

SUE FORBES

PATRICIA HOWARD

New Froth Refused By Administrators

By ROCHELLE MICHAELS

Froth was refused a University charter yesterday until its constitution is rewritten to provide assurances of a magazine in good taste.

The Administrative Committee on Student Affairs which has the final authority in this matter met in closed session yesterday to consider reinstating a campus humor magazine. Last Wednesday, the Committee on Student Organizations had recommended the magazine be chartered.

ROBERT G. BERNREUTER, administrative committee chairman, issued the following statement:

"The Administrative Committee on Student Affairs is favorably inclined toward approving a charter for Froth if its constitution provides reasonable assurances for the publication of a magazine in good taste. Such a constitution should provide the Board of Directors with authority to select the editor and business manager, to formulate the general policies and procedures under which the magazine operates, and to exercise control of its fiscal operations."

Bernreuter commented that although these provisions are included in the constitution which his committee considered this morning, the Board of Directors had "too many restrictions on its authority, making it a group of mere figureheads."

As the constitution is now written, the senior board of Froth selects the editor and business manager, formulates policy and checks fiscal operations with the final approval of their actions coming from the Directors.

ADVISERS ARE the first persons to check the senior board activities. Any action which is not approved by the advisers can be appealed to the Director.

Bernreuter said he wanted to see the initial power for running the magazine vested in the Board of Directors because it acts as publisher of the magazine and is responsible for everything that is printed as well as financial obligations. The limited power of approval is not enough for a group with that much responsibility, he explained.

Bernreuter said that his committee's recommendations would be sent to Dean Wharton, chairman of the Undergraduate Student Government committee which wrote the new Froth constitution.

Last night Wharton said he would call a meeting of his committee Wednesday afternoon to consider Bernreuter's proposals.

"From my understanding of the recommendations, I think I am in full agreement with the Administrative committee," Wharton said.

"I think all three of those recommendations are pretty good," he continued, "and will provide for a better constitution."

WHEN WHARTON'S group rewrites the constitution, if it decides to do so, they must then submit the new document through the same process that this one has been through. First it goes to George L. Donovan, chairman of the Committee on Student Organizations, for investigation.

Donovan's committee may recommend chartering of Froth to Bernreuter's committee or decide that the charter application be rejected. The Administrative committee has final say on any recommendation Donovan's group may make.

Edelson Removed From Critical List

Steven Edelson (2nd-liberal arts-Rockville Centre, N.Y.) who was admitted to Geisinger Medical Center, Danville, last Tuesday is making rapid progress toward recovery, Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of Ritenour Health Center, said yesterday.

Edelson's illness was diagnosed on Friday as spinal meningitis.

Hospital officials reported that Edelson has been removed from the critical list and is convalescing, Dr. Glenn said yesterday. Edelson's parents, who had been with him in Danville, have returned to their home in New York.

PAT HURLEY

LINDA PAVIAN

NANCY SLEBER

MARGARET ANN THOMPSON

Strasbourg, Cologne Universities Plan Reciprocal Study Programs

By STEVE CIMBALA

The University's study abroad program may soon become a "reciprocal trade agreement" involving study here by French and German students, Ben Euwema, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said yesterday.

Euwema said the Universities of Strasbourg, France and Cologne, Germany, educational centers for University study abroad participants each spring, are working toward plans to send some of their students here for a period of study.

OFFICIALS of the universities are considering sending students to Penn State because participants in the study abroad program last spring were such "wonderful ambassadors," he said.

Officials at the Universities of Strasbourg and Cologne enthusiastically received last year's kick-off program and "were anxious to have more University students," Euwema said.

"These faculty members were particularly impressed by the students' willingness to work and their grasp of ideas and concepts," he added.

The study abroad program, initiated at the University last year, will send 116 students to the University of Cologne, Strasbourg and Salamanca, Spain, during the spring term. This group will leave the United States on March 25.

Dagobert DeLevie, director of the program, said the University's academic program was also favorably received in Europe last year, although it required special attention from the foreign universities.

