Young Democrats President Calls Baker Tactless

TO THE EDITOR: As president of the Young Democrats, I am terribly disappointed in USG vice president Morris Baker's recent release to The Daily Collegian. The Young Democrats Club was told about two weeks ago that it would have to participate in a mock election. This was to be the first gubernatorial and senatorial mock election ever held on campus.

My club definitely felt that the results of this mock election would hurt the Democratic candidates' chances of being elected to office, but we were told that this mock election was going to be sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government regardless of our participation or lack of it. We had no choice but to participate.

The Young Democrats have a limited membership and therefore are limited in what we can and cannot do. I think Morris did not show tact in releasing a statement to The Daily Collegian criticizing the participation of the Young Democrats and Young Republicans in an activity of which he was chairman.

I think that when a person accepts the chairmanship of a committee, he also accepts the responsibility to do as much for this committee as possible. By his criticism of the mock elections both privately and publicly, he has failed in one aspect of being chairman.

We certainly could have used yesterday's space in The Daily Collegian to a greater advantage than to tear each other apart. I am sorry that Morris could not see it in some other way and had to blame someone for something before the first ballot was cast.

Congressman Cites Evidence of Froth's 'Rights'

TO THE EDITOR: RE: The removal of the charter of Froth.

Recently there have come to light certain facts concerning the action on Froth magazine which I feel should be restated. Last Wednesday evening a bill was introduced to the USG Congress which would have expressed "strong disapproval of the administrative action in revoking Froth's charter." A proposed amendment would have replaced the above phrase with the words "condemnation of the Committee on Student Organizations for suppressing student body opinion as well as the infringement on their Constitutional rights."

The amendment was defeated, not so much because of its rather strong terminology as the result of a feeling that students' rights were not being infringed upon.

However, the Supreme Court of the United States (1954) upheld, in the words of Justice Brennan, "...unorthodox ideas, controversial ideas, even ideas hateful to the prevailing opinion have the full protection of the guarantees (of the First and Fourteenth Amendments)..."

In addition the right of Froth to be carried by the United States mails has not been denied. Thus Froth is not guilty of being obscene. Hence the charges against Froth rest, to use the words of the Committee on Student Affairs, on the violation of "good taste for no reasons acceptable to the committee."

I therefore question the ethics of this committee on taking such drastic action for the violation of good taste. I question the reasoning behind the extrapolation of violation of good taste to mean actions "prejudicial to the good name of the university."

I also feel that it is unfortunate that the bill which was before the Congress was tabled for further consideration. I strongly urge students to take an intense interest in this issue to find out the answers to questions like, why wasn't Froth given a chance?

It is interesting to note that this committee found the constitution under which Froth was chartered to be acceptable. Yet the charter was revoked. I understand that the administration will be willing to accept any petitions for a newly-chartered organization to replace Froth. What guarantee does the student body have that any other organization will not also be judged "prejudicial to the good name of the University?"

I urge Froth to make use of any appeals necessary. I cannot urge students strongly enough to take a firm stand behind Froth.

Beneath the sea, beyond the sky or anywhere in between — this is the domain of vehicles, weapons and systems produced by Ling-Temco-Vought. While LTV is a relatively new name to industry, the company is comprised of experienced organizations with far-reaching technical talents. Together these elements are meeting the advanced challenges of military electronics, communications, space, aircraft and missiles and have placed LTV in the enviable position of one of the nation's top ten defense contractors. Today, LTV's activities include such programs as V/STOL, CRUSADER, SCOUT, SATURN, DYNA-SOAR and a supersonic, low-altitude missile. In addition, the company is supplying specialized military electronic equipment, super-power transmitters for the "Voice of Polaris" radio station, special purpose computers, actuators for MINUTEMAN and scores of other complex products and systems. Because of this continuing expansion, LTV's divisions have ground-floor growth opportunities for graduates holding degrees in Aeronautical, Mechanical, Industrial, Electrical and Civil Engineering and Math, Physics or Metallurgy.
