

Application Forms Due Friday For USG Speaker's Program

Applications for participation in a high school speaker's program sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government will be available at the Hetzel Union desk until Friday, Susan Hackman, chairman of the program, said recently.

Students interested in speaking to high school groups about the University are urged to apply, Miss Hackman said.

Over 200 of the larger high schools in the state have been asked if they would participate in the program, she said, and replies to date indicate that about 50 speakers will be needed.

Those who apply will be supplied with an outline of the topics they should try to discuss, but each speech will be the product of the individual speaker, she added.

The program, Miss Hackman said, provides students with a good opportunity to support and publicize the University.

Advertising, Christmas, and Nittany News...

You've all heard the remark, "There's too much materialism in Christmas!" It's true, we often find many businesses advertising Christmas items before we've finished our Thanksgiving turkey. But not so with NITTANY NEWS! For example, we could advertise that NITTANY NEWS has just received a large selection of quality Christmas cards. But we won't.
