Coroner Terms Death Of Engineering Student Apparent Case of Suicide

The death of Arthur Derrick (12th-aerospace engineering-Newark, N.J.) at approximately 8 a.m. Thursday has been termed an "apparent suicide by hanging" by Centre County Coroner W. Robert Neff.

The incident marked the third suicide by a University student since the beginning of last fall term. A sophomore woman jumped to her death from the roof of a residence hall in the East halls area Sept. 23, and a junior died after jumping from a Pollock 'A' corridor window Nov. 24.

According to Neff, Derrick's body was found by Ellwood Kerkeslager (12th-electrical engineering-Jonestown), a residence hall counselor in an adjoining area. The coroner said the body was found hanging from a clothes closet bar in Derrick's room.

Two friends of Derrick, George Doherty (12th-agricultural and biological science-Wood-Ridge, N.J.) and Marc Apter (9th-electrical engineering-Union, N.J.) asked Kerkeslager to check Derrick's room because the latter hadn't been seen during the day.

Derrick was described by friends as a "good, hard-working" student, with no apparent scholastic problems, and as an "outstanding" student in the advanced Air Force ROTC program. He would have received his bachelor of science degree and a commission in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation next month.

Derrick was a member of the Arnold Air Society, the Institute of Aerospace Sciences and the Newman Club, Roman Catholic student organization. He was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Derrick, Newark, N.J. Before enrolling at the University he attended Newark Academy in Newark, N.J.

Alabama Governor Will Face Court

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge yesterday ordered defiant Gov. George Wallace into court next month for a legal showdown on the state sovereignty issue raised by the governor in his pledge to keep two Negroes out of a state university.

Asserting federal sovereignty, the Justice Department moved for an injunction against interference by Wallace with the enrollment of Negro students at the University of Alabama.

BY COURT ORDER, Miss Vivian J. Malone, 20, of Mobile is to become the second Negro ever admitted to the main campus at Tuscaloosa, and David M. McGlathery, 27, will attempt to enroll at the center in Huntsville, his hometown.

A governor "has no authority by 'interposition' or otherwise to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States," the Justice Department said.

U.S. District Judge Seybourn H. Lynne ordered Wallace to appear June 3 in Birmingham in order to show cause as to why he should not be barred by injunction from interfering with university integration.

The hearing will come a week before summer session registration.

"This action is brought by the United States in its sovereign capacity to safeguard the due administration of justice in its courts and the integrity of its judicial process," the federal complaint said.

The Justice Department quoted Wallace's pledge of last Tuesday to "bar the entrance of any Negro who attempts to enroll in the University of Alabama."

"I embody the sovereignty of this state," he said.

Wallace, who has repeatedly denounced federal courts, filed suit last Saturday in U.S. Supreme Court for an injunction against use of federal troops in Alabama racial troubles.

President Kennedy has stationed about 3,000 soldiers at two Alabama bases on a standby basis.

The youthful governor, often called "the fighting little judge," first defied a federal court in 1958 when he was ordered to turn over voter registration records to the civil rights commission.

Then a state circuit judge, Wallace refused to comply with an order from U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. at Montgomery.

IN A HEARING before Johnson, however, Wallace was cleared of a contempt citation because the judge said Wallace had complied with the court order "through devious means."

In his gubernatorial campaign, Wallace repeatedly declared he had defied a federal court and got away with it.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said in Washington that the court action was aimed at testing Wallace's announced position of "legal resistance and legal defiance" of federal courts.

Kennedy said federal officials welcomed Wallace's suit against troop use "because the courts are the proper forum for settling disputes of this sort."

Garvey Wins Title Of Miss Centre County

Centre County found a new queen last night, 20-year-old Kathleen J. Garvey.

Miss Garvey (5th-arts and letters-Pittsburgh) received the title before an enthusiastic audience at the Bellefonte Junior High School late last night.

Lois Piercy, Miss Centre County and Miss Pennsylvania of 1960, crowned the 1963 queen in the eighth annual county competition. The contest is an official Miss America Pageant elimination and was sponsored by the Bellefonte Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Garvey will receive a two-year gubernatorial scholarship worth $105 annually.

Other entrants were: Ruth Barzilowski, Virginia L. Campbell, Lynn Hall, Normandie Herritt, Barbara Krauth, Elizabeth Matz, Sharon McClatchy, Constance Mundy, Christine Nelson, Karen Salisbury, Karen Sheckler, Marcia Strawinski and Kathleen Watts.

