

Weather Forecast:
Partly Sunny,
Milder

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Improving Study
Abroad Selection
--See Page 2

VOL. 64, No. 33

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 9, 1963

FIVE CENTS

Buckeyes Host Lions In TV Tilt

By IRA MILLER
Assistant Sports Editor
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 8 — Penn State makes its first visit to Big 10 territory in three years as it meets Rose Bowl-minded Ohio State tomorrow before an anticipated crowd of 83,000 in Ohio Stadium and an Eastern television audience. Buckeye coach Woody Hayes, one eye warily cast towards Pasadena, has said he will use the game to experiment for the remaining conference clashes against Northwestern and Michigan.

Though his team is 4-1-1, Hayes has been more than disappointed with a sluggish offense that has netted just eight touchdowns all season.

Ohio State, generally known for its offensive prowess, has been winning on defense this year while gaining an average of just 237.5 yards a game.

Lions Ready
The Lions held a spirited workout on arrival at Ohio Stadium this afternoon and appeared ready for battle, though they had lost considerable practice time this week because of the bad weather. Among other things, State would like to atone for its poor TV showings of last season when its only losses were before the magic eye.

Hayes' offense problems aren't going to be helped any by the fact that fleet-footed halfback Paul Warfield is sidelined by injury and probably won't play. He is OSU's second

(Continued on page four)

DISCUSS ROTC PROGRAM—Maj. Gen. Van H. Bond, commanding general of the 21st U. S. Army Corps, discusses ROTC program at the University with President Eric A. Walker. The 21st U. S. Army Corps has responsibility for Reserve and ROTC units in the Middle Atlantic states and General Bond's visit was part of a military inspection and briefing session with University officials.

Penn State SDX Offers Resolution Against Regulation

By TONY FOGGIO
City Editor
Special to The Daily Collegian
Norfolk, Va. — A resolution opposing the Federal Communications Commission attempt to regulate the amount of advertising carried on broadcasting stations will be presented today to the Sigma Delta Chi national convention here. The resolution will be submitted by the Penn State chapter of the national journalistic society. The draft of the resolution specifies that regulation of broadcast advertising "would give the FCC the right to dictate to a broadcast station the manner in which it may arrange its programs."

First Step
"Such a policy would constitute a first step toward censorship in contravention of the First Amendment and in violation of Section 326 of the Communications Act," the resolution reads. The section, known as the anti-censorship section of the Communications Act, prohibits the FCC from exercising any control other than allocating frequencies or channels.

Chamberlain and Foglio will submit the resolution with chapter president Stephen Monheimer to the national convention business session this morning.

Omens Favorable
Informal conversations with both professional and student convention leaders indicate that the resolution will be adopted by the convention. Theodore Kopp, president-elect of the society, said yesterday that the resolution stands a good chance of gaining the support of the 600-member convention.

More Threats
She said the guards let her dress and rejoin other prisoners at the camp, in a woods about 12 miles outside Saigon, only after warning her she would be tortured again in the afternoon.

But the sound of guns and warplanes intervened. The government announced the state of martial law imposed with the coup has ended throughout South Viet Nam. A curfew order and censorship of news dispatches were lifted on Thursday.

Reliable sources said Tran Van Kham, a younger brother of the widowed former first lady Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, is under arrest in Saigon. He had only recently accepted a high political security post in Diem's administration.

A grenade exploded at the foot of a Saigon bridge near an army checkpoint Thursday night and slightly injured two soldiers.

University Enrolls 35,000 in Fall

The University reported a total enrollment of 35,945 for the fall term yesterday.

Included in the total are 25,543 students enrolled for resident and non-resident credit work, an increase of nearly 2,000 over the 23,584 of a year ago. Robert G. Brenreuter, dean of admissions and registrar, said.

The enrollment study, just completed, also shows 18,621 students registered for credit work here, while the remainder of the 22,847 students enrolled for resident credit courses are attending the commonwealth campuses.

West Convoys Enter Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The three Western powers sent convoys along the disputed highway to Berlin yesterday to test Soviet intentions, and all got through without trouble.

Lt. Ivan Scott Lewis, 24, officer commanding a British convoy from the Prince of Wales's own regiment, said on arrival in West Berlin: "It was noticeable that the Russian attitude was much easier."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned this week that the three Western powers must respect what he called Soviet control procedures on the autobahn from West Germany to Berlin. He predicted there would be more holdups along the 110-mile highway unless these Soviet rules of the road are respected.