SUCH CARE was required, DeLevie explained, because most American universities with study abroad programs emphasize language proficiency in their foreign studies.

The University program, however, stresses advanced studies in social, political, and economic fields, he said.

Under the University system, instruction (except for a specified language course) is given in English so that the student can devote his attention to course material without being hindered by language handicaps, DeLevie said.

Aside from topnotch formal classroom instruction, the program gives participants opportunities for close, personal observation of the tremendous changes occurring in Europe at the present time, DeLevie said.

LAST YEAR, students at the University of Cologne lived in the homes of German families and participated in field trips familiar-

(Continued on page six)

TIM Meeting

The meeting of the Town Independent Men's Council scheduled for last night was canceled due to the lack of a quorum.

BOCME Selects 6 Roto Finalists

After hours of deliberation, the Board of Collegian Male Editors chose six finalists Sunday evening for the BOCME-Pittsburgh Press Roto Magazine Campus Cover Girl Contest.

The six are Sue Forbes (5th-elementary education-Lewisburg), Patricia Howard (8th-secondary education-Chambersburg), Pat Hurley (4th-liberal arts-Philadelphia), Linda Pavian (5th-secondary education-Johnstown), Nancy Sleber (8th-elementary education-Herminie), and Margaret Ann Thompson (8th-elementary education-Pittsburgh).

The six finalists will be guests of the BOCME for dinner tomorrow night.

Seniors To Choose Class Gift

Four possible uses for the money in the Class of '63 Gift Fund were proposed by the Senior Class Advisory Board Sunday afternoon.

Up for the consideration of the senior class are a loan fund, a pavilion for Stone Valley, an art work for the proposed outdoor reading addition to Pattee Library and a bronze University seal to be sunk in front of Old Main.

The class has about $8,000 in its gift fund, Randy Carter, president, said.

The seal will be placed on the ballot as a yes or no choice since it will only cost about $1,000, Carter explained. If the majority of students favor a seal the remaining money will be devoted to the other suggestion receiving the largest number of votes. If the seal is defeated all the money will go to another suggestion, he explained.

The purpose of the seal would be to create a tradition that no one walks on it, Carter said.

The loan fund would be set up to aid needy students in completing either a bachelor or associate degree program. Those nearest graduation would be given preference, Carter said. A minimum of 2.00 All-University average would be required, he added.

The pavilion for Stone Valley would be used for picnics and other recreational activities. The proposed structure would consist of a concrete floor and a roof. This would be the first such building at the area.

The sculpture or art object was suggested by Ralph C. McComb, University Librarian. He said that the outdoor library addition is in the planning stages and that such an object could be part of the design.

Seniors will vote on these proposals at March graduation and at Spring registration, Carter said.

12 'Sing' Finalists Chosen

(See related stories on page 7)

Six winners in each of two categories—quartets and group choral singing—were chosen last night as the finalists in the Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Sing.

Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta and Delta Sigma Theta took the honors in sorority competition for quartets while Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Chi won in the fraternity division in the same category, Nancy Quigley, sing co-chairman, said.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities and Acacia, Alpha Gamma Rho and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternities won the three top honors in the preliminary group choral singing event, Miss Quigley said.

All 12 finalists will compete in the sing finals Friday evening. Miss Quigley said approximately 20 Greek organizations, both sorority and fraternity, entered the preliminaries.

The preliminary competitions began Sunday night in Sparks and Boucke, where they continued last night. The winning fraternities and sororities were selected last night by a different team of judges for each event.

Contestants in the "open" category will compete tomorrow night at 6:30 in 10 Sparks. They will be judged by Peter Gano (12th-music education-Allentown) and Louis Mitinger, music instructor.

Mil Ball Finalists

Five finalists for the Military Ball Queen were chosen late last night.

They are Constance Becker (8th-rehabilitation education-Williamsport), Joyce Brown (8th-elementary education-Philadelphia), Barbara Elser (11th-elementary education-Springfield), Susan Magness (8th-home economics-Claymont, Del.) and Ann Schilling (5th-elementary education-Ambler).