Worried Engle Watches Lions Crush Navy, 41-7

By JOHN MORRIS
Sports Editor

For three weeks before Saturday's season opener against Navy in Beaver Stadium, Penn State football coach Rip Engle had been pointing out potential weaknesses of this year's Lion grid squad.

As opening day neared, Engle had more and more trouble finding things to worry about. But just two days before the game he could still list pass defense, an inexperienced second unit and the weather as factors in Penn State's showing.

"Our pass defense has been poor; we have an inexperienced second unit line and we could be in trouble if the weather is hot," the silver-haired coach said.

But still, if things worked out right, Engle thought his Lions would win. Apparently things worked out just fine.

STATE PUT on a tremendous offensive and defensive show in demolishing Navy, 41-7, before 41,220 fans. The Middies were never in the game as State's big, strong and fast first unit got the Nittanians off to a quick 20-0 lead.

Navy had been widely touted as one of the two top teams in the East and Saturday's game was supposed to be a hard-fought opening round in the battle for the right to claim the Lambert Trophy in December.

It appears that the Nittanians have become rather attached to said trophy, symbolic of Eastern superiority, and have decided to keep it for another year. This would constitute an almost unheard-of event. It is nearly traditional that no team can win the Lambert Trophy two years in a row.

But perhaps the Lions don't know that a team can't win two years in a row. Or maybe they weren't listening when somebody told them. They aren't very good listeners.

THEY DIDN'T listen to Navy coach Wayne Hardin when he predicted that the Middie defense would slow State's offense enough to allow his boys from Crabtown to win.

From the opening whistle, the Lions simply ran over, through and around the Middies for what Engle called "our best opener ever."

In fact, there were several superlatives flying around the scene of Saturday afternoon's murder.

Engle not only compared this win with the opening game victories over Illinois in 1954 and Missouri in 1959, but he also called this year's first unit "the finest I've ever had."

THOSE FIRST eleven Lions earned their coach's lofty praise. Led by All-American candidates Roger Kochman, Dave Robinson and Chuck Sieminski, the Lions clearly outclassed anything Navy could throw on the field.

But as outstanding as Koch-

State Police Term Coed Death Suicide

By JOAN HARTMAN
and MEL AXILBUND

The Pennsylvania State Police last night termed the death of Ruth S. Kaplan (4th-liberal arts—Oakhurst, N.J.) early Sunday morning a suicide.

The 19-year-old coed died at approximately 1:15 a.m. Sunday after falling five stories from the sun deck of East Halls D.

CENTRE COUNTY Coroner W. Robert Neff of Howard said last night an autopsy revealed that death was due to multiple fractures at the base of the skull. Miss Kaplan also sustained a broken right leg and other minor injuries as a result of the fall.

Trooper Michael A. Mutch, who directed the State Police investigation, said last night the investigation disclosed that the death was a suicide.

He said that Miss Kaplan apparently went from her third floor room to the sun deck and then climbed over the wire enclosure surrounding the sun deck.

Luis J. Marentes of Mexico City, Mex., an East Halls residence counselor, said he saw the coed falling through the air. At the time, he was accompanied by William J. McCanna of Middletown, another East Halls counselor.

The Campus Patrol notified the State Police at the Rockview

Barracks who dispatched troopers to investigate the area. After the troopers completed their investigation of the roof area and the coed's room, both areas were locked.

Coroner Neff ordered an autopsy after he was notified of the death. A coroner's inquest will be held next month, Neff said, after the results of tests on tissues taken from the coed's body are received from Harrisburg. Another delay in holding the inquest is caused by the difficulty in finding a date convenient for the parties officially concerned, he said.

THE UNIVERSITY is not conducting a formal investigation, in accordance with its policy of leaving the investigation of unnatural deaths to the State Police, Public Information Director, Dixon Johnson said last night.

Funeral services and interment were held yesterday afternoon at Beth-Israel Cemetery in Woodbridge, N.J.

Miss Kaplan is survived by her parents, Jacob and Charlotte Kaplan, and a sister, Adrienne.

