

Actress Calls Audience 'Hep'

By ROCHELLE MICHAELS

Sylvia Sidney said she was "kind of lonely this weeknd" when she visited campus to star in the Artists Series presentation of "The Matchmaker" Saturday at Schwab.

"College audiences are marvelous — they're so hep," she explained, "and since I have a 23-year-old son, I have a great deal of empathy for them. So you can see why I'm so lonely."

Despite this tang of homesickness, Miss Sidney had much to say about "The Matchmaker," which she placed "in the class of classics."

"THE PLAY has a lot of ideas you can really think about," she said, "and it's also fun."

"But this is a special play from the point of view of the actress," Miss Sidney continued. "There are long periods off stage for the star, and this involves keeping up your energy in the blank periods."

"It's also not an easy play to learn," she said "because it is written in colloquial language. However, I like it better this way because there are so many nice phrases in Wilder's lines."

MISS SIDNEY refused to recall some of her "catastrophic" incidents on stage, because she didn't want to "hex herself." She did say, though, that she hardly notices anymore when things go wrong.

"Experience has taught me to cope with many problems," she explained. "I just pretend they aren't happening."

The two performances of "The Matchmakers" here were just one stop on a five-week tour for Miss Sidney and her company. The one thing she said she misses more than anything else when on tour is "good coffee."

"FOR A nation of coffee drinkers, we have the worst coffee imaginable," she mused.

Pasture Research Grant

The Cooperative Grange League Federation Exchange of Ithaca, N.Y., is continuing to support pasture research studies conducted by J. B. Washko, professor of agronomy.

The current one-year grant is for $3,000.

Millions of Dollars to Change Hands At TIM Las Vegas Night Saturday

Millions of dollars will change hands Saturday night when gambling becomes "legalized" at the University.

Monte Carlo-minded students will have the opportunity to try their luck at almost every kind of gambling at the annual Town Independent Men's Las Vegas Night in the Hetzel Union Ballroom. The money for the games will be supplied to each gambler by TIM.

THE MONEY, however, will not be official United States currency. It will be TIM's own brand of greenbacks.

Every gambler, no matter what his specialty, can participate. Craps, cage dice, poker, over and under, horse racing (on film) and black jack will be played.

The HUB Casino will be open for business from 8 to 13 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are now available at the HUB desk and will also be sold at the door.

CONTEST

You Can WIN A FREE to the Pitt Game

Prize Includes:

- Game Ticket
- Transportation
- Hotel Room

Football fans, here's your chance to demonstrate how well you've sized up the season. If you can accurately predict the time the first touchdown will be scored by either team in Penn State's next three games, you can win a free trip to the Pitt Game at Pitt Stadium on Nov. 24. Actually, there are three separate contests and three separate prizes. All three prizes include a choice game ticket, transportation, meals and overnight hotel accommodations. A free trip will be awarded each week for the next three weeks. There's nothing to buy — all you have to do is register your guess at any store with the football on the door. You may register right up until game time. Can you guess the time of the first score? Enter today at any store with the football on the door. The first contest is based on the Penn State-Maryland game.
