

Prexy Discusses Evaluation Program

Although less than a year old, the University's self-evaluation program has been the source of new knowledge about the University, President Eric A. Walker said recently.

The evaluation process begins when the department to be studied makes a study of its own situation, he said.

This report is available for study by the team of three to five visitors who make the actual evaluation. The evaluators come, Walker said, primarily from the major public and private colleges and universities. Pennsylvania, Cornell, Chicago and Princeton, to name a few, have been represented on the evaluating teams which have been on campus to date.

The evaluators usually arrive on Sunday and are briefed by the five-man Standing Committee on Evaluation before beginning work Monday morning. M. Nelson McGeary, chairman of the committee, said.

ESTABLISHING their own procedures, most of the teams include talks with the dean of the college in which the department is located, the department head, members of the department and graduate and undergraduate students, McGeary continued.

The evaluators also inspect the department's facilities and observe classes.

Before leaving on Wednesday the team will meet and present an oral report to Walker, McGeary said, in addition to beginning the

New Presidents Elected In Four MRC Areas

Officers for the 1962-63 school year were chosen in four of the five men's residence hall areas in recent elections. The newly elected presidents are Kenneth Hershberger, West Halls; Bernard Solomon, East Halls; Richard Knoll, Pollock area; Leonard Scoda, North Halls. Election of council officers in the Nittany Area will be held in the fall.

preparation of its written report. "The oral report does not differ radically from the written report, except, perhaps, that the oral report deals more directly with personalities," Walker said. "I have found these reports frank and forceful."

THE FOLLOW-UP process begins with a meeting between Walker and the members of the department, after they have had an opportunity to study the written report.

As a result of the program, Walker said he is more convinced than formerly that there are "some very good men and some very good departments" at the University.

"But the picture is not uniformly good. There is a lot of work to do and, with the help of these evaluations, I think we should get started on the rebuilding job as soon as possible, Walker said.

He said his job is to make it as easy as possible for each department to achieve distinction, either by furnishing funds or speeding needed executive action.

A listing of the "good, bad and middling" departments at this time, Walker said, would be unwise.

"MUCH MORE important," he said, "is that we learn something about ourselves through these self-evaluations, and then set out to overcome our more serious shortcomings."

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the President said that, as a result of the program, several new members will be added to the faculty in September.

As of last week, when the departments of Speech and Metallurgy were evaluated, 17 evaluations had been made, Kenworthy said. Six others are already scheduled for the fall, and the Department of Nuclear Engineering will be studied June 25 to 27.

Commencement Program Slated For June 9 in Beaver Stadium

Commencement exercises will be held at 10:30 a.m., June 9, in Beaver Stadium, weather permitting, David H. McKinley, University marshal, said recently.

McKinley estimated that more than 2,560 students will receive degrees, including 275 advanced degrees, 1,815 baccalaureate degrees, and 470 associate degrees.

Detailed instructions for the graduates will be available at the office of the dean of their college on or about May 21, McKinley said.

The commencement exercises will be open to all interested persons he said, unless inclement weather necessitates holding the commencement in Recreation Hall.

If this happens, each graduate will be limited to three guests for the exercises and will be issued the three tickets with the distribution of caps and gowns, McKinley said.

The following schedule will apply if exercises are held indoors: 10:30 a.m. — Colleges of Engineering and Architecture and Mineral Industries, and associate degree candidates.

1:30 p.m. — College of Agriculture, Education, Home Economics, and Physical Education and Athletics.

3:30 p.m. — Colleges of Business Administration, Chemistry and Physics, and the Liberal Arts.

Candidates for advanced degrees will receive their diplomas at the exercises scheduled for the college in which they majored, McKinley said.

Meditation Choirs to Give Annual Spring Concerts

The Meditation Chapel Choir, under the direction of James W. Beach, instructor in music, will present its fifth annual spring concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. and Thursday at 4 p.m. in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

Tickets are being distributed free in 215 Chapel for the concert.

Tomorrow night, the choir will present the Motet "Nun Danket alle: Gott" by Johann Pachelbel and "Mass in G" by Schubert. A quartet, Margaret Shobert, soprano; Carol Hollen, alto; Jerry Ifft, tenor and Parker Crouse, baritone, will be featured in the mass.

WILLIAM E. MASTROCOLA, organist, will play "Toccata in C Major" by Bach, "Allein zu dir, Herr Jesu Christ" by Pachelbel and "Canzona" by Gabrieli.

The program on Thursday will be devoted to early and contemporary American composers. The choral numbers include "Psalms 113 and 137" from the Scottish Psalter; "David's Lamentation and the Bird" by William Billings and "Psalm 23" arranged by Virgil Thomson.

Also included will be "The Glorious Day is Here" by Effinger, "Let down the bars, O Death" by Samuel Barber, "Heaven" by Paul Nordoff and two choral works of George E. Ceiga, University organist, "Antiphon for Festival and the Magnificent" and an arrangement of the hymn "Lord Christ since first thou cam'st to earth," an organ suite written by Ceiga.
