

HUB EXHIBIT: Two faculty wives, Mrs. John Major and Mrs. Joseph Sweeney, look at the Penn State Camera Club exhibition in the Hetzel Union gallery. Last year the club had over 100 entries in its camera contest. Its present exhibit consists of some of the better pictures from the contest. The club meets at 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday in 111 Boucke.

—Collegian Photo by Dave Zimmerman

Dean of Men Emphasizes Moral Dilemma of Youth

By PENNY WATSON

College students often face the dilemma of how to stand up for their own moral standards without being regarded by their peers as "oddballs" or "petunias in an onion patch," Dean of Men Frank J. Simes said last night.

Simes, speaking in the Hetzel Union lounge, gave the first in a series of lectures designed for freshmen. The talk, sponsored by the University Christian Association, was open to the public.

Young people do not, however, necessarily have to make a choice between leading Christian lives or being accepted by the group, Simes said. A person may both lead an exemplary life and gain acceptance so long as he does not try to influence others with his ideas, he said.

Simes felt that if an individual is aggressive about his beliefs, he is likely to be rejected by others because he arouses guilt feelings.

Moral decay is indicated today by the increase in government corruption, juvenile delinquency, illegitimate births and dope addiction, Simes said.

Although college is a good starting point for raising the moral code, most college students are content to lead passive Christian lives because acceptance is so important to them, he said.

Another reason that students may hesitate to influence their peers with their own moral convictions, Simes said, is their unwillingness to censure others. In regard to campus problems such as public displays of affection, faculty members may be just as reluctant to act, he added.

One problem concerning university morals is that some students expect and need rules to cover every situation, Simes said. They prefer to have their decisions made for them by set regulations rather than to make their own decisions on individual terms of right or wrong.

Students need, also, to realize the reasons for morals, Simes said. They must recognize that morality is important because it affects the life of the individual and the lives of others.

Prof Named Chairman

Hans Neuberger, professor of meteorology, has been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the Division of Earth Sciences of the National Research Council Academy of Sciences.

The seven-man committee is responsible for steering the business of the Division.

8 Divisions May Use Building

Eight administrative divisions of the University will occupy proposed academic services building if and when the General State Authority gives the go-ahead for its construction.

On Tuesday, GSA approved planning funds of $138,438 for the building. University officials said they would ask GSA to include an additional $2,215,000 grant for the structure in its next building program.

THE DIVISIONS which would occupy the academic services building include controller, admissions, registrar, housing assignment, purchasing, general services, correspondence, instruction and the Institute of Public Safety.

Stanley H. Campbell, vice president for business administration, said yesterday that these divisions are now scattered throughout the University. He said their relocation in one building would be desirable because it would free central campus space for other services.

An academic services building has been a part of the University's planning program for some time, Campbell said. University building proposals to GSA for 1963-65 included such a building with 71,600 square feet of space.

THE FIRE on Aug. 20 which damaged Graduate Hall caused the building to be given a higher priority, Campbell said, and, therefore, the fund request was made to GSA.

Following the GSA action Tuesday, President Eric A. Walker said the relocation of essential academic services with a minimum loss of time had been made possible.

An East campus location is being sought for the building.

Block 'S' to Hold Pep Rally at HUB

Block "S" will sponsor a pep rally at 7 tonight on the Hetzel Union lawn. In case of rain, the rally will be moved to the HUB ballroom.

Tentative speakers include backfield coach Joe Paterno and end Dave Robinson.

Androcies and Cwens hat societies will present a skit. Master of ceremonies will be Don Moribito (7th—political science—New Castle).

New College Diner

Downtown Between the Movies

BIKE

REPAIRS
PARTS
ACCESSORIES

Western Auto

Satisfaction Guaranteed
112 S. FRAZIER ST.
AD 7-7392

Don't forget our
Coffee Break Hour

9-11 A.M. 1:30-4:30 P.M.

Coffee—5c

Donuts—5 ea.

PENN STATE DINER

"Eat at the Sign of the Lion"
130 W. College Ave.

COLLEGE MEN

Part Time Employment for Fall Term

A few openings exist for men wanting to work on a part time basis during the fall term. Only those with neat appearance will be interviewed.

Working schedule will be arranged

Interviews by appointment only

CALL

Mr. Young — AD 8-8992
between 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.
for interview appointment

announcing
For the discriminating theatre goers
of State College
WORLD RENOWNED
MUSICAL OPERETTA SERIES

6 of the World's Best Loved Operettas
Every TUES., Beginning Oct. 2nd.

at the CATHAUM Theatre

MATINEE PERFORMANCES at 2:00-4:00-6:00 P.M.
SPECIAL DELUXE PERFORMANCE at 8:30 P.M.

Tues., Oct. 2nd: Rudolph Frimle's "Rose Marie"

Oct. 8th: Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow"

Wed., Oct. 17th: Johann Strauss' "The Great Waltz"

Tues., Oct. 23rd: Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts"

Tues., Oct. 30th: Oscar Straus' "Chocolate Soldier"

Nov. 6th: Sigmund Romberg's "Girl of the Golden West"

★You'll Thrill to the ★MEMORABLE MELODIES!
★SCINTILLATING STARS!
★INCOMPARABLE VOICES!

Series Tickets Now On Sale!
ALL 6 OPERETTAS for Only $4.50

Save By Buying Series Tickets Now
Individual Performances
Adults 90c Youngsters 50c

Pigskin Platter:

"I keep
in shape
like the Stars
at the

WEST HALLS' RECORD HOP."

TONIGHT 8-12:30

WARING LOUNGE

"Penn State's Most Popular Dance"