Gymnasts Host Unbeaten Owls

By JOE GRATA

Nobody's giving any odds, but the chips will be down today when the Penn State and Temple gymnastics squads battle at 3 p.m. in Rec. Hall.

The Lion gymnasts, victors in their first and only start of the season (54-42 over Springfield), will seek to hand an unbeaten Temple contingent its first loss of the season in five meets.

At 4:30, the Nittany freshman gym squad entertains Queens College of Long Island, N.Y., in the first meeting between the two schools.

Coach Carl Patterson's squad owns wins over West Chester, Springfield, South Connecticut State and Navy. The 59-37 decision over the Middies marked the first time in 13 years that the Owls were able to manage a victory over the Annapolis gymnasts.

LAST YEAR Temple played host to State's performers in the Owls' hometown of Philadelphia, but coach Gene Wettstone's proteges were ungrateful guests. The Nittany G-men easily won, 61½ to 34½, and upped their lead in the all-time series between the two schools to 16 wins and eight losses.

Heading the list of Temple entries in today's meet is Mark Cohn, a high scoring all-round competitor. Cohn, a sophomore, will compete on the side horse, parallel bars and high bar.

Tim Phillips rates as the Owls' No. 2 man on the side horse, horizontal bar and parallel bars. Two other all-around performers—Barry Weissman and Bill Wright—comprise the rest of the Temple squad.

FOR PENN STATE, Tom Seward will compete in free exercise and on the horizontal bar and parallel bars. Both Seward and Cohn are among the choice candidates for Eastern honors in the all-around category.

Vaulting on the long horse will be the veteran F. P. Sforza, Pete Saponaro and Tom Burnett. Sforza, along with sophomore stand-out Bill Jenkins and specialist Bud Williams, will also perform on the still rings.

Junior Al Porter, and letter winners Ray Cherry and Gene Harlacher are on the side horse; assisting Seward in free exercise will be Bill Schlegel and sophomore Jim Culhane.

Gym Twists 'N Turns

Coach Gene Wettstone, super-man of the gymnastics world, plans to introduce a "new sound" at today's meet with Temple. Reliable sources say to listen for the sound of an ancient "musical instrument" that's still common in the Orient... New flash cards, designed as a convenience to spectators, will be used in today's meet. Fans on both sides of Rec Hall should be able to see the judge's scores more easily... A new rules change will require four officials, instead of the usual three, to judge the various gym events. The highest and lowest scores are dropped and the two middle ones are averaged together... Temple's Tim Phillips, son of Navy gym coach Chet Phillips, completely ignored family relationships last week and scored a first place on the high bar to help the Owls defeat Navy (59-37) for the first time in 13 years... The Lion freshman gymnasts, who make their 1963 debut at 4:30 p.m. against Queens College, are the most promising group Wettstone has ever had.

Mike Jacobson, another of Wettstone's prize sophomore products, will perform as No. 2 man on the horizontal bar and the parallel bars. Culhane will also perform on the horizontal bar and Harlacher, on the parallel bars.

THE ORDER of events will be as follows: free exercise, long horse vaulting, side horse, parallel bars, horizontal bar and still rings.

"This meet may turn out to be closer than we think," Wettstone said early this week. "We've shifted our lineup just a little and should be at full strength."

The Temple squad, which has the option to choose three events in which its gymnasts can perform last, has elected the long horse, side horse and free exercise.

PSOC Set for Ski Races

The Penn State Outing Club ski division will play host to five Pittsburgh colleges today in a series of slalom races at Skimont, beginning at 11 a.m.

Skiers from Duquesne, Carnegie Tech, Washington and Jefferson, Pitt and Chatham will compete against skiers from the Outing Club in intermediate and advanced division races.

Don Lorenzetti, professional ski instructor at the newly constructed slope, has a 40-gate course layed out for the skiers to conquer.

THE RACES are part of a skifest weekend sponsored by the Outing Club. Other events include a dinner and dance at the Holiday Inn tonight and gag races tomorrow.

This will mark only the second time that members of the Outing Club have competed in races. Last week, the group entered the Central county races, and Jo Ganong took a third place.

Ganong will lead a corps of 29 Penn State skiers in the events that will have separate races for men and women.

THE TOP SKIERS entered for the Outing Club include Tom Cannon, Boo White, Craig Rumler, Mike Cannon, Brooke Thomas, Mark Mueller, Dick Meltzer, Ed Laughley, Bob Rissberger, Noel Roche and Bill Barney.

Also competing for State will be George Leavesky, Pete Hallock, Pete Roth, Wulf Knausenberger, Richard Gross, Myrna Lloyd, Katie Johnson, Linda Lamm, Bob Stein, Ray Fries, Dick Fahey, Ted Jones, Dave Rosseau, Lee Pollack, Ann Patrizio, Kay Chiglione, Bob Smith and Bill Bowes.

Advisor for the Outing Club is Hal White, assistant professor of physical education, while Chuck Haramaki, assistant professor of horticulture, is advisor to the ski division.
