

3,300 Rainbow Girls Will Arrive On Campus Today for 20th Session

One of the largest groups of visitors — the Rainbow Girls — will arrive on campus today to attend the four-day session of the 20th Pennsylvania Grand Assembly of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls.

Five of the nine meetings of the Grand Assembly will be open to the public during the four-day session, beginning today.

THE 3,300 Rainbow Girls representing 140 Pennsylvania assemblies will be staying in West Halls area and all the meetings will be held in Recreation Hall except one.

A program of speeches, music and oral interpretations will be presented at 3 p.m. today in Schwab by several girls from among the 400 Rainbow Girls who have been attending special classes the past three days prior to the arrival of the largest group today. This being meeting and the others following are open to the public.

The installation of officers at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Recreation Hall. The choir competition at 10 a.m. and Drill Team Competition at 2 p.m. both Saturday in Recreation Hall.

The Coronation of the Grand Worthy Advisor and talent show at 8 p.m. Saturday in Recreation Hall will climax the session.

Following the Coronation a dance will be held for Rainbow Girls and others in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Miss Mildred Brenlove, Grand Worthy Advisor for 1961-62, will preside at the meetings today and tomorrow. She has chosen as her theme for this year "Let there be Light."

Mrs. Agnes C. Allen, Supreme Inspector of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls in Pennsylvania, said last night that plans are now being considered for establishing a collegiate chapter of Rainbow at the University which would function as a social group during the regular school year.

The first and only officially recognized collegiate Rainbow chapter in the country was formed last year at Indiana State College, she said.

In such a collegiate chapter the girls would retain their membership in their home assemblies but could participate in the activities here, Mrs. Allen said. But no ritualistic work would be done, she said.

THE MAIN PURPOSE of the chapter would be to encourage girls to maintain their membership so more of them would be eligible to receive majority certificate when they reach 20 years of age, Miss Allen said.

Speech Head Writes New 'Culture' Book

A new book by Robert T. Oliver, professor and head of the Department of Speech, entitled "Culture and Communication," was published this month by the Charles C. Thomas Company, of Springfield, Ill.

Sub-titled, "The Problem of Penetrating National and Cultural Boundaries," the book deals with the two problems of communicating across the barriers imposed by national sovereignty and the differences existing among the world's major cultural systems. Analyses are presented of the basic modes of thinking represented by Communism, Shintoism, Confucianism, Taoism and the Hindu-Buddhist idea system.

Goldberg Named Humanities Prof

Maxwell H. Goldberg of the University of Massachusetts has been named associate director for humanities in the Center for Continuing Liberal Education and professor of humanities, effective Sept. 1.

In 1960, Goldberg was named the first Commonwealth professor at the University of Massachusetts with the designation "University Professor."

This appointment followed five years as head of the Department of English and a teaching career in that department that began in 1928. He has served as chairman of the Faculty Committee on Long-Range Academic Planning, which is now issuing its first report, and as executive director of the University of Massachusetts Centennial.

He has also been instructor in experimental honors colloquia (interdisciplinary) for freshmen and in honors sections of the sophomore humanities course, while he has conducted graduate seminars in literature and faculty seminars on liberal education.

Fall Term Orientation Will Include Cultural, Social, Religious Programs

The women's orientation program for fall term will retain many traditional features, including the cultural program begun last year, Sue Henderson, co-chairman, said recently.

During the freshmen and transfer women's first week on campus, programs are presented by the dean of women's office, the Association of Women Students and the Women's Recreation Association. The new students may also participate in social and religious functions, college-sponsored events and a songs and cheers program.

The cultural program will again include the University Readers, Miss Henderson said. Leonard F. Raver, assistant professor of music, will be in charge of the musical segment of the program. The orientation committee has recommended that new women students read William G. Golding's "Lord of the Flies," she said. Discussions on the book will be held with professors during Orientation Week.

Dinks and name cards will be in order toward the end of Orientation Week as the Dink Debut marks the official beginning of freshman customs, Miss Henderson said.

She added that approximately 100 junior residents as well as 64 orientation leaders are expected to return to campus early to aid in the program.

SCRAMBLE—FOR FREEDOM!

At a dead run the crew board their new B-58 supersonic bomber. This is a practice alert—a practice of freedom's defense. Every American's taxes are needed these days to keep our defenses strong and our communities secure. Yet some people insist that the federal government spend millions of your tax dollars for more federal electric power plants. This is needless spending. Along with the nation's more than 300 other investor-owned electric light and power companies, we can provide all the electricity our growing nation will need. This is no time for needless tax spending.
