Jazz Club To Present Trio

By CLAUDIA LEVY

Jazz comes to Schwab at 8 Sunday night in the form of The Lambert, Hendricks and Bavan Trio in a Jazz Club-sponsored concert.

Originally known as Lambert, Hendricks and Ross, the trio organized five years ago when Lambert and Hendricks first recorded for Decca Records. Three years ago they teamed with Annie Ross to cut their first album, "Sing a Song of Basie," and went on to perform as a trio in night club and jazz concerts.

They have been featured at the Blue Note in Chicago, "The Hungry i" in San Francisco, The Crescendo in Los Angeles and The Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

THE TRIO has been featured in both Time and Playboy magazines. After a single concert appearance at London's Royal Festival Hall, the press notices read "Their Impact Will Live On." Jazz critic Ralph J. Gleason has called them "The hottest vocal group in jazz."

In the spring of 1962, when the trio was touring Europe, Miss Ross decided to remain in England to renew her stage career. Her replacement was Yolande Bavan, from Ceylon who at the time was working on stage in England as a singer and actress. Since then she has appeared with the group at college concerts and nightclub engagements.

Dave Lambert has been a vocal group contractor and arranger for the past 12 years, providing vocal backgrounds for Charlie Parker, Teresa Brewer, Tony Bennett, Cris Connor, Al Hibbler, The Four Aces and others.

JON HENDRICKS has written lyrics for many of the trio's numbers and has worked as a writer in addition to his activities with the trio.

Yolande Bavan has studied classical piano since the age of three. She has also toured with the Graene Bell Orchestra and as a single act.