NSA Passes Rule Changes

By WINNIE BOYLE

(This is the first in a series of four articles concerning the 15th National Student Congress of the United States National Student Association held in Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 19-31 which was attended by Undergraduate Student Government representatives.)

Two significant changes which should alleviate criticisms of the United States National Student Association made by the USG Congress last spring were enacted by the organization's 15th National Student Congress.

One change was in the Congress Rules while the other was an amendment to the preamble of the organization's constitution.

THE AMENDMENT to the Congress Rules was proposed by William Thom of Princeton University, an outspoken conservative at the Congress.

As adopted the amendment reads: "No resolution reported out of committees for prioritization shall be referred to the National Executive Committee unless a motion to refer a specified resolution is passed by the majority of Congress. . . . The Chair must call for motions to refer to in the order in which they are ranked on the priority list . . ."

Previously, any item of business was automatically referred to the NEC if not considered by Congress and unless there was a specific motion not to refer it to this committee.

The NEC is comprised of the chairmen of each region of the country represented in the organization.

Because in the past so many bills were passed by the NEC, USNSA was criticized for being run by a small group rather than by the entire Congress.

THE PREAMBLE amendment proposed by the NEC, changed the original statement to read: "We, the members of the national union of students of the United States of America . . ." rather than "We, the students of the United States . . ."

Before this change was made, the organization was criticized for claiming to represent every student in the United States. With the change, its proponents argued, the preamble correctly states that the organization represents only those students who attend colleges or universities which are members of the United States National Student Association.

20,828 Register

University enrollment reached 20,828 at noon Saturday, an increase of 216 over the 20,612 reported at the close of registration a year ago. Robert G. Bernreuter, dean of admissions and registrar, said yesterday.

The final total for the fall term last year was 22,855, and the total for the term which began yesterday morning is expected to reach 23,000.

The University Park figure for this year, as of noon Saturday, was 17,254, or 170 more than last year's comparable total. Commonwealth campus enrollment was 46 higher than last year at 3,574, Bernreuter said.

Thursday should be partly cloudy and mild.

Rain Seen for Today

Mostly cloudy skies and somewhat cooler weather is indicated for today, tonight and tomorrow. Showers are likely today and possibly early tonight.

Workshop Asks Participation

By ROCHELLE MICHAELS

(This is the first of a series of five articles on the 1962 Student Encampment which recently closed at Mont Alto. Below is an account of the Judicial Workshop recommendations.)

The Judicial Workshop recommended that the Undergraduate Student Government establish a committee to insure "sufficient student participation" on the Senate Committee on Student Affairs. The committee was recently reorganized excluding all students and administrators from voting. Only faculty members now vote on the committee.

ANOTHER JUDICIAL proposal which expresses a desire for more student responsibility is that an additional student member be allowed to vote on the Senate Subcommittee on Discipline.

The proposal on the student affairs committee stemmed from the workshop's concern that students are not well enough informed of that committee's activities nor well represented on it.

The second recommendation stated that "students are not exercising sufficient responsibility in the handling of cases involving major offenses." At present one voting student sits on the sub-committee.

In discussing the rights of the accused at student tribunal hearings, the workshop decided students not only had to be informed of their rights, but that such information was necessary for limitation of tribunal powers. It therefore recommended that each accused student be given a list of his rights, and that the Senate's Uniform Code of Judicial Policy be explained to include more rights for the accused.

Another guarantee of fairer student judicial hearings proposed by the workshop is that a synthesized, historical account of judicial precedents be compiled.

This would also include mention of particularly effective decisions on recurring cases.

In the area of public relations, the workshop recommended a committee be established to further the purpose and functions of the student judicial system. They also proposed a "critical incident survey" be taken to determine what students consider "improper behavior."

THIS SURVEY would ask students to describe the incidents they have observed which they believe to be most severe. From this survey, a list of student behavioral practices could be compiled.

Finally, the workshop recommended that USG establish a Student Protecting System to curb academic dishonesty. No details of the system were listed except a survey should be taken to determine which courses might benefit most from this service.

CUSTOMS got off to a noisy start yesterday as frosh gathered on the steps of Schwab and in front of the HUB to raise their voices in song and exhibit their exuberant school spirit in loud hoarse cheers.