Miss Garvey sang "To Keep My Love Alive" in the talent competition.

Among her other prizes, Miss Garvey was awarded a trophy, a tiara, a diamond ring, a suit, gown and swimsuit as well as an expense-paid trip to the Miss Pennsylvania contest in Chester in June.

The highest finishing non-college contestant, Constance Mundy, received a four-year senatorial scholarship from Sen. Daniel A. Bailey, R-Centre.

The runners-up received trophies and merchandise awards. All contestants received pageant bracelets.

A weekend of "culture," designed with student tastes in mind, is currently in progress on campus.

The Spring Arts Festival, sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government, began this afternoon and will continue through Sunday night.

TODAY'S SERIES of events will begin with a clothesline exhibition and art sale of student works from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the Hetzel Union terrace.

At various times during the art sale, there will be informal jazz concerts and performances by the Modern Dance Club and University Readers.

These activities will be moved to the HUB ballroom in the event of rain.

From noon to 5 p.m. on the HUB lawn, the Town Independent

Men's Council will sponsor a modern art "fence paint." TIM will supply everything but the talent needed to create an abstract painting. Both groups and individuals are eligible to compete for cash prizes.

The "fence paint" will be canceled in the event of rain.

Closing today's schedule, the Meditation Chapel Choirs will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. in Schwab. They will include Schubert's "Mass in G" and "Jepthe" by Carissimi in their program.

The festival will conclude tomorrow with two concerts. One, to be presented by the University Symphony Orchestra, will be held at 3 p.m. in Schwab. The program will include works by Mozart, Smetana, Korngold and Klaus.

CLIMAXING the entire festival will be a student artists series, scheduled for 8 p.m. tomorrow on the lawn in front of Old Main (postponed to the same time Monday in the event of inclement weather).

During the program, students will perform in the areas of classical and contemporary arts. The Miss Penn State finalists and members of Cwens, sophomore women's honor society, will serve as usherettes.

There will be no charge for any of the activities held during the festival. Donation boxes will be placed at the various events, however, to enable students to contribute to the building fund for the proposed auditorium.

Complete calendars of events for the Spring Arts Festival (which also includes a number of art and architecture exhibits in various campus galleries) are now available at the HUB desk.

Summer Collegian

Subscriptions to The Summer Collegian are now available at the Collegian office in the basement of Sackett. Ten issues cost 50 cents and the paper will be mailed to your vacation home.

Dean Says Resignations Within Normal Bounds

The four resignations from members of the physics faculty are not considered alarming, Ferdinand G. Brickwedde, dean of the College of Chemistry and Physics, said yesterday.

The number is not above that normally occurring in annual faculty turnover, he explained.

BRICKWEDDE stated that approximately 10 to 15 per cent of the faculty is expected to resign each year and the total of four resignations does not exceed this percentage.

Turnover in the Department of Physics has, he said, been rather low during the past few years compared to that of some of the other University departments.

Faculty members of any calibre can be expected to resign, he said. Also, members of higher quality often accept more lucrative positions at other universities, although the University "doesn't like to lose good men."

"We try to keep them (good men) here," he said, "but they can't be blamed for bettering themselves."

A permanent head for the department is still being sought to replace John J. Gibbons, acting head, Brickwedde stated. Gibbons has held the position of acting head of the department of Physics since John A. Sauer resigned the post in May, 1962.

He said department officials are seeking replacements for the resigning faculty members, adding that several individuals have already been interviewed.

Both Raymond Pepinsky, research professor of physics, and John A. Sauer, professor of physics, were renowned in their fields of specialization and were very capable men, he said.

He did not reveal the names of the other two resigning faculty members.

All but one of the four professors resigning have taught courses at the University, he stated. However, he denied that the loss of those four men would affect the scheduling of courses.

Pepinsky will be allowed to take the Groth Institute, which he originated and developed on this campus, with him to Florida Atlantic University.

THE INSTITUTE is a well-known information center for the solid-state sciences and employs high-speed computers to collect and index its data.

PROJECT BIRMINGHAM solicitors collected more than $500 yesterday to send to The Rev. Martin Luther King for use in the Alabama integration movement. The solicitors said people were generally very responsive. The biggest contributor donated a check for $75. The drive continues today and possibly tomorrow.
