

Rumors Say Walt to Stay At LA Helm

NEW YORK (AP)—Rumors of baseball changes swirled around the World Series as usual yesterday. One report, which was denied, said Bill Veeck has obtained an option to purchase the Washington Senators.

Another, which drew no official reaction, said Walter Alston would be retained as manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers despite his team's flop at the end of the season and in the playoff for the National League pennant with the San Francisco Giants.

Veeck reportedly is heading a syndicate that includes Hank Greenberg, famed former Detroit Tiger slugger; Nate Dolin, currently vice-president of the Cleveland Indians, and Rudie Schaefer, business manager of the Chicago White Sox. Veeck has been out of baseball since he sold his 51 per cent interest in the Chicago White Sox midway through the 1961 season.

He gave illness as the reason but since then his health has mended.

E. R. (Pete) Quesada, president of the Senators, said in Washington that "the club is not for sale." Veeck, at his home in Easton, Md., declared, "I have no option and haven't asked for any option." Other sources said however, that there were some basis for fact for the Veeck-to-Washington rumors.

Last summer Veeck declared Washington was "an untapped gold mine for baseball."

As for Alston, speculation has been strong that he would be dropped as manager, possibly being made an assistant to Buzzie Bavasi, the Dodger vice-president and general manager.