The British convoy of eight vehicles and 43 men was the last to reach Berlin. First to cross from West Germany with a U.S. convoy of six vehicles and eight men. It was followed by a French convoy of 10 vehicles and 47 men.

Fate of Request For ETV Here Remains Uncertain

The fate of the request to operate Channel 3 from a Clearfield County location for educational purposes, filed this summer by the University, remained undecided yesterday.

John Kushman, administrative assistant to Federal Communications Commission Chairman William Henry, said in a telephone interview that a decision is now likely before the month ends.

It had been announced earlier that a decision might be reached at an executive session of the commission Oct. 28. Kushman said that meeting was cancelled because of the chairman's conflicting commitments.

The meeting has been rescheduled for the week of Nov. 17.

Drop-in Question
To be decided by the commission before a ruling can be made on the University's request is this question: Should an additional VHF channel be "dropped-in" at Johnstown?

If the commission votes in the affirmative, plans for the ETV facility could be shelved. The University has selected a probable location for a transmitter and is known to be considering the outlines of a program schedule.

There are several rulings the commission could hand down: ●No "drop-in" could be allowed. This was the decision reached when the question was last considered, several months ago. This would clear the way for probable approval of the University's request.

●A channel could be "dropped-in." If this were the decision of the commission, it would then have to vote whether such a station would be Channel 3 or Channel 8. A decision to add Channel 8 to the approved frequencies would still leave the possibility the University might win its long fight to provide educational television programming on a VHF channel in the central Pennsylvania area.

Should the commission decide to add Channel 3 at Johnstown, there is a possibility the University could again go into the courts, challenging the ruling. Such a step was taken previously but failed.

In the event all alternatives were exhausted, the University could ask permission to operate UHF Channel 69 for educational purposes. This channel has been reserved for such purposes for a number of years.

Reduction of B47 Forces To Take Place

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced yesterday a cutback of nearly 20 per cent in its B47 nuclear bomber force stationed in Europe.

The action may be followed by some reductions in fighter squadrons in other U.S. air units in that area.

The Defense Department said 19 of the aging six-jet B47s will be brought back from Britain by July 1, leaving 80 of the planes in Britain and Spain at least for the time being.

At the same time, 22 propeller-driven KB50 tanker refueling planes will be retired from service in England.

Two of four bases used by the Strategic Air Command in Britain will be returned to the Royal Air Force. They are Fairford in Gloucestershire, and Greenham Common in Berkshire.

About 2,650 American Air Force men are affected, the Pentagon said. There are about 25,000 U.S. military men in Britain along with about 35,000 of their dependents.

No Less Power
The action will not mean any reduction in U.S. nuclear striking power covering Europe, the Defense Department said.

The VHF facility would become the central Pennsylvania link in the proposed Commonwealth Educational Network. The network, initially envisioned as having five stations, would bring educational television to all but the most isolated homes in the Commonwealth.

Channel Reserved
Its establishment was speeded last summer when the FCC reserved the required channels for educational purposes. Channel 3 in Clearfield County was included in this action. But before it can begin functioning, permission must be obtained to construct and operate a transmitter. It is this permission the University awaits.

Under legislation approved this year, the University expects to receive part—up to $300,000—of the funds required to put a station on the air. Both federal and state monies are involved. Allocations of available funds is being held up by the lack of final word from the FCC.

1st License Approved in Wheat Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S.-Soviet deadlock over terms for the sale of surplus American wheat was broken last night when the government put it up to American grain merchants to make their own deals.

The Americans lost no time in bidding for the $500 million worth of Soviet bloc business, and the first sale was signaled when the Commerce Department granted a license for the shipment of 100,000 tons of wheat to Communist Hungary.

In Minneapolis, Cargill Inc. revealed that it had received this initial license. A spokesman said the deal involved about 3.7 million bushels of soft winter wheat valued at $6.5 million, minus transportation charges.

The company said the transaction was within the confines of the government agreement, namely that at least 50 per cent of the shipments would move in American vessels, according to their availability. First shipments are expected to go forward late this month.

