

Women Students Schedule Intramurals

Every woman student becomes a member of the Women's Recreation Association upon entering the University. She may then decide whether she will be an active member.

The WRA program is divided into three parts — clubs for individual sports, intramurals and special events.

The WRA intramurals are open to residence hall and sorority teams. Trophies are awarded to the winners of the intramural games which are usually held on Monday through Thursday nights.

INTRAMURAL competition is held in badminton, basketball, bridge, softball, swimming, tennis, table tennis and volleyball. In addition to these intramurals, there are coed volleyball matches held each year.

The WRA clubs are open to all woman students. The bowling club and field hockey club meet in the fall term. In the winter term, the basketball, fencing, gymnastics and rifle clubs meet. The tennis, golf and lacrosse clubs meet in the spring term.

Swim club, dance club and officials club meet throughout the regular school year. Many of the clubs sponsor special events. Each spring the tennis club sponsors a clinic featuring some of the nation's famous women tennis players.

THE DANCE CLUB presents a dance workshop or a concert each year. The swim club has a special synchronized swimming group.

the Naiads, which presents an aquatic each year.

WRA's special events include Co-Rec nights when coeducational groups can use the facilities of White Hall. Throughout the year, WRA holds open houses every weekend. Swimming and bowling are among the sports offered for women only these nights.

During the year the WRA has sports days with other colleges and universities. These sports days offer competition in seasonal sports.

The WRA Cabin, located near campus, has many modern conveniences. It is open to any WRA club group, women's independent groups and sororities. These groups must have an adult chaperone. Reservations for the cabin can be made in the WRA room of White Hall.

Rockwell Named Alumni Fund Head

Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., president of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co., of Pittsburgh, has been named chairman of the 1963 Alumni Fund by the Executive Board of the Alumni Council.

Rockwell, a 1935 graduate succeeds J. E. Holtzinger, president of the Mirror Printing Co., which publishes the Altoona Mirror.

Rockwell has served the University as vice chairman of the Alumni Fund and as co-chairman for its Special Gifts program during the past two years. He is currently serving as vice chairman of the Penn State Foundation Board of Directors.

Councils Initiate Added Services

College councils have been instrumental in opening classrooms for night study, setting up student lounge areas and allowing the individual college libraries to remain open longer.

Several councils also have traditional events such as the Liberal Arts Council lecture series, Business Administration Council Career Day and Home Economics Council Spring Weekend.

COLLEGE COUNCILS discuss any questions concerning their colleges at meetings, usually held twice a month. Members are chosen through self-nomination and subsequent selection. Any interested students may complete applications.

Council elections for all colleges are held on the same day, but students may vote only for representatives from their respective colleges.

