Panhel Coordinates Rush, Other Sorority Activities

The Panhellenic Council is the governing body of the local chapters of 28 national sororities which are represented at the University.

The council itself is composed of delegates from each sorority and the executive committee consisting of the president, first and second vice presidents, recording and corresponding secretaries, treasurer, parliamentarian and rush chairman.

EACH SORORITY has a delegation consisting of its president and one other member. Each sorority has one vote. Both the delegate and the president, however, may initiate motions.

The council's standing committees consider social, rushing, public relations and judicial matters. A member of the dean of women's staff decides on the eligibility of candidates for initiation and thus is a standing committee of one.

Officers are elected each year during the winter term. The office of president is held each year by a member of a different sorority under a rotation system based on the order of founding on campus. The president has previously served as first vice president of the council.

THE FIRST AND second vice presidents are elected to serve in their junior year. The woman receiving the highest number of votes for the office is named first vice president; her closest competitor becomes second vice president. The recording and corresponding secretaries and the treasurer are elected by a majority vote.

The parliamentarian and the rush chairman are appointed by the executive committee. Two alumnae advisors, each serving two-year terms, are selected from the sorority alumnae according to the order of national founding dates.

Panhel's major activity during the year is conducting the sorority rush program. Activities preceding formal rush are the Panhellenic freshman orientation program and tea, publication of a rush booklet and establishment of the rushing code, rules and schedule.

ANOTHER MAJOR activity of the council is joint participation with the Interfraternity Council in Greek Week. Events of the week, which is scheduled for the winter term, include bridge tournaments, work projects, the IFC-Panhel Sing and selection of outstanding pledges.

Spring Week participation is another sorority activity. Men's and women's groups work together on preparing a carnival skit and posters and in choosing participants in the Miss Penn State, He-Man and Queen of Hearts contests.

OFFICERS of the council this year are Pamela Chadwick, president; Patricia Pfordt, first vice president; Jean Kennedy, second vice president; Ellie Aurand, recording secretary; Bonnie Mitchell, corresponding secretary; Sandra Pohlman, treasurer; Judith Walko, parliamentarian; and Marjorie Zelko, rush chairman.

Mrs. Nancy M. Vanderpool represents the dean of women's staff as advisor to the group.

The 'Mark of Distinction'—A Hat

If you've noticed those rather odd-looking gray and black hats worn by several upperclassmen and are worried that you are missing out on a necessary addition to your Penn State wardrobe, you can dispel your fears—the hats can't be bought with money.

The hats belong to Penn State's outstanding students—members of the nine hat societies on campus.

To be asked to join a hat society, a student must make outstanding contributions to campus activities such as student government, dramatics, publications, forensics and athletics.

The student must also maintain a specific all-University average.

HAT SOCIETY members are active all year participating in such activities as Orientation Week, introducing freshmen to campus activities and helping them to learn school songs and cheers.

During football season, they can be seen at the games forming a colorful honor line for the team to enter the field at the start of each half.

They also sponsor pep rallies prior to football games to raise school spirit.

Each year the three women's hat societies sponsor "Penny-A-Minute Night." On this night all women may have 2 a.m. permissions provided their dates pay a penny for each minute they are out after the regular 1 a.m. sign-in time.

Members of all the women's hat societies wear gray hats. Scrolls is the hat society for senior women, Chimes for juniors and Cwens for sophomores.

All the men's hat societies feature black hats. Parmi Nous and Skull and Bones recognize seniors, Androcles, Blue Key and Driuds, juniors and Delphi, sophomores.