The announcement was made shortly after it was revealed that the United States and Russia had reached agreement on a framework for negotiations for the sale of four million tons of wheat to Russia and her European satellites.

Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. said the dealer who obtained the license certified that one-half of the grain will be carried in American ships.

The deal with Hungary was a $7.6-million transaction, including the cost of delivery. The arrangement between the United States and the Soviet Union provided that the actual price of the wheat and shipping costs would be determined in negotiations between U.S. grain dealers and a Russian grain purchasing team.

There were strong indications that the Russians would work out agreements with the private American grain dealers on the actual price and other terms.

A Commerce Department spokesman said no applications for shipment of wheat to Russia were pending but he said at least one grain dealer already had started negotiations with Russian representatives.

Eight Peace Corps Officials On Campus To Hunt Talent

By MEL ZIEGLER
Penn State and the Peace Corps, old friends since the latter's start, are together once again.

With 50 university graduates as veterans of the army of peace-makers, members of the Washington staff of the Peace Corps are on campus for the third straight year to seek interested persons for its ranks.

A staff of eight officials, headed by James Boughton, deputy director of Near Eastern and Southern Asian programs, will be on hand throughout the week until Nov. 16.

MME. NGO DINH NHU

Mme Nhu Claims No Extra Funds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu spoke yesterday for the first time on the subject of her personal finances, and denied she has funds abroad.

"They are all liars," she told The Associated Press, "those people who say I have a villa and money outside Viet Nam."

The former first lady of South Viet Nam, in seclusion at a private home here since the coup that overthrew the regime headed by her brother-in-law and husband and cost their lives as well, spoke to a reporter by telephone.

"All that I have is in Viet Nam—my home at Dalat that I was preparing as a nice place to retire to."

A report from Washington on Thursday quoted a "qualified source close to" the Nhu family as saying she is a "clever businesswoman" with ample resources in other countries, including a villa on the French Riviera.

"The story that I have property abroad is an invention of the former member of Viet Nam's Embassy in Washington."

She said she was referring to Ngo To Dat, former first secretary of the embassy, who resigned along with her ambassador father, Tran Van Chuong, last August in protest over treatment of Buddhists by the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

As to where she will get money to support herself and her four children, Mrs. Nhu replied: "I do not know. I shall see when I talk to my brothers-in-law Ngo Dinh Luyen, former Viet name ambassador to Great Britain, and Thuc." The latter is Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, now caring for her three younger children in Rome.

NBC Cancels Telecast of Blue-Gray Clash

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. said yesterday the network had decided against televising the Blue and Gray football game at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 28 after being advised Negro players could not participate.

A spokesman said the action was decided upon after consultation with sponsors of the scheduled telecast — Gillette Co. and Chrysler Corp.

The spokesman said the Blue and Gray Association informed NBC that Negro players would not be eligible to participate in the game.

The teams for the Blue and Gray game are composed of top college players chosen from schools in the North and the South on an all-star basis.

U.S. Insists On Access Into Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk let the Soviet Union know yesterday that the United States will continue to insist upon free access to West Berlin.

Describing as serious the recent incidents on the autobahn highway connecting Berlin with West Germany, Rusk expressed belief that Soviet Premier Khrushchev shares this view.

In his first news conference since Aug. 16, Rusk criticized Congress for its deep cuts in foreign aid and suggested that the tendency "to legislate foreign policy" denies the President the flexibility he needs to protect U.S. interests.

Viet Nam Coup
On the recent coup d'etat in South Viet Nam, Rusk said that during the last period of the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem there was a "growing gap between the government and the people."

The United States hopes that the country's new leaders will consolidate their efforts and "get on with the job" of fighting communism, he said.

Discussing the recent Berlin crisis, Rusk conceded that the incidents, in which American army convoys were held up on the autobahn, sometimes look artificial because they involve only questions of procedure. But that's not the real issue, he added.

"The point is not whether a particular tailgate is lowered," he explained, referring to a Soviet request that the Americans lower the tailgate of the vehicles to allow a head count of troops.

Access Fundamental
That access, he said, is utterly fundamental, and warned that Soviet insistence upon changing control procedures on the highway "could be converted into a power to interrupt access to Berlin."

Rusk conceded he has no ready explanation for the Berlin incident.

