FIVE CENTS

All-University Elections To Begin at Polls Today, To Continue Until Friday

Balloting begins today to decide who will lead the Undergraduate Student Government and the individual classes in the coming year.

The offices to be filled in the three-day election are USG president, vice president and secretary-treasurer; and senior, junior and sophomore class presidents. Special balloting will be held so that the residents of West Halls and Nittany Halls may fill vacant seats on the USG Congress.

Polls will be set up in all dining hall areas from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. today through Friday. Other polls will be at the Mall and College Ave. and the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building from 9:30 a.m. to 5:10 p.m.

A SPECIAL BALLOT box will be located on Pollock Rd. outside the HUB during fifth and sixth periods only, on the three election days.

To aid fraternity and town independent men in voting, Allen Feingold, Elections Commission chairman, said he will set up floating polls from 6:30 to 8:30 tonight and tomorrow night.

Tonight the cars will start at Garner and Hamilton Streets and Pugh and Hamilton Streets and proceed toward College Avenue. The cars will stop for 15 minutes at each street corner.

TOMORROW the cars will begin at Locust Lane and Prospect Street, and Allen and Hamilton Streets and will move in the same direction as the night before. A 15-minute stop will be made at each street corner.

The only requirement for voting is that the person be an undergraduate student and present a matriculation card, Feingold said.

He listed several other qualifications concerning voting procedures:

• It is not necessary to vote for candidates on only one political party slate—a student may split his ticket if he wishes.

• A student does not have to be a member of a political party to vote.

• Polls for the West Halls representative elections will be in Waring; polls for the Nittany elections will be in Pollock dining area.

• First through third term students will vote for sophomore class president; fourth through sixth term students will vote for junior class president; and seventh through ninth term students will vote for senior class president.

Nuclear Testing Gets Kennedy OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration gave the careful go-ahead yesterday for nuclear testing in the Pacific.

"The Atomic Energy Commission announced that President Kennedy has authorized the commission and the Department of Defense to proceed with a series of nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere over the Pacific.

"THE TESTS, to be conducted by Joint Task Force 8 under the command of Maj. Gen. A. D. Starbird, will begin as soon as is operationally feasible."

For weeks, the task force, embracing a great array of ships, planes and some 12,000 men, has been engaged in preparations to make the tests if told to go ahead.

AN AEC spokesman said testing might come in a day, or a few days, depending upon operations considerations, including the weather.

President Kennedy announced on March 2 that the United States would be forced to resume atmospheric testing if the Soviet Union did not agree by late April to sign a foolproof pact banning nuclear testing.

Administration sources emphasized that Kennedy's offer to refrain from testing if the Russians agreed to such a pact would hold true until the very last minute. active in London, and antitest demonstrations were being organized in Tokyo.

HOWEVER, in Geneva yesterday, the Soviet Union again turned down a U.S. test-ban proposal.

HOW MUCH the U.S. government may say about the test series, as it progresses during the next two or three months, is uncertain.

News men were advised that not all shots fired will be announced. And some of the early trials of smaller devices, in connection with improvement of nuclear efficiency, might not be observable at any great distance from the remote Christmas and Johnston Islands where the tests are to be conducted.

No newsmen will be allowed on the islands.

REPORTS BY workers returning to Honolulu recently from the test sites were that activity there had reached feverish pitch.

3 Fraternities Lose Privileges

Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Kappa Sigma and Phi Sigma Delta fraternities had their privilege of serving alcoholic beverages removed by the Interfraternity Council Board of Control, Thomas DeRocco, board chairman, said last night.

These privileges will be revoked until the end of the spring term with the exception of Senior Ball weekend, DeRocco said.

The action stemmed from an incident occurring on April 7 when a member of another fraternity became intoxicated at a jam session sponsored by the three fraternities, DeRocco said.

The individual had left Phi Kappa Psi on Saturday evening and a short time later fell on S. Atherton Street, he said.

STATE COLLEGE police were summoned and he was taken to the police station, DeRocco said. A doctor was called and the student was then taken to the Centre County Hospital, he added.

The individual suffered a broken leg and collarbone as a result of the fall.

The student's fraternity will not be penalized because the student became intoxicated at the jam session, DeRocco said.

He has not been charged with any misconduct offense at this time, Police Chief J. R. Juba said last night.

THE FRATERNITIES were charged with an infraction of Rule 3 of the Fraternity Social Code, DeRocco said. Rule 3 states that "the University does not approve the use of alcoholic beverages at any University sponsored or related function. Students and organizations are expected to obey the laws of the borough, commonwealth and nation."

The other infraction, also under Rule 3, states that "a fraternity is responsible for the conduct of its members and guests at any function or gathering of the fraternity both inside and outside the fraternity."

"TO MY KNOWLEDGE, Phi Sigma Delta will not appeal the Board of Control's decision," Edwin Grinberg, president of the fraternity, said last night. "As far as I know, the other two fraternities will not appeal the decision either," he added.

The case must still be reviewed by the Senate Sub-Committee on Group Discipline.

Artist Series Tickets

No student tickets for the violin concert of Isaac Stern remain. Stern's appearance is being sponsored by the Artist's Series at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Schwab.

Non-student tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

Sunny Skies, Warm Weather Forecast for Today, Tomorrow

After a one-day intermission, pleasant weather returned to Pennsylvania yesterday.

The mercury reached a high of 65 degrees at the University weather station yesterday after registering a chilly 37 degrees Monday night.

Chilly weather and possible frost was expected again last night, but mostly sunny skies and warmer weather is forecast for today. A high of 73 degrees is likely this afternoon.

Warm and pleasant weather is expected in most of the eastern and central states today. Afternoon readings are forecast to range from the 70's in the northern states to the 90's in the south.

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER should continue tomorrow, although more cloudiness is likely. Showers and thunderstorms may develop late in the day or at night as two storms converge on the Commonwealth.

One storm is moving northeastward from Texas, and a second storm is moving eastward across central Canada.

Colder air is pushing southward behind the Canadian storm, and a return of colder weather is likely here late Friday.

The local forecast indicates tonight should be partly cloudy and cool, and a low of 45 is expected.

TOMORROW SHOULD be partly cloudy with warm temperatures. The high will be near 75 degrees.

Showers and thunderstorms are predicted for tomorrow night and Friday. Cooler temperatures are forecast for Friday and a high of 65 is likely.

Local Group to Protest Resumption Of Atmospheric Nuclear Testing

A group of approximately 25 students and townspeople will participate in a passive demonstration today "against the resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere by the United States," Arlene Shupak, spokesman for the group, said last night.

The demonstration will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the vicinity of Allen Street and College Avenue.

Placards and posters will be carried by some of the participants, who do not represent any one particular organization, but are opposed to nuclear testing by any country, she said.

THE DEMONSTRATION is timed to coincide with the already announced intention of the United States to resume atmospheric nuclear testing this week, she said.

The participants in the demonstration will also distribute printed material on their viewpoints of nuclear testing and the present retaliatory power of the United States and the Soviet Union.

JOHN R. JUBA, State College chief of police, said yesterday there would be no interference with the demonstration by local policemen as long as the demonstrators "do not congregate in such a way as to block sidewalks and hinder pedestrians and traffic."

A spokesman for the demonstrators said the group believes that nuclear testing in the atmosphere is not necessary for defensive purposes, that U.S. testing gives the Soviets an excuse to test their weapons and this will increase the pace of the arms race.
