

Terps' Record-Wreckers Will Invade Nittany Lair

By JOHN MORRIS
Sports Editor

Penn State will be faced with the problem of coping with four record-breaking Maryland Terrapins when the two teams clash in Beaver Stadium tomorrow.

Quarterback Dick Shiner, halfback Tom Brown, tailback Len Chiaverini and kicking specialist John Hannigan have all been on record-wrecking rampages this year and are four major reasons why the Terps boast a 5-1 record.

Shiner leads the nation in passing with 87 completions in 131 attempts for 1,034 yards and four touchdowns.

The 195-pound junior broke a Maryland total offense record in the Terps' 7-0 season-opening win over SMU. He threw for 238 yards and added 34 overland to shatter Jack Scarbath's 11-year-old mark.

SHINER HAS already set a career mark of 145 completions and last week surpassed Dale Betty's single season record for pass completions.

Brown has tied a single game Maryland record of eight pass receptions twice this season. The senior halfback grabbed eight Shiner heaves against North Carolina State and again last week against South Carolina.

In addition, Brown set two records in the Terps' only loss this season, a 28-24 defeat by Miami. Brown returned five Miami kick-offs 153 yards.

Brown is coach Tom Nugent's best pass defender and breaks his own career interception mark every time he intercepts an enemy aerial.

Hannigan sets a new career field goal mark every time he kicks a three-pointer. His toe was the difference in three Maryland games last year and he booted the winning points in the Terps' 13-11 win over South Carolina last week.

Hannigan converted 17 of 17 extra point attempts last year and is 10 for 11 thus far this season.

Almost overlooked in all the hullabaloo about Maryland's vaunted passing attack is sophomore Chiaverini, the Terps' leading rusher.

Chiaverini broke a 10-year-old Maryland record when he carried the ball 33 times against South Carolina. He has carried the ball 104 times for 403 yards so far this season.

Much of the credit for Maryland's success this year must go to the Terps' big, tough line.

Headed by All-Atlantic Coast tackle Roger Shoals and running mate Dave Crossan, the Maryland line offers Shiner excellent protection whenever he drops back to pass.

Soccermen Oppose Temple Tomorrow

By IRA MILLER

Penn State's soccer team will go after its second victory of the season tomorrow when it meets Temple in Philadelphia.

The Lions (1-4) will be attempting to keep their faint hopes for a winning season alive. Beaten in their last outing by Navy, 3-0, they must win all four remaining games or suffer their fourth successive losing season.

Temple has a 4-2 mark, but lost its last game, 2-1, in overtime to Philadelphia Textile. The Owls' other loss was a 2-1 setback to Bucknell in an early-season clash. State beat the Bisons, 3-0.

LAST YEAR, Temple brought a 5-1-1 mark to meet the Lions, but was upset 2-1 on Ted Jones' penalty kick after time had run out. That game made State's record 3-3, but the Nittanians proceeded to lose their three remaining contests for a 3-6 season.

On paper, therefore, State may seem to have an edge. But tomorrow's game will be won (or lost) on the field and not on paper. This is where the Lions may run into some difficulty.

The so-called "jinx" that has been with State's booters since their run of losses started in 1959 has struck again this season with full force. Three starters have been lost since the start of the season.

First, Al Schattschneider, a newcomer who became the regular right wing, dropped off the squad after one game. Starting inside left Tom Flanagan quit school. Ed Hinojosa, who moved into Flanagan's slot, quit the team this week.

JAY ROBBINS, a comparative newcomer, having joined the squad after the second game, continues as the number one goalie.

Robbins has allowed seven goals in three games while turning aside 36 shots.

Mickey Mastil and Bill Manke will again start at the fullback posts while John Buck, Dieter Heinze and Harry Kline will be at the halfback spots.

Al Shuss, Roy Johnston, Ray Dacey, Al Jacobsen, and Andy Honker will be going along in reserve.

The Lions have been stressing teamwork in their practices this week in an effort to get a sluggish offense going. In their whitewash loss at Annapolis last weekend, the Nittanians forced Navy goalie Paul Tobin to make just seven saves.

Cubs Face Army in Grid Finale

By FRANK QUIGLEY

Penn State's freshman football team winds up its season today when it invades the Hudson Valley to oppose the Plebes of Army.

State practiced at home yesterday afternoon and then departed for West Point. Freshman coach Earl Bruce will go with the same lineup that started the Syracuse game except for changes at halfback. Bob Shiffler and Bob Riggie will start at halfback in place of Dave McNaughton and Don Kunt. Dick Gingrich at quarterback and Dick Barrett at fullback round out the Penn State backfield.

Probable starters on the line are ends Ellery Seitz and Gerry Sandusky; tackles Joe Vierzbicki and Dick Holzer; guards Ed Stewart and Steve Schreckangaust; and center Bob Andronici. Tackle Gary Eberle who sat out the Syracuse game with a bruised leg, will see some action today.

Coach Bruce was impressed with the play of the Lions in their 14-6 loss to Syracuse and he expects another good game today.

"We made a few costly mistakes against Syracuse, but I think most of them have been straightened out," he said.

End Dick Nikolishen will sit out this game because of a head injury he received against Syracuse.