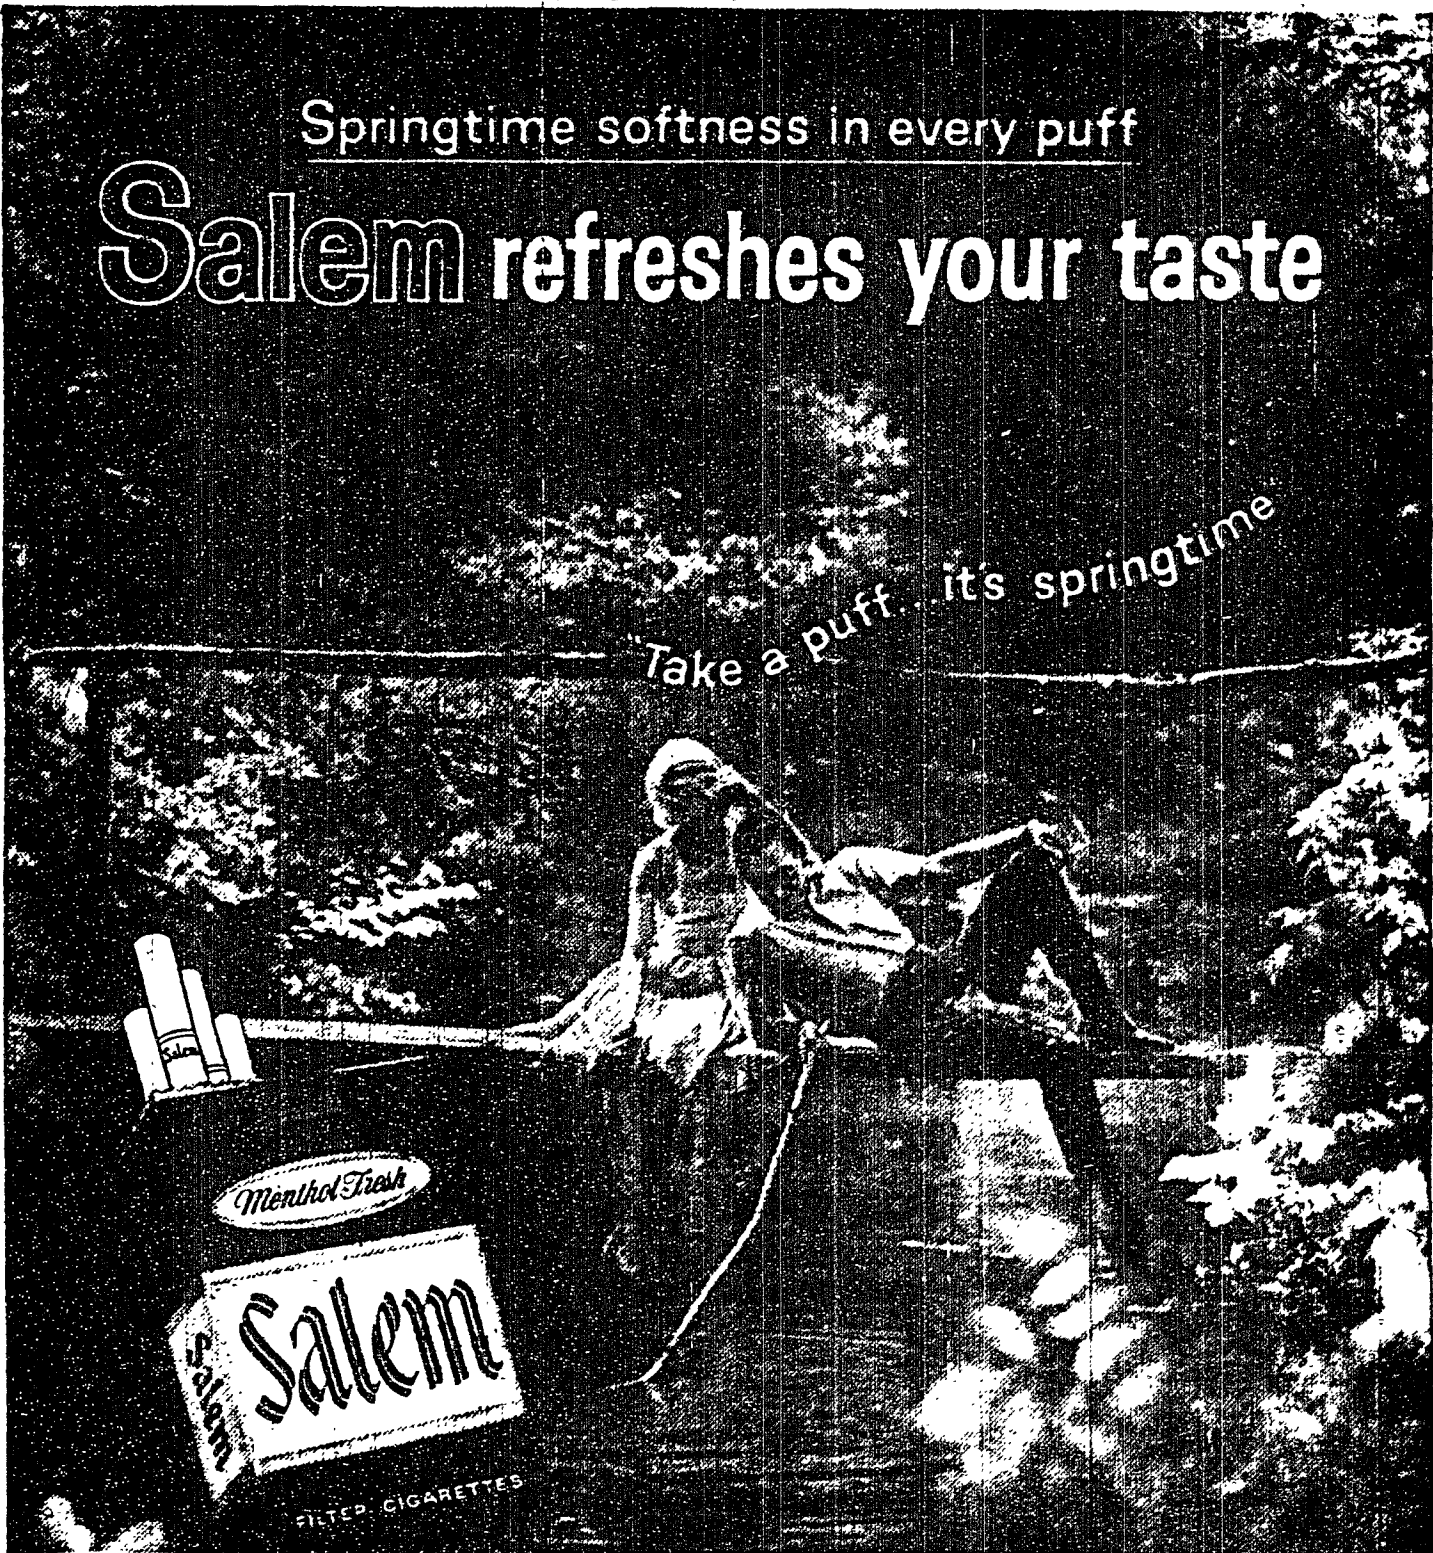

Activities among the college councils are coordinated by the Inter-College Council Board.

The 10 student councils are Agriculture, Business Administration, Chemistry-Physics, Division of Counseling, Education, Engineering-Architecture, Home Economics, Liberal Arts, Mineral Industries and Physical Education.
