

USSR To Remove Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy disclosed last night that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has promised to pull all of Russia's offensive bombers out of Cuba in 30 days. Kennedy immediately ordered an end to the U.S. naval blockade of Cuba.

Kennedy called for continued vigilance, adequate inspection and lasting safeguards against the mounting of any more offensive weapons in the island.

The chief executive held his first news conference in 10 weeks and said he wanted to use it to bring the American people up to date on the Cuban crisis and make several other statements.

Over national radio and television networks, Kennedy started off:

"I HAVE TODAY been informed by Chairman Khrushchev that all of the IL28 bombers now in Cuba will be withdrawn in 30 days. He also agreed that these planes can be observed and counted as they leave.

"INASMUCH AS this goes a long way toward reducing the danger which faced this hemisphere four weeks ago, I have this afternoon instructed the secretary of defense to lift our naval quarantine."

Secretary Robert S. McNamara quickly followed through with an announcement implementing this.

The Cuban crisis, of course, commanded the center of the stage at the news conference.

But Kennedy also announced he was sending a mission to beleaguered India and, at home, that he has ordered an end to racial discrimination in federally financed or assisted housing.

THE HOUSING order was something Kennedy had promised in his 1960 campaign for the presidency—and had said repeatedly since would be put through at the appropriate time.

"Our national policy," Kennedy said,

"is equal opportunity for all and the federal government will continue to take such legal and proper steps as it may to achieve the realization of this goal."

As for India, Kennedy said a team of State and Defense Department officials, headed by Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman, takes off for India today to size up India's needs for arms to combat invading Red Chinese. He said he understood Britain may send a similar mission.

In answer to a question whether the United States will have to send troops, Kennedy replied: "There has been no indication of that."

ON ONE OTHER topic, Kennedy had a promise of his own.

He said that if procedures set up to protect the interest and security of the United States in the Cuban crisis "are being used in a way inimical to the free flow of news, then we would change those procedures."

Despite Khrushchev's pledge to get jets out of Cuba, Kennedy still was withholding the solid promise the Soviet premier seeks that the United States will not invade Cuba.

First, Kennedy said, there must be adequate arrangements for verification of the removal of all offensive systems from the island and for the continued withholding of such weapons from Cuba. Once that is done, he said, "we would . . . give assurances against invasion of Cuba."

And until that is done, he said, "this government has no choice but to pursue its own means of checking on military activities in Cuba."

"As for our part," Kennedy said, "if all offensive weapons are removed from Cuba and kept out of the hemisphere in the future, and if Cuba is not used for the export of aggressive Communist purposes, there will be peace in the Caribbean."

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 63, No. 45 UNIVERSITY PARK, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 21, 1962 FIVE CENTS

IFC Tables Restriction Of Firearms

A resolution which would put restrictions on firearms kept in fraternity houses was tabled for further investigation by the Interfraternity Council Monday night.

The Council also heard a report from Joseph Wells, chairman of the IFC-Panhel Music Festival, that the folk singing group, Peter, Paul and Mary, will be featured at the festival. The Music Festival will be held April 27 during Spring Week.

The firearms resolution, presented by Michael Sharp, chairman of the Safety Committee, said that all firearms in fraternity houses be registered with municipal authorities and the Security Department of the University.

IT ALSO stated that firearms in a fraternity house would be kept in a specified room and would have to be signed in and out by members who used them. Infractions would be reported to the IFC Board of Control.

In other business, the Kent Forster Scholarship, given each term to an international student on the basis of scholarship and need, was awarded to Walter Morales (6th-engineering-Abington).

Two resolutions, one to set up a committee for alumni relations and the other to give an award for the outstanding fraternity newsletter, were passed at the meeting. A resolution proposing additions and revisions to the by-laws of the constitution, presented at a previous meeting was also passed by the council.

High Winds Bring Mild Temperatures

A very intense storm moving eastward through central Canada should produce strong southwest winds in this area today.

Milder air will be carried northward by these winds, and a few showers are likely to develop during the afternoon.

Colder air moving southward behind the storm is expected to begin making itself felt in Pennsylvania tonight and tomorrow.

Showers may continue tonight and snow flurries are possible tomorrow.

Today's high will be in the low or middle 50's. A low of 33 is forecast for tonight and a high of 40 is seen for tomorrow.

Friday should be mostly cloudy, windy and colder with snow flurries. The high will be about 35 degrees.

TIMBER: One more tree in Hort Woods is felled in preparation for the construction of a Humanities complex in the area. The tree-felling operation has been going on for several weeks.

Workshop To Teach 48 Coeds New Ideas in Group Leadership

New concepts in the theories of group inter-action will be taught to 48 coeds in an intensive three-day leadership training workshop which will be held at the University on Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

"Trainers" from the National Training Laboratory in Washington, a division of the National Education Association, will instruct student leaders from the Association of Women Students, Panhellenic Council and Women's Recreation Association in the dynamics of group work.

