

Robinson Talks to DeWitt; Says 'Maybe' on Retirement

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Frank Robinson's statement that he is retiring from baseball became a maybe yesterday.

Robinson, who had his finest season during the past campaign, said Saturday he was quitting the game because of the "physical beating I've been taking in baseball."

The 27-year-old outfielder conferred yesterday with Redleg President William O. DeWitt for about a half hour and DeWitt then issued the statement saying:

"Frank told me he has given the matter further consideration now and says there is a possibility he will play next year."

DeWitt said Robinson complained "he was tired and was under a lot of tension during the pennant race. Every time at bat it seemed to be very important."

At the time Robinson announced he was quitting he said money was not a factor but he later declared he could be brought back into the lineup for something like $85,000-$90,000 a year. His 1962 salary was reported to have been around $40,000.

Robinson declared he was tired of being hit by pitched balls, that his back ached and that he was sore from sliding into bases.
