on sale at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

As famous in Europe, Asia, Australia and South America as he is in America, Stern is the only American-trained artist among a handful of top-flight violinists in the world.

STERN WAS brought to America from Russia at the age of 6 months. He began violin training when he was 6 years old and made his debut at 15. After Stern's Carnegie Hall recital in 1943, Virgil Thomson of the N.Y. Herald Tribune called him "One of the world's master fiddle players."

He began his current North American tour after an extensive series of appearances in Western Europe and in Israel. He was instrumental in instituting the first Israeli Music Festival, which featured Pablo Casals, the Budapest String Quartet, and Rudolf Serkin, in addition to Stern.

His present tour of this country includes appearances at the Seattle World's Fair and New York's Metropolitan Museum, and concerts with orchestras throughout the country. He will appear at Carnegie Hall in New York. Stern is president of this organization. In 1960, when the old concert hall was threatened with destruction, Stern marshaled forces in the New York legislature and in the city government to keep Carnegie a landmark of America's cultural life. When the hall opened again in September, 1960, the audience gave Stern a standing ovation when he entered to play with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic. The hall is a non-profit organization and is on lease from the City of New York.

AMONG STERN'S extensive list of recordings are several best-sellers. These include the Tchaikowsky, Brahms, and Wieniawski concertos, pressings made at the Prades and Perpignan Festivals, and double concerti made with David Oistrakh.
