

HUAC Called 'Menace' By Luce in SENSE Talk

By EMILIE GAYOK

The McCarran Act stifles dissent more than any act ever passed in the United States, Philip Luce of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee, said Monday night.

Luce spoke on "Security—Must It Destroy Liberty" in a SENSE sponsored address.

The House Un-American Activities Committee and the McCarran and Smith Acts are "evidently not trying to stop activities of the Communist party here but to stop radicalism."

The McCarran Act was passed in 1950 over President Truman's veto and the opposition of the Central Intelligence Agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the State Department.

COMMUNIST infiltration groups, front groups and the Communist party members are liable to prosecution under the McCarran Act.

The number of Communist party members active in an organization, the amount of financial support given by the party, and the way funds are used are the guidelines for deciding what is a front organization, Luce said.

The Emergency Civil Liberties Union is presently giving legal services to the Veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, Luce pointed out. The organization is presently being prosecuted because two of the active Brigade members admitted being members of the Communist party in the 1940's but disaffiliated then, he added.

After individuals or groups are judged to be included under the McCarran Act, they must register with the attorney general within 30 days or risk a $10,000 a day fine or five years in jail.

LUCE CITED the recent attack against Advance, an organization in New York City, composed of students from 15 to 23. The high school, college and post-college students were called a Communist front organization by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, Luce said.

Chief "subversive" activities are picketing for peace, opposing the segregation in Mississippi, opposing the McCarran Act and calling for the end of nuclear testing and negotiations on Berlin, Luce said.

Membership to Advance is open and financial support comes entirely from the students, Luce said.

Since Advance took a position on the desire for peace similar to that of the Communist party, it could be considered as following policy of the party, Luce said.

Advance does not have funds for legal counsel and has appealed to the Attorney General for aid to defend itself.

Luce said that no one has ever been conclusively proven to be a Communist under the McCarran Act.

Collegian, Inc. Accepting Applications

Collegian, Incorporated, publishers of The Daily Collegian, is accepting applications for the positions of editor and business manager for the coming year.

Those students who are selected will be responsible for the editorial and business operations of the newspaper for one year after their selection by the board.

Applications must be submitted on or before March 1, 1963. They should be sent to William E. Deibler, Sackett, University Park. Applicants will appear for a personal interview before the board on March 28.

Applicants must submit the following:

- Transcripts of their scholastic records at this University and other colleges and universities they may have attended.

- A letter of application including a full resume of qualifications for the office and an account of previous experience, reasons for seeking the office and plans for executing the office.

Applicants will be notified when they are to appear for personal interviews.

search groups. Elton F. Osborn vice president for research, will serve as director.

Osborn said the Institute will originate, coordinate and support inter-college research programs. It will also provide a means for more efficient use of major research equipment, such as the computation center.

Initially, five major research studies will come under the Institute's direction — Computation Center, Waste Water Reconversion and Conversion Research Project, Laboratory for Human Performance Research, Laboratory for Animal Behavior Research and the Ordnance Research Laboratory.

Osborn noted that the Institute will also stimulate support for research programs of applications to Pennsylvania's industry, natural resources and economic problems.

Panhel May Require Accuser To Appear in Judicial Cases

The Panhellenic Council heard a resolution last night requiring anyone reporting infractions of rules to appear before the judicial board and present charges to the accused.

The resolution is part of proposed constitutional changes.

The name of the group or person bringing charges against a sorority has previously been withheld in board meetings, Judith Walko, parliamentarian, said.

She explained that the revision was necessary because each sorority has the right to defend itself against all charges, and can only do so when those who have made the accusations are present.

The council also agreed to participate in a contest sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity to determine the sorority woman of the year. Each sorority will nominate one representative who will be given points on participation in Greek organizations, campus activities and scholarship.

The final selection will be made by representatives from the dean of women's office after interviewing the five finalists. Two trophies will be offered as awards. One will be given to the sorority and will rotate each year. The other will be presented to the winner.

Council also set the date for election of officers for Feb. 21. Applications are now available at the Hetzel Union desk and 129 Grange. They must be returned by Feb. 5 to the Panhel Office.

MRC Votes To Publish Handbook To Aid Incoming Freshmen Men

The Men's Residence Council voted recently to publish an informational handbook for incoming freshman men.

The handbook would be similar in purpose and content to "The Penn State Woman," published by the Association of Women Students. It will include pictures and descriptions of the five men's residence areas, the MRC, general residence hall living, activities and what to bring in the way of clothing and spending money, Louis Slawetsky, editor of the booklet, said.

The handbook would either be mailed out with the orientation guide or would be handed out at the counseling session during the summer, Slawetsky said.

THE COUNCIL also decided to support the "Funny Man" contest, sponsored by the sophomore class advisory board. Each participating dorm unit will submit a picture of the funniest face made by one of their residents and the 50 cents entrance fee to the Hetzel Union desk by Feb. 11. The contest will be run like the Prof Snarf contest. The pictures will be taped to glass jars in the HUB, and the votes will be counted by the amount of money dropped into the jar.

The winning dorm unit will get back all the money in their entrant's jar, and the rest of the money will go to the Board's scholarship fund.

SEMI-FINALS for the MRC ping pong tournament are now being held in the residence areas, John Mikulak, president, said. The area champions will compete in a playoff in the HUB in the middle of February.

1. My theory on looking for a job is—Play it big! Shoot for the top! Go straight to the prez for your interview.

2. Use your head, man. Have your dad set up appointments with some of the big shots he knows.

I don't know any presidents.

3. Beautiful! All you have to do is find a president who likes dogs. You'll have him eating out of your hand in no time.

I don't know an Elkhound from an Elk.

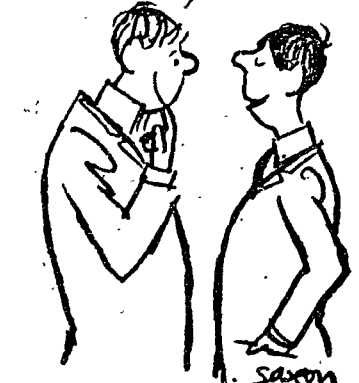

4. Frankly, I don't know what else to tell you. You've got a problem.

It's not as bad as it seems. My idea is to find out the name of the employment manager at the company I'm interested in. Write him a letter telling him my qualifications. Spell out my interests, marks. Simple as that.

5. A letter to the employment manager! Ho ho ho! You've a lot to learn.

Then how come I landed a great job at Equitable—an executive training spot that's interesting, pays a good salary and has a lot of promise for the future.

6. Say, could you set something up for me at Equitable?

I'm not the president, but I'll try.
