Students Warned On Life Plan Names

A brochure for a life insurance plan with a name similar to the plan endorsed by the Undergraduate Student Government two weeks ago is now being mailed to University students at their home addresses.

USG President Dean Wharton warned students yesterday not to confuse the two plans. The policy endorsed by USG, Wharton said, will not be made available until the beginning of next month.

The USG endorsed plan is called The University Life Plans, Inc., and is underwritten by the Life Assurance Company of Pennsylvania.

As an additional means of identification, Wharton said, there will be a letter from him enclosed with the brochure describing the USG-endorsed plan.

The policy being mailed, The University Life Plan, is underwritten by a Virginia company, Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Co. The details of the two plans are similar, as are their names, but they should not be confused, Wharton said.