TECHNIQUES such as lectures, skill training, and unstructured groups (groups which are organized with no stated purpose so that members and observers may study group processes) will be used in the leadership training program. Miss Jeanette Berry, staff assistant to the dean of women, said.

Some of the concepts of which participants will probably be more aware when they complete the program were outlined by AWS President Janis Somerville.

● Why the group reacts the way

Late Permissions
The Association of Women Students has granted all coeds 1 a.m. permissions tonight. There will be no travelling 1 a.m. permissions tomorrow night.

- Why the group makes the decisions it does.
- How and why certain individuals in the group react the way they do.
- How and why the leader of the group affects other members.
- How the relationships of individuals within the group affect its accomplishments.

Critique Adopts New Format

By TOMI BAURNES

Critique, campus literary magazine, formerly known as La Critique, will resume publication during the winter term under a new format, John Weld, editor, said last night.

The size of the magazine will be increased to 8½ by 11 inches, and it will be published twice each term, Weld said. The first issue will be available Jan. 16.

THE FIRST publication will feature an article by Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., attacking 20th century liberalism, and special columns by football coach Rip Engle and Leonard F. Raver, assistant professor of music, Weld said.

Also featured in the new Critique will be regular columns

Froth Bypasses Appeal; Committee Will Consider Request for New Charter

By WINNIE BOYLE

The editors of the now defunct Froth magazine officially notified the Administrative Committee on Student Organizations yesterday that they will not appeal the committee's decision suspending Froth's charter.

A new constitution for a humor magazine to be considered for chartering was submitted at the same time to George Donovan, chairman of the committee. The new constitution was submitted by Andrea Buscanics, former co-editor of Froth.

AFTER 53 years of publishing, the humor magazine had its charter suspended four weeks ago after two hearings and a seven-hour executive deliberation. The charges called for its suspension on the grounds that the magazine had become "prejudicial to the good name of the University."

A major change in the proposed publication's constitution from that of the old Froth constitution is the creation of a directorship by the Department of English and the School of Journalism. Previously the magazine had one advisor from the journalism department.

The new constitution also calls for the retention of the name Froth for the magazine but for the deletion of "Penn State" in the cover title and in the magazine's masthead.

Donovan said he also received a notice from Emil Sos, a member of Froth's Board of Directors, which said that all the former magazine's bills were to be paid and that the remaining funds were to be held until further notice.

When asked if these funds would be transferred to a new magazine, Donovan said that would be up to Froth's Board of Directors, but that they either had to supply their subscribers with a humor magazine or return the money.

Because his committee has six items of business already on its agenda, Donovan said that it probably would not be able to consider this constitution until sometime in January.

IN SUSPENDING the original magazine's charter, the committee said that its constitution was perfectly acceptable but that the editors hadn't lived up to it and there was no reason to believe that they would in the future.

In discussing the consideration of the new constitution, Donovan said that the committee would discuss the merits of the constitution itself but would also probably take into account who is submitting it.

Wharton Urges Directory Use

With final examination time approaching, Undergraduate Student Government President Dean Wharton yesterday announced that tutoring directories prepared by USG are still available.

The directories list the names of students who are capable and willing to tutor others. About 200 students are listed in the directory as well as departments and honoraries which offer tutoring services.

Students in the directory received at least a "B" in the subject for which they are listed. Those on the Dean's List are indicated by an asterisk.

Junior residents and resident counselors have copies of the directory. Other copies are at fraternities, the Hetzel Union desk and the offices of the various colleges.

The directory gives the course and the instructor each student had. Name, address and phone number are also listed for each student.

on national politics, music and the arts, he said. A special calendar of campus events featuring the arts will be included.

The Jan. 16 issue will contain an insert for student evaluation of the faculty for the fall term. Results from the questionnaire will be published in the May issue, Weld said.

MEMBERS of Alpha Delta Sigma, men's professional advertising honorary, will prepare and solicit advertising for the magazine and handle promotion.

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, will take care of the circulation.

Weld said that the staff will be glad to accept poetry, articles and columns from students and faculty members, and will pay writers for the material published. All articles for publication should be submitted at the Hetzel Union desk, Weld said. Deadline for copy for the January issue is Dec. 1.

NEW EDITORS for Critique are: Jean Lebis, managing editor; Lawrence Cameron, humor editor; Roger Lowenthal, literary editor; Steven Roth, non-fiction editor; Coulston Henry, business manager; and Ronald Smolin, promotion manager.

Kim B. Rotzoll, journalism instructor, has been named as the new advisor for Critique. Lawrence H. Lattman, associate professor of geomorphology, and Henry H. Sams, head of the Department of English, have been appointed permanent members of the board of directors.