

Booters Learn Painful Lesson: You Have to Shoot to Score

By IRA MILLER

Offensive failures, the same mistakes which have plagued Penn State's soccer team all season, were again a major factor in Saturday's 3-0 loss at Navy.

The setback was the fourth in five games for the Lion booters, severely dampening hopes for a winning season. Of course, the Nittany booters still bounce back in their remaining contests with Temple, Army, Gettysburg and Pitt, but chances of that are slim. Army boasts its usual strong team and Pitt is undefeated.

"Saturday's game was our best of the season—defensively," Lion coach Ken Hosterman remarked. "I liked the way the boys stayed in there and came back. We held our own with a good club."

But, despite the defensive success, games can't be won without scoring. And the Lions took just 14 shots during Saturday's game, few of which caused Middle goalie Paul Tobin any grave concern.

NAVY SCORED its first goal early in the second quarter, a disputed shot credited to inside right Karl Kaesar. Kaesar also assisted on the other two goals in the final six minutes of the game.

"We gave up too many scoring chances," Hosterman said. "We didn't shoot when we could have."

The Lion coach considers one goal in ten shots a good shooting percentage. That being the case, it seems the Nittany booters will have to do some more shooting to be successful—or face the possibility of needing shutouts to win.

"We have to work on our offense some more," Hosterman said. "But this is what we've been working on all year. The losses of Hinojosa and Flanagan hurt though."

He was referring to the loss of Ed Hinojosa (injured knee) and Tom Flanagan, (dropped out of school) last week. As a result, the Lions presented a "new look" line which had captain Jay Stormer, normally a left half-back, at left wing; George Berzkalns at inside left; Andy Honker (making his first appearance of the season) at center; Val

IN FACT, almost the entire Lion lineup has undergone drastic revision since the opening 3-1 loss to West Chester.

Only three players who started in the opener were in the same spots Saturday—Djurdjevic, center halfback Dieter Heinze and right half Harry Kline.

Jay Robbins was in the nets Saturday, where he has been for three games. Al Shuss started the season at goal. Bill Manke and Mickey Mastil were the fullbacks, having taken over from Ken Link and Harry Kottcamp.

Replacing Stormer at left half-back was John Buck, while Stormer, Berzkalns, Honker and Katona had positions held by Ted Jones, Flanagan, Katona, and Al Schattschneider, respectively.

The Lions will be on the road again this Saturday, meeting Temple in Philadelphia. The Owls lost to Philadelphia Textile, 2-1, in overtime Saturday.

16 Fraternities Remain in Fight For 7 IM Grid Playoff Berths

By ED CARPENTER

Approximately five weeks ago, the last of 51 fraternities left a deposit at the intramural office registering for the 1962 IM football tournament. Today, nearly 100 touch football games later, 16 teams are vying for their respective league titles and subsequent playoff berths.

Of the original eight fraternity leagues, seven league championships are up for grabs. The eighth league title, League G, was won by Delta Upsilon Monday night.

The following is a glimpse of the remaining seven leagues and how the races shape up in the final week of regulation play.

LEAGUE A IS headed by Phi Kappa Sigma with an unblemished 4-0 record. The only team with a chance to overcome Phi Kappa Sig is Phi Delta Theta, last year's champion. A combination of a Phi Delt victory over Phi Kappa Theta and a Phi Kappa Sig loss to Sigma Alpha Mu would bring about a tie.

League B is in a three-way tie among Phi Gamma Delta, who still has to play Alpha Chi Rho; Chi Phi, who will play Delta Phi; and Lambda Chi Alpha, who will play Pi Lambda Phi.

Kappa Sigma leads League C with a perfect 3-0 record. Kappa Sig still has to play Theta Delta Chi. Second place is held by Alpha Chi Sigma (2-1).

DELTA SIGMA PHI 4-0, appears to have a good chance to take the League D title with one game left against Omega Psi Phi.

Acacia, who boasts a 4-0 log, has to defeat Kappa Delta Rho to take the League E title.

In the same league, Pi Kappa Alpha, 3-1, will try to tie Acacia for the title. A combination of an Acacia loss and a Pi Kappa Alpha win over Zeta Psi would cause the tie.

Delta Tau Delta (5-1) leads Alpha Sigma Phi (4-1) in League F. Alpha Sig still has to play Triangle.

League H is headed by Theta Xi, undefeated in five games. With a game left against Beta Sigma Rho, Theta Xi appears the best bet to win the league title.
