

Lion Booters Face Hard Work Ahead

By IRA MILLER

The preliminaries are over for Penn State's soccer team and from here on in it'll be strictly business for Ken Hosterman's booters. The Lions open their season Oct. 6 at defending NCAA champion West Chester. The home opener is with Colgate, October 13.

"Up to now, we've been doing a lot of running up and down that field and looking sloppy," Hosterman said yesterday. "The running can never hurt us, it serves for better conditioning."

"But from here on in we'll have to work hard to tighten our defense and polish up the offense. You've got to when you open against a team like West Chester."

"THERE ARE no laps to be run in our practices because you can't practice soccer just by running around the field. That's good for the cross-country men. We have to practice the things that we'll do in the games; the quick stops, turns and kicks."

State last beat West Chester in 1955, 3-2. The teams played to a scoreless tie the following season and the Rams have won the last five games in the series.

In practice scrimmages to date, Hosterman has had mixed teams—composed of both vets and newcomers—opposing each other, but changes in the squads will be made as the opening game draws near. Hosterman indicated he planned to make some changes today or tomorrow.

Stu Ross and Al Shuss are currently battling for the all-important goalie berth shared by Dave Grubbs and Jim Gottschling last year.

Hosterman also expressed some concern over a disappointing showing so far by his sophomores, but expects some improvement as the players gain experience.

Weatherly Captures America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Weatherly, a cast-off four years ago, sailed Gretel, the gallant challenger from Australia, into the sea Tuesday and successfully defended the United States' 111-year hold on the America's Cup.

Flawlessly skippered by Emil (Bus) Mosbacher Jr., the graceful refurbished 12-meter sloop led around every mark and clinched a 4-1 victory in this world series of yachting by the decisive margin of 3 minutes, 40 seconds, over the 24-mile upwind-downwind course.

This meant that the bottomless old silver cup first won by the schooner America in 1851 remains moored to a heavy oak table at the New York Yacht Club. Challengers of five nations have spent more than $20 million trying to capture it without avail.

Now the plucky Australians who made the best over-all showing in 28 years must go home empty-handed to await a new turn at the ugly old mug.

Britain's Royal Thames Yacht Club, with a new challenger already near completion, plans to make an immediate bid, with the next series likely in 1964.

After finishing their cup defense, Weatherly's crew hugged each other in the cockpit, jumping for joy, and uncorked bottles of champagne to toast the 19th U.S. victory.

The fifth race was anti-climactic, with Weatherly dominating all the way.

The U.S. sloop drove into the wind as if powered by underwater jets, refusing to give distance to Gretel on the two 6-mile spinnaker runs downwind. Alexander (Jock) Sturrock, Gretel's skipper, used a bright but unsuccessful array of bosomy sails.
