

WDFM To Broadcast Metropolitan Opera

Baritone Otto Edelmann and soprano Lisa Della will take the leading roles in the Metropolitan Opera's presentation of Richard Wagner's one comic opera "Die Meistersinger von Nuernberg" which will be presented over student radio station WDFM at 1 p.m. today. Joseph Rosenstock will conduct. Intermissions between the three acts of "Die Meistersinger" will feature Opera News on the Air and the Texaco Opera Quiz. Appearing on "Opera News on the Air" will be musicologist Boris Goldovsky and actor-author Walter Slezak. During the second intermission, Texaco Opera Quiz, Quizmaster Edward Downes will ask questions of a panel. Beginning with the opera, regular programming for WDFM will begin and will continue until finals week in March, at which time, study music for finals will be presented.

Snow Expected Early Tonight

Three to five inches of new snow may fall in this area within the next 30 hours. The snow is forecast to begin late today and continue into tomorrow morning.

Sleet and rain may be mixed with the snow late tonight or early tomorrow.

Temperatures are expected to remain cold through the weekend, with a trend toward even colder weather forecast for the early part of next week.

A high of 35 degrees is predicted for today and a low of 27 is indicated for tonight. Tomorrow's high will be near 32 degrees.
