Lion Gridders Oppose Upset-Minded Crusaders

By KEN DENLINGER
Assistant Sports Editor

For the third week in a row the Penn State football team will have to contain an offense based primarily on the forward pass when they meet Holy Cross this afternoon at 1:30 in Worcester, Mass.

The Crusaders would like nothing better than to unleash its Irish duo of quarterback Pat McCarthy and halfback Tom Hennessey in high fashion against the No. 1 team in the East.

Off two convincing wins over highly-touted teams, the gridders have been warned of overconfidence by scout J. T. White who saw the Crusaders in action against Syracuse, Dayton and VMI.

White calls this squad the equal of last year's team which pulled to within one touchdown of the Lions in the third quarter before succumbing, 34-14.

Right now a mental letdown could prove disastrous for the Lions because they will have to do more than just put in an appearance to win this one.

Having shattered the reputations of two better-than-average quarterbacks in Maryland's Dick Shiner and West Virginia's Jerry Yost in successive weeks, the Lion defensive corps will be faced with the task of thwarting a man who out-poled Shiner for the quarterback position on the Nittanyis' all-opponent team last year.

Conference Draws 21 NSA Delegates

Twenty-one delegates arrived last night for the Aims of Education Conference sponsored by the Pennsylvania-West Virginia region of the National Student Association.

The welcoming address, scheduled for 8 p.m., was cancelled when the speaker had not arrived by 9:30 p.m.

Allison Woodall, NSA coordinator for the Undergraduate Student Government, blamed the inclement weather conditions for the absence of many of the delegates and several of the NSA officials.

Seminars scheduled for today will be held regardless of how many delegates have come, Miss Woodall said. Delegations from six schools are still expected for the conference which is being held today and tomorrow.

Right now McCarthy is about as popular with gridders as the Associated Press pollsters and they hope to contain one while convincing the other of their merits.

Last one think that the Lions are up against a one-man show this afternoon, it must be reminded that Holy Cross rushed for 313 yards against VMI last Saturday. Hennessey and halfback Al Snyder provided most of that ground punch.

And it was Snyder who was on the receiving end of the TD strikes thrown by McCarthy in last season's game. Currently, the 192-

Land-Grant Association Meets

President Eric A. Walker headed a delegation of 20 staff members who served as University representatives at meetings of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities this week in Washington, D.C.

Two new divisions of the organization, which were authorized last summer by the executive committee, met for the first time at this session.

One meeting was the Division of Business Administration, at which the University was represented by Ossian MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration. MacKenzie served as chairman of the committee that organized the division.

HE ARRANGED the program for the Washington meetings, attended by representatives of 50 of the 65 eligible colleges and universities.

The other new division which met is Teacher Education. Abram W. VanderMeer, dean of the College of Education, was the University representative for the

USG Petitions Available at HUB

Petitions for the vacant Simmons-McElwain seat on the Undergraduate Government Congress are now available at the Hetzel Union desk. George Jackson, Elections Commission chairman, said yesterday.

Coeds wishing to fill the seat left open by Barbara Baer's resignation Wednesday must secure a petition and have it signed by 100 area residents, he explained. Deadline for return of petitions to the Associated Student Activities office, 202 HUB, is noon Wednesday.

Soviets Defend Castro's Threat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Cuban crisis sharpened yesterday with the Soviet Union defending Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. planes and the United States declaring flights over Cuba would continue with all protection necessary.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin said the Cuban prime minister's protests against the U.S. reconnaissance flights "is perfectly legitimate" and that attempts to violate Cuban sovereignty "cannot but provoke universal condemnation."

HE TERMED the flights unlawful and said the U.S. decision to continue them caused "deep concern for the peace of the world."

Zorin spoke in the U.N. General Assembly's main Political Committee, where a Cuban representative had asserted Castro's warning to shoot down planes was already being put into effect.

But U. S. Delegate Arthur Dean told the committee that Castro's threats carried no weight with the United States.

DEAN SAID that pending U.S.-Soviet agreement on all measures for verification of removal of offensive weapons from Cuba "the United States will be forced to continue to take its own appropriate measures to assure against the possibility that the people of the Western Hemisphere may be threatened from Cuban soil."

The State Department declared that Castro had rejected all efforts to obtain adequate verification of a secret arms buildup in Cuba.

RELIABLE sources said U.S. determination to maintain surveillance had been transmitted to the Soviet Union on Thursday night during the latest round of U.S.-Soviet negotiations.

The United Nations published and Havana radio broadcast the letter sent by the Cuban prime minister Thursday to Thant saying any U.S. plane flying over Cuba would do so "at the risk of being destroyed."

There is mounting concern among Washington policymakers as the U.N.-mediated negotiations for a settlement of the Cuban crisis heads toward a climax.

ONE WORRY is that Castro might follow through on his threat, thus setting off shooting in the dispute over a Soviet nuclear threat in Cuba.

Although the confrontation moved the world into the shadow of nuclear war last month, it has been virtually free of military hostilities so far.

Another object of U.S. concern is the continued presence in Cuba of Soviet jet bombers. President Kennedy regards them as offensive weapons which must be removed, along with the missiles and other nuclear war equipment already shipped away from the island.

KENNEDY MET yesterday with the executive committee of the National Security Council and with the Joint Chiefs of Staff but both meetings had been arranged in advance of the first word Thursday of the new Castro threat.

As usual, no announcement was made of what was discussed at these meetings but it was assumed the latest turn in the lingering Cuban crisis was high on the agenda.

Withdrawal of the two dozen or more B-29 medium jet bombers from Cuba is regarded as the key to any progress in the negotiations. And U.S. authorities, without setting a specific deadline for more forceful U.S. action, said time is running out.

American military experts figured the reconnaissance planes could be well defended, even if the action involved more force than the diplomats would like

Grad Suffers Dislocated Shoulder In Head-On Collision Outside Boro

Martin Harvill (graduate-geochemistry-State College) suffered a dislocated shoulder, several possible broken ribs and face cuts last night when the car in which he was riding was involved in a head-on collision on Route 545, north of State College near the Houserville intersection.

Harvill was a passenger in a car driven by Robert Zeto (general education-solid state technology-Wilkes-Barre).

Harry Eby, 1205 Zion Rd., Bellefonte, was the driver of a pickup truck involved in the accident.

Eby said Zeto was driving in the wrong lane. "He just came up my lane of traffic," he said.

Zeto received face and hand cuts. Eby suffered minor brush burns. Carl Frazer, Bellefonte RD 1, who was a passenger in Eby's truck, has a possible fractured nose with cuts behind his right ear. Mrs. Barbara Brown, a nurse at Centre County Hospital, said.

All except Eby were detained at the hospital.

State police were not able to fix the exact time of the accident, but they said it must have occurred a few minutes before 8:20 p.m., when a local ambulance was called.

A University ambulance which was returning from the hospital after bringing a patient there for consultation, took Harvill to Centre County Hospital, Ritenour sources said.

The other ambulance brought Zeto to the hospital. James Fetzer, 326 Harrows Rd., Bellefonte, who was passing by after the accident, took Frazer to the Bellefonte hospital.

SPINNING LIKE A TOP: Two couples swirl and whirl around the Hetzel Union ballroom in a lively square dance that was held last night by the Graduate Student Association. The dance is a part of the association's recreational program.
