

—Collegian Photo by Joe Conway

A DEJECTED FRESHMAN tells his tale of woe to the Customs Board. This is only one of the many freshmen who have dared to violate Customs rules and was punished for that boldness. Today all frosh will greet the upperclassmen they meet on campus.

Frosh Violators Punished

By DONNAN BEESON

Students and faculty were provided with a minute-by-minute time report between 12:30 and 1 p.m. yesterday outside the Hetzel Union Building. The person who provided this unusual service was a Customs violator.

When asked by the Customs Board if he enjoyed doing this penance and felt it was worthwhile, the freshman's only reply was "I'm hoarse."

ANOTHER VIOLATOR sported a sandwich board all day yesterday and collected the signatures of 40 upperclassmen. He reported that he thought the experience was very enjoyable and valuable in gaining more school spirit.

Both violators were asked to repeat the words of the Alma Mater and the Freshman Oath and then dismissed.

Despite the rain yesterday, several frosh were reported to the Customs Board for violations ranging from not carrying the Freshman Handbook to being rude to an upperclassman.

For the remaining days of Customs, Joint Customs will be in effect. Today will be Salutations Day. All freshmen are required to speak to all upperclassmen whom they encounter. The greeting may be anything as long as it is polite.

Slightly intimidated by being apprehended, the freshmen reported to the Customs Board last night and were given punishments effective today.

In answer to a question concerning her lack of school spirit, one frosh complained that she just wasn't "with it" yet. To help her in her quest for some spirit, the frosh is writing a short essay on the value of Customs and school spirit.

Another frosh will be seen wearing a sign reading "Walk, don't run!" in an effort to make her understand that it is not proper to run into the ladies' room when asked to curtsy.

A GUIDED TOUR of the campus will be given today at 11 a.m., starting from outside of the HUB. The guide will be a frosh who not only didn't know the Freshman Oath but also had forgotten his handbook. The tour will conclude at the Obelisk, where the freshman will give a short talk on the legend of this landmark. All students are welcome to join the tour.

University to Receive Building Bids

Sealed bids for the construction of four new dormitory units, two in the Pollock area and two in the East Halls area, will be received by the University Oct. 25, Stanley H. Campbell, vice president for business administration, said yesterday. The timetable for the construction of the dormitories, Campbell said, calls for their completion by June 15, 1964, so that they may be occupied at the start of the fall term that year.

Tryouts for THE UNIVERSITY READERS

Thursday, September 27
2 Sparks Bldg.
3:45 p.m.

Candidates May Read 5 Minutes of Favorite Prose Poetry, or Drama Selection

★PLEASE NOTE ROOM CHANGE

BIKE
REPAIRS
PARTS
ACCESSORIES
Western Auto
Satisfaction Guaranteed
112 S. FRAZIER ST.
AD 7-7992

FRESHMEN

Hear Mr. Frank Simes, Dean of Men

"A Petunia in an Onion Patch"

Thursday, September 27

7:00 P.M. — HUB Lounge

Sponsored by University Christian Assn. Student Group

pick out all the expensive clothing you want.

write home to dad for the money.

After receiving dad's answer take your present wardrobe to campus cleaners. When they're finished cleaning and working on it with their famous professional touch... it will look as good as new.

For those of you who got the money from dad, how about letting the rest know how you did it.

campus cleaners

110 east beaver ave.
next to the post office