Discussing Viet Nam, he rejected Communist North Vietnamese overtures aimed at "neutralizing South Viet Nam" and said he suspects that what the Communists really want is to let North Viet Nam remain Communist while bringing South Viet Nam into the bloc.

"To negotiate on far-reaching changes in South Viet Nam without far-reaching changes in North Viet Nam seems to be not in the cards," Rusk declared.

Negotiations Indicated
Reliable U.S. sources have reported indications that the late Ngo Dinh Nhu, brother and chief adviser of the late President Diem, had been negotiating with North Viet Nam Communists on a neutralization plan. He was reported working through Polish members of the International Control Commission in Saigon.

On congressional action in slashing foreign aid Rusk argued that, "The large and dangerous questions are still in front of us. There is no détente relaxation. This is no time to quit, there is too much unfinished business ahead of us."

He said this country is spending $50 billion a year on defense and, "I do not see why we can't spend 10 per cent of that, if necessary, to get the job done without war."

Diplomats Find Roles Demanding

The role of the American ambassador is becoming more difficult each year. He is subjected to greater pressures and greater demands as a result of the expansion of United States activities abroad, the growth of new international agencies and the increase in the number of new countries.

This was the consensus of the more than 60 ambassadors, both active and retired, as well as career foreign service officers who ended a three-day closed conference here yesterday.

The meeting centered on discussions of the role of the American ambassador in a time of rapid change.

Chairman States Role
Thorsten V. Kalijarvi, professor of international and public affairs, who served as conference chairman, said the group concluded that the role of the American ambassador should remain the same—that of being "Mr. U. S. A. abroad," and of coordinating and directing all U.S. activities abroad.

Freed Prisoners Cite Viet Torture

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese freed from concentration camps set up by Ngo Dinh Diem's regime told yesterday of torture on naked bodies, of blinding, and of mutilation.

Scores of students of both sexes declared that inquisitors forced them to drink soapy water until their intestines had poured blood.

A high school youth, Nguyen Van, was reported beaten to death.

Blinded Prisoners
Some prisoners were blinded by torturers seeking to force out information about Buddhist and student movements against Diem and his adviser-brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu who headed the secret police.

Fingers were chopped off others, the Vietnamese said.

Miss Hoang Thi Dong, 29, a pretty typist, told with an embarrassed smile of her ordeal in the custody of the secret police last Friday, only a few hours before the outbreak of the coup that destroyed Diem.

Confined with Girls
She said she was taken from a cell like room where she was confined with six other girls and six men.

"They stripped me, tied me over a bench, choked me with water and a towel and beat me until I was unconscious," she said.

A Buddhist employed at the British Embassy, Miss Dong said that her treatment when she denied charges that she was a Communist and that she had served as a courier for Buddhist documents smuggled to foreign correspondents, the United Nations fact-finding mission and the U.S. Information Agency.

More Threats
She said the guards let her dress and rejoin other prisoners at the camp, in a woods about 12 miles outside Saigon, only after warning her she would be tortured again in the afternoon.

But the sound of guns and warplanes intervened. The government announced the state of martial law imposed with the coup has ended throughout South Viet Nam. A curfew order and censorship of news dispatches were lifted on Thursday.

Reliable sources said Tran Van Kham, a younger brother of the widowed former first lady Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, is under arrest in Saigon. He had only recently accepted a high political security post in Diem's administration.

A grenade exploded at the foot of a Saigon bridge near an army checkpoint Thursday night and slightly injured two soldiers.

The University reported a total enrollment of 35,945 for the fall term yesterday.

Included in the total are 25,543 students enrolled for resident and non-resident credit work, an increase of nearly 2,000 over the 23,584 of a year ago. Robert G. Brenreuter, dean of admissions and registrar, said.

The enrollment study, just completed, also shows 18,621 students registered for credit work here, while the remainder of the 22,847 students enrolled for resident credit courses are attending the commonwealth campuses.

The enrollment of graduate students increased from 2,131 a year ago to 2,366 this fall.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.

The Journal draws contributors from all over the country.

In the October issue are works of Dorothy Roberts, poet; Herbert Weisinger, Michigan State University comparative literature director; and Frederick J. Hoffman, English department chairman at the University of California at Riverside.

Among local contributors in the October issue are J. Mitchell Morse, professor of English, and Wilfred T. Jewkes, associate professor of English.